Roth Honored For Lifetime Service To Dairy

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) - When you have spent a lifetime in one industry, you have seen many changes. Harry Roth, Atlantic Breeders general manager before the merger into Genex, is such a man for the AI industry. Roth will be honored at a reception at the Farm and Home Center today at noon for his work in the dairy industry.

In a recent interview, Roth said many things have changed since he started with the AI industry in 1956. At that time there were five AI organizations in Pennsylvania.

"In the first 25 years of AI, we had to convince ourselves that AI was better than a bull on the farm," Roth said. "The last 25 years after we started to do progeny testing and keeping only the best bulls is when the genetic progress was made.

"In early years, if a cow milked 50 pounds a day, she was considered very good. Today, two-year-old cows exceed 100 pounds of milk per day. And now the genetics are built into these young cows so that they stay in the herd for a long time too.

"The '60's were the most critical to the industry, and we may be going through a time like it right

PennAg, PAPA Announce Merger

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — George Kishbaugh, president of PennAg Industries Association (PennAg), and Duane Hobbs, president of the Pennsylvania Agronomic Products Association (PAPA), recently signed a merger agreement that will formally bring the two organizations together effective July 1.

This merger culminates a year of discussions and follows the approval of both memberships.

"Merging the two organizations will create synergy and help agribusiness in Pennsylvania to become as strong as possible," according to Kishbaugh. He noted that this merger is a first step in the restructuring of PennAg, part of a long-range effort to unite all of the state's agribusinesses.

"We are delighted to be joining forces to better serve our members," said Hobbs. "We look for-

Ayrshire Breeders Hold Convention In Lancaster

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — About 175 people this week attended the national convention of the Ayrshire Breeders Association at the Willow Valley Resort in southern Lancaster.

The convention included a sale scheduled for 12:30 p.m. today at the Lampeter Fairgrounds, selection of a national princess Friday night, and an annual meeting and awards luncheon. There was also a convention banquet, youth awards breakfast held Friday morning, after deadline, and a number of tours to area farms with Ayrshires.

The association also announced the results of its election of directors and officers.

John Reed Rodgers, of Belleville, was re-elected president; David Patrick, of Woodbine, Md., was re-elected vice president; and Barbara Spoon, of Broken Arrow, Okla., was re-elected director-at-large.

According to the association, 523 ballots were mailed and 163 returned, in the election process.

In other election results, Bonnie Wentworth, of Quarryville, was elected to another three-year term as director for Region I; Mary

Moyers Tackle Complexities, Mysteries Of Dairying

FRYSTOWN (Berks Co.) — Although Ralph Moyer has been a dairy producer all his life, there are some aspects about farming that remain a mystery.

Why, he wonders, if he feeds all his milking animals the same way, cares for them identically, and treats them the same way are there some cows that produce 30,000 pounds of milk and others producing only 20,000?

Another mystery that stumps him: Last year the corn was planted into wet, muddy ground, and still he was able to harvest a small portion with 175 bushels and others at 125 bushels or more. This year the corn was planted into cool, dry ground — and some of it is spotty and looks stunted.

But Ralph understands a great deal about the complexities, nonetheless. With the animals that milk 30,000 pounds, genetics play a crucial role. For them, "everything went right," he said at an interview this week at his farm. They had no foot or teat problems. They were healthy.

As for the ground that is yielding 175-bushel per acre corn: it's the best ground Moyer has, but only measures ¾ of an acre on the side of the pond. Most of the difficult soil, he noted, is the shaley soils, hilly areas, some with clay bottoms.

In the early '90s, Ralph Moyer and his family were honored with a Dairy of Distinction Award for farm upkeep and beautification. The farm is still in tip-top shape — and Moyer continues to recognize the complexities of turning out a product that the consumer demands.

Ralph farms with his wife, Crystal, and their children Alicia, 14; Jessica, 12; and Kyle, 10. Ralph employs one full-time hired man, his brother, Mark, who helps with feeding and milking. Included on

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds remained only fair at best. Seller offerings were fully adequate to ample and were generally more readily available on the larger sizes. Live supplies were moderate to heavy; weights were mostly desirable to heavier than desired. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than truckiot asking prices were unchanged at 58 to 72 cents. Trade sentiment was cautiously steady. In the parts complex, all items were at least adequate. Interest had developed at some plants for the upcoming three day holiday lengenthed weekend and several items were being held with increased confidence.

National Egg Market
ATLANTA, GA
JUNE 18, 1997

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were unchanged to higher for the large sizes in the Southeast and Midwest, generally unchanged elsewhere. The market tone was steady to firm with the large sizes in the strongest position. Demand covered the full range and was mostly moderate. Retail specials and increased resort business provided the most active movement. Supplies were tight to adequate for the large sizes, and light sizes were generally adequate. Breaking stock supplies were about adequate under an at least steady trade sentiment. Offerings of spent hens were adequate for full plant schedules.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

99 YEARS AGO . . .

At 1:00 A.M. on June 27, 1898, Joshua Slocum arrived in Newport, Rhode Island, in Spray, a yawl converted from a sloop rig. He was "three years, two months, and 46,000 miles from his last contact with the United States." Slocum had circumnavigated the globe, making him the first person to sail around the world alone. On the last lap of his journey, off the coast of Brazil, Slocum encountered a U.S. navy ship, the Oregon, which inquired whether he'd seen any Spanish men-of-war ships. (He hadn't.) This was Slocum's first news of the Spanish-American War, declared soon after the sinking of the Maine in February 1898.

There's no one on earth like a sailor at sea.

– Anonymous

TIP OF THE WEEK

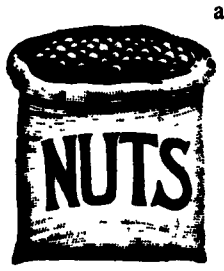
SOPA CASTILLA (SPANISH SOUP)

- 8 cups beef consommé
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup crushed almonds
- 2 cups toasted croutons
- 1/4 cup slivered almonds, toasted
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese



Heat the consommé. Add the olive oil to the crushed almonds, mixing well, then stir the mixture into the consommé. Pour into six heat-proof bowls; top with croutons, slivered almonds, and cheese; and then brown briefly under the broiler.

Makes 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

When wood sorrel or clover contract their leaves, rain is coming.

When ropes shorten and twist, it's a sign of rain.

Rain from the east: wet two days at least.

Enough blue sky in the west for a Dutchman's breeches gives the storm just half an hour.

OPINION

About Rapids And Whirlpools

Perhaps it is fitting that June is both Dairy Month and Rivers Month in Pennsylvania.

There are shared lessons for those who choose to dairy farm and those who choose to handle a boat in a river.

All rivers can be described in terms of pools separated by rapids.

At those places where fast water meets slow water, there are whirlpools along the edge where the different waters meet.

In constantly turbulant water, those with their oars in the water must constantly shift their position in order to keep their boat from sinking.

The dairy industry is like a river, not only in that there are "pools," but because the industry also has every type of "water" that a river can offer.

Those in the dairy industry should be very aware of constantly turbulant water.

But all who navigate any kind of "ship" in any kind of "waters" should be reminded that there is a difference between the turbulance caused by fast rapids between pools and that caused from the downward twisting of a whirpool.

Those who are indeed running the rapids will do well to watch ahead for rocks, and change course with enough power to propel the craft to its next safe position, to take full advantage of the forces of the river.

It requires a steady concentration and an oar in hand ready to use. But it can be very enjoyable.

Those who find themselves locked in a whirlpool are well advised to set a tangential course away from the center and paddle hard for the edge — either into the mainstream, or further into the backwater.

Some people don't seem to know when they are in fast water or a whirlpool.

One good way to tell is how much effort is required to stay on course.

In a rapids, the effort is constant, but not continuous, with periods of effort marked by intermittent and engergy recharging rests.

In a whirlpool, the effort can either be minimal — the force of the water just keeps the craft going around and around and farther down — or extremely difficult — fighting against a current continuously, never gaining, with the best possible outcome being maintaining position.

Probably the best possible pieces of advice to boaters are: always scout the fast waters before deciding to shoot them; and when the loss of control seems imminent, head for shore.

Now Is The Time

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Dispose Of Plastics Correctly

Leon Ressler, Lancaster County sustainable agricultural extension agent, states there is more waste plastic on today's farms than ever.

Plastic bale wraps, silage bags, plastic mulch, trickle irrigation tubing, and plastic barrels will quickly clutter your farm if not disposed of regularly.

Resource recovery incinerators that are located in many counties provide a cost effective way to solve this pollution on the farm. These facilities burn wastes at 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit, eliminating most of the toxic waste produced by open fires. Additionally, the exhaust gases are injected with a lime slurry to remove acidic gases. The exhaust then enters a fabric filter baghouse to remove the particulate matter.

While there is a per-ton tipping fee to dispose of waste at the facility, considering the labor savings on the farm, neighbor relations and pollution prevented, it is a very cost effective solution to trash disposal on the farm.

As we make management decisions, we need to factor in the cost of proper disposal methods for inputs used and waste generated. We must continue to be good stewards of the environment.

To Monitor Feed

Feed is a major cost in producing animals. It is important to maintain an adequate supply and quality of feed. Thus, it is important to work with your feed company, broker, or supplier to lock in supplies and prices.

With the trading of puts and calls on the futures market, hedging feed costs have become less riskier and perform more like price insurance. Contact an experienced broker to explore ways the futures market may be used in feed cost management.

Whenever possible, buy in bulk to take advantage of bulk discounts. Shop and negotiate for favorable feed prices. You need to be a quality control manager.

Be sure you are receiving the quality and weight you paid for. Collect representative samples for moisture and nutrient analyses. Also, be sure to draw additional samples from each delivery. Accurately identify and label these samples, including date and type of feed or ingredient. Store them for future testing should a problem occur such as poor performance, residues, etc.

To Consider Custom-Mixed TMRs

Custom mixed TMRs (total mixed rations) is a new service that is making its way onto the list of custom services a farmer may use, according to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County dairy extension agent.

These custom services allow the farmer to cut operating costs, meet labor demands, and reduce the cost of investing in expensive equipment. Custom mixed TMRs may be an additional source of income for larger farmers to help defray equipment investment costs. It also helps to reduce labor demands and investment costs for smaller farms.

Small farmers have the opportunity to share the economy of scale of the larger farmer, such as bulk purchases and services of a competent nutritionist. Custom mixed rations could be delivered daily to neighboring farms and distributed directly into the bunk or dumped on a pad.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Cherish your visions and your dreams as they are the children of your soul, the blueprint of your ultimate achievements."

FARM FORUM

Editor:

It is hard to believe that my year as dairy princess is coming to a close. I have had many educational experiences as well as a lot of fun in this past year. Some of my duties included speaking engagement at schools, malls, stores, farm and non-farm meetings. I rode through many parades, did several radio spots and wrote newspaper articles as well. In doing all of this I feel I have educated the public on the importance of the Dairy Industry. I also feel I have brought a sense of awareness to the public just how important dairy products are in our everyday lives.

It has been a great honor to have received this position and be of service to the public in the four county area. I'd like to thank the SUN Dairy Princess Committee, the Dairy Maids, the Dairy Misses, my family and friends for helping me to have a successful year. I will soon turn the reigns over to the new Dairy Princess and I hope that she will enjoy her role as much as I did.

DEPEND UPON ME
June 22, 1996

Background Scripture:
II Timothy 4:1-18
Devotional Reading:
Philippians 4:8-20

I'm old enough to remember those delightful Burma Shave signs that used to grace our highways. My favorite is:

John said his car couldn't skid
This monument shows
It could and did!

There's a lot of wisdom that I've found in graveyard epitaphs. Some years ago Charles L. Wallis put together a book of epitaphs, Stories on Stone. One of his stories was about U.S. President John Tyler who wrote the following epitaph for his favorite horse:

Here lies the body of my good horse. The General. For twenty years he bore me around the circuit of my practice, and in all that time he never made a blunder. Would that his master could say the same.

MOTTO TO LIVE BY

I can't think of a more desirable epitaph than the words of II Timothy 4:6,7: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith." Nor is there a better motto by which to live my life.

Notice that the satisfaction of the writer is found in his efforts, not the obvious results. He has fought the good fight and finished the race, but he doesn't say he has won either. Keeping the faith, he has continued to fight and run and he leaves to God the outcome. For despite what may or may not seem to be the results of his efforts, he already knows that his reward will be in keeping the faith. "Henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, will award to me on that Day . . ." (4:8).

The other day, in looking through some boxes of memorabilia, I found a little card that used to lie beneath the glass top of the desk in my study in Mohnton, Pennsylvania, when I was pastor there. It reads:

I am called —
Not to be successful in my ministry,
But to be faithful in my witness
That will be success enough.

A REMINDER!

If I remember correctly, it was a thought that came to me decades ago during a period of prayer and meditation. I put it on my desk as a reminder against the daily seduction of worldly success. I would like to think that I have fairly consistently held that ideal before me, but I would be considerably less than honest in claiming that I always did. It is very difficult for ministers — and others — not to be bitten by the popularity bug.

The writer of II Timothy warns against this: "For the time is coming when the people will not endure sound teaching, but having itching ears they will accumulate for themselves teachers to suit their own likings, and will turn away from listening to the truth and wander into myths" (4:3,4). I have known for a long time that the surest way to "success" in the ministry is to tell people what they want to hear. It also works for business people and politicians.

Yet, God does not call any one us — pastors and lay people alike — to be "successful" as the world defines it, but "faithful." The writer of II Timothy is feeling abandoned: "For Demas, in love with this present world, has deserted me and gone to Thessalonika. . ." (4:10). The real test of life is to be faithful to God, to be the kind of person who says to the Lord and means it, "Depend upon me!"

The Althouses will walk in the footsteps of Paul and John of Revelation, leading a tour to Turkey next Oct. 17-Nov. 2. For information: "Turkish Delight," 4412 Shenandoah Ave., Dallas, TX 75205/(214) 521-2522.)

When we take your milk to market, you take home a lot more than just money.

Dairylea's milk marketing network stretches from Maine to Ohio to Maryland, providing a market for your milk and competitive prices. But that's not all, because there's value added too.

In addition to paying our farmer members an average premium of 30 cents per hundredweight, no one else can offer the wide array of programs and services available exclusively from Dairylea. We focus our efforts on developing resources that can help generate more revenue or achieve real cost savings for you. With our help, the average farmer can also save up to 40 cents per hundredweight.

So take action today. Call us toll-free at 800/654-8838 and find out more about Dairylea.

Raising Expectations

Forget everything you've heard about compact tractors.

MF 1200 Series Tractors and implements perform way beyond their size and price. Precise lawn mowing. Heavy duty weed and brush clearing. Serious gardening. Landscaping. Materials handling. Trenching. Even light field work. These tractors excel at jobs that used to require big, expensive, fuel-thirsty tractors and implements.

Standard features include water-cooled, 3-cylinder, diesel engines, 3-point hitch and high-capacity auxiliary hydraulics, and rear PTO. Mid-PTO is also standard on the MF 1205, 1215, 1220 and 1230. Choices include ag or turf tires, and a huge selection of implements and attachments.

Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders Approve Economic Impact Project

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders has authorized production of a professional information video and related materials to highlight the economic importance of the dairy industry to the commonwealth.

"While the direct economic contribution of dairying through farm sales of dairy products is $1.4 billion, the total contribution is much higher," according to Don Schriver, co-chair of the Stakeholders' Economic Education Task force which recommended the project.

"The Task Force felt strongly that there is a need to highlight the multiplier effect that individual dairy farms have on their communities."

Similarly, farm sales of all agricultural enterprises amount to $5.2 billion, and the combined output of all industries making up the food and agricultural enterprise of the commonwealth totals nearly $40 billion.

Schriver is CEO for Milk Marketing Inc., a major marketer of milk in western Pennsylvania.

Laura England, public relations manager with Land O' Lakes Eastern Operations in Southampton, will chair a committee of communications and education professionals to oversee the production of these materials.

Each of the 10,800 dairy farms in Pennsylvania is an integral part of the total picture, paying taxes to local communities, providing both on and off farm employment and helping rural Pennsylvania to thrive.

In support of the project, Penn State's head of Ag Economics and Rural Sociology Dr. Milton Hallberg, said, "Agricultural issues impact urban areas as well as rural areas, but urban decision makers often don't understand and therefore overlook these relationships. The information generated by this project should benefit all Pennsylvanians."

The video, designed for local, county and state government decision-makers, local business leaders and the general public, is scheduled to be completed in October.

Copies of the video, along with a presentation guide and brochure, will be available to the public.

Funding is being solicited from the major cooperative and private milk purchasing organizations in Pennsylvania.

For more information, call N. Alan Bair, director of dairy industry relations for The Pennsylvania State University at 717-948-6328.

FFA Officer Goals: Lead Members To Positive, Prosperous Year

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — It's a tall task: guide 8,000 state FFA members to a year of success, confidence in themselves, achievement, and prosperity.

But that's the goal set by 11 new state FFA officers, selected recently by the Pennsylvania FFA Association at the 1997 Summer FFA Convention held at Penn State earlier this month.

Here is a compilation of each of the officers: where they came from, what they've done, and where they're going.

President

Joy Hess, 19, daughter of John and Bonnie Hess of Gettysburg, was elected state president of the FFA for the 1997-1998 term.

Since eighth grade, Joy has been an active member of the New Oxford FFA Chapter. In her local chapter, Joy served as class representative, chaplain, vice president, and president.

On the state level, Joy won high individual in the 1995 dairy judging contest. In 1997 she received the State Dairy Proficiency Award.

Joy's supervised agricultural experience (SAE) projects include dairy herd and work experience. Graduated from New Oxford Senior High School in 1996, Joy is the youngest of five brothers and sisters. They include Jennie, Josie, John, and Jayne. Joy is employed on her family's dairy, JoBo Farm. She's in charge of calf feeding, breeding, and milking.

In her free time, Joy enjoys collecting Mary Moos, drawing, making people laugh, working with animals, and spending time with her family.

Joy noted that she hopes to move the Pennsylvania FFA toward a more cooperative effort in improving the future of agriculture. She is looking forward to working with Pennsylvania FFA and plans to lead the officer team, she noted, toward a prosperous year.

Vice President

Dale Thomas, Jr., 18, is the son of Dale and Debbie Thomas of Orangeville, Columbia County.

The new state vice president, Dale is a member of the Central Columbia Chapter, supervised by Doug Brown. Dale was secretary of his chapter for two years. His SAE project was working at a local car dealership. He served as an FFA exchange student to Russia and was a Russian exchange host.

Dale has two older sisters, Jennifer and Gayle. Jennifer lives at home and attends Bloomsburg University. Gayle lives in Charlotte, N.C. and works for Bobbie Allison Motorsports.

After serving as state vice president, Dale plans to attend Penn State to major in agricultural education. In his Keystone recipient information published in January in Lancaster Farming, Dale indicated that enjoys FFA because of the "possibilities you have to go anywhere and do anything." He wants to make members aware of all the possibilities FFA offers and how to take advantage of them.

Eastern Region Vice President

Philip Eby, 18, the son of Dennis and Ellen Eby, Gap, is the new state eastern region vice president.

Phil is a member of the Hans Herr Chapter at Lancaster Mennonite High School. He has served as chapter sentinel for two years. His SAE projects include working his family's poultry farm and beef production. He works for a local farm equipment dealer.

Phil is the oldest in his family. He has two brothers, James and Matthew, who enjoy playing a variety of sports, including soccer, street hockey, and basketball. Phil also enjoys outside activities such as canoeing and hiking. He is an active member of his church and in his church youth group. Philip, featured in the Keystone Award recipient section of Lancaster Farming in January this year, served as chairman of the recreation committee at Hans Herr. He was honored with the state bronze award in agronomy and ag mechanics.

Phil's goals for the years include team unity and making a positive difference in the lives of those he meets.

Western Region Vice President

Joanna Wilson, Wilmington FFA Chapter, will serve as western region vice president.

Joanna, 18, Volant, Lawrence County, lives with her mother, Linda, and two of her brothers: Brad, 22 and Robert, 13 on a 100-acre dairy farm. She also has another brother, Craig, 23.

Joanna's SAE projects include dairy herd, swine finishing, and work experience. During her high school years in the FFA, she served as chapter secretary. Joanna noted that she enjoys track and field, soccer, swimming, volleyball, and just having fun.

She indicated that she enjoys public speaking and participating in many other contests. "The thing that stands out the most, though, is all the new friends and the many people I've had the opportunity to meet through the FFA," she told Lancaster Farming.

Joanna plans to attend Penn State to major in dairy and animal science. Her goals for the year include making a difference in the lives of others and showing the community what FFA involves.

North Central Region Vice President

Joshua Heeter, 18, is the new Pennsylvania FFA north central regional vice president.

The son of Joe and Christine Heeter, Beavertown, Snyder County, Josh lives with his parents, his younger sister Kate, and his grandmother on the family's beef farm. The West Snyder FFA member has serves as chapter treasurer and president. He also served as the SUN Area FFA treasurer.

Josh's SAE projects include beef growing, on-farm work experience, and off-farm work experience as a part-time instructional aide at West Snyder School.

He noted that his greatest accomplishment has been serving as president on his chapter's parliamentary procedure team, which placed first at states last year. Josh noted that he enjoys meeting new people through various FFA contests. After serving as state officer, Josh plans to attend either Delaware Valley College or Bloomsburg University to major in political science.

South Central Region Vice President

Bobbie Jo Cauffman, 19, daughter of Glen and Faye Cauffman of Millerstown, Perry County, was chosen to serve as the south central region vice president.

Bobbie Jo, Greenwood FFA member, was graduated from Greenwood High School in June 1996 and has completed her freshman studies at Penn State, majoring in agricultural education.

During her four years in Greenwood FFA, Bobbie Jo has served as chapter secretary and vice president. She has competed in more than a dozen public speaking contests. She served as the Cumberland, Dauphin, and Perry Area vice president. Her SAE projects include swine finishing, lamb finishing, corn production, and work experience.

She is a 1995 graduate of the Pennsylvania Governor's School for the Agricultural Sciences. At Penn State, Bobbie Jo is active in Collegiate FFA, where she served as the Agricultural Student Council representative, Coaly Society, Agricultural Advocates, and the Agricultural Student Council. She noted to Lancaster Farming that he enjoys meeting people and being around other motivated students.

Future plans are to be an ag teacher. Bobbie Joe's hobbies include singing and dancing, which allowed her to perform with the Penn State singing Lions and travel around the country. She plans to be graduated from Penn State in 2000 and make a career as a teacher.

Secretary

Nicole Over, 19, daughter of Derry and Aldine Over, Woodbury, Bedford County, was selected state secretary.

Nicole, Northern Bedford FFA member, resides and works on her family's fifth generation dairy farm, where they milk 60 registered Holsteins. Nicole's oldest brother Dan, his wife Brenda, and their son Brendan are also dairy farmers. Her older brother James is an agricultural science teacher. He and his wife Karla reside on the family's home farm.

Nicole was graduated from Northern Bedford High School in 1996. During her four years in the Northern Bedford FFA, she served as chapter president and secretary. Her SAE projects include market hogs and farrow-to-finish projects.

Nicole has just completed her freshman year at Penn State Altoona Campus. "Discovering opportunities in the agricultural field" was one of the highlights of membership in FFA, Nicole noted in Lancaster Farming last year. She wants to pursue a career in the dairy ag business. After completing her term as a state FFA officer, Nicole plans to finish her education at University Park, where she majors in dairy and animal science. After graduation, she wants to obtain a position in a dairy-related cooperative.

Nicole enjoys playing and coaching soccer, traveling, gardening, showing pigs, and spending time with family and friends.

Treasurer

Jessica M. Whiting, 17, daughter of David and Denise Whiting, was named FFA state treasurer.

Jessica was graduated from Wilmington Area High School, where she was actively involved in the FFA chapter and in tennis and softball. While in the chapter FFA, she served as president, vice president, and treasurer. Her SAE projects include dairy herd, market hogs, market, sheep, and market steers.

At home on the farm, Jessica enjoys working with her sisters Maggie, Bridget, and Lane. She is also involved in a 4-H horse and pony club.

Some of her future goals include having a successful year serving the Pennsylvania FFA, attending college, and someday owning a dairy herd of her own.

Reporter

Cathy Jo Fyock, daughter of John and Jean Fyock, Penn Run, Indiana County, was named reporter for the state FFA.

Cathy has two younger sisters, Sarah and Carolyn, and a younger brother, Seth.

Since 1992 Cathy has been an active member of the Penns Manor Area FFA Chapter, where she has served as secretary, reporter, vice president, and president. Since 1994 she has been Indiana County Conservation Public Speaker of the Year and holds that distinguished honor. The past year, Cathy Jo has represented Indiana county as fair queen.

Cathy's SAE projects include

Fifth Annual Fore FFA Golf Tournament Set

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — If it's July, it's time to golf!

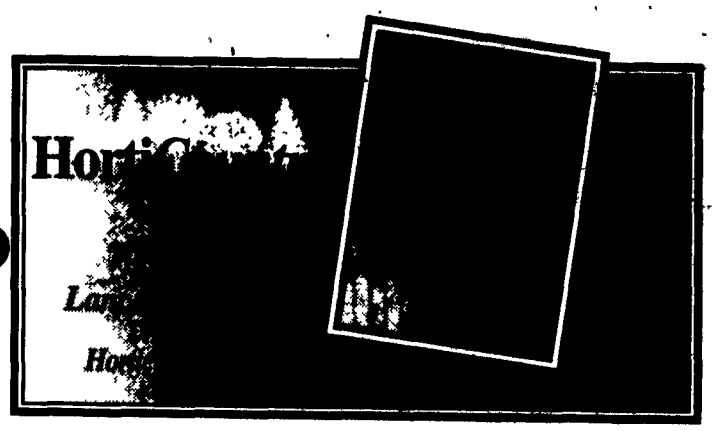
The Hoss's Fifth Annual Fore FFA Golf Tournament is scheduled for Monday, July 14, at two courses this year — the Foxchase course and the Hawk Valley Golf club.

The golf sponsorship categories are grand champion, $2,000; the hole-in-one contest is $1,500, the driving range sponsor contest is $1,250, and show champion is $1,000. The 19th Hole Sponsor is $750, Refreshment Cart Sponsor is $500, and par three contest is $400. Putting contest or longest drive contest is $3,000 and hole sponsors is $250. Team Awards Sponsor is $150.

Participating golfers cost $85. The funds include a contribution to the FFA, a complimentary mulligan, a bucket od driving range balls, lunch, refreshments on course, contests and prizes, and a complimentary "happy hour" in addition to the dinner and auction.

Money raised at the auction will be used for Pennsylvania FFA Foundation activities.

For more information, call (814) 353-9230.



HANDLING INSECT AND DISEASE CHALLENGES

Now that the weather is warming up, we can really get started with the growing season!

I have heard that the cool weather held some crops back but I hope your early crops are maturing close to schedule.

Along with the many other things you have to do there are some insect and disease pests that tend to appear in vegetables this time of year. Fruit growers also have some tasks to accomplish regarding tree training and disease control as well. This month's column will focus on pests, problems, and controls.

Vegetables

Dr. Shelby Fleischer from the Entomology department at Penn State notes that of the three major species of "worms" that infest corn, only the European corn borer overwinters well in Pennsylvania and therefore it will be present this month.

Most sweet corn in is still in the vegetative stage and control of European corn borer is most effective before tasseling. The corn borer first flight has, at best, only recently started and spray scheduling for control of this pest should be based on field scouting for damage.

Risk of ear damage is greater in plantings with lush growth which are often the earlier plantings. The risk of ear damage is also related to the variety. Short-season, small-stemmed varieties are at greater risk, especially those grown for the early market. Corn borers in these varieties have a greater chance of finding the ear. In contrast, corn borers in long-season, large-stemmed varieties are more likely to finish their development and emerge as adults before the corn develops ears.

Scout for shothole damage (feeding damage to the leaves that form a shothole pattern) during whorl or pre-tassel corn growth stages to time sprays for corn borers. A spray is justified if more than 10 to 15 percent of the plants have corn borer larvae in the short-season varieties, and up to 30 percent in the long-season varieties. Scout by examining plants throughout the planting. Scout each planting separately (especially if the plantings are in different growth stages or different varieties).

As the plants begin to move into the reproductive stages, they will begin to strongly attract the corn borer moths. An early sign of the plants moving into this stage is called "row tassel." Row-tassel refers to when you can look straight down a row and you just begin to see tassels emerging from the top of the plants. Pollen and silk is just beginning to be present. The tassels have not yet unfurled.

If you have an infestation in vegetative corn and you are within 14 days of row-tassel, you can save a spray by waiting and applying it just before row-tassel. A single spray timed at pre-row tassel is the most important and effective way to clean up an existing corn borer infestation in vegetative corn, before the corn moves into the reproductive stages.

Dr. Alan MacNab, vegetable disease specialist, also reminds us that there are several important vegetable diseases that can appear in June. For some diseases, control measures must be taken in June to minimize disease severity later in the season. Growers who have experienced significant losses from diseases should review diagnosis and control information.

Cucumbers, muskmelons, and sometimes pumpkins can suffer severe plant losses from bacterial wilt. This disease is spread by the cucumber beetle and thus control measures should focus on controlling the beetle population. High-density plantings may also help minimize losses. Hopefully you have selected disease resistant varieties wherever possible. This is the best way to reduce losses from cucumber mosaic virus, powdery mildew, and Fusarium wilt. You can also avoid collapse of muskmelon by harvesting early in the season and growing your melons on plastic with trickle irrigation.

Peppers can suffer from bacterial wilt. The best control measure is to start with disease-free plants. Where this disease is expected, follow a regular preventive spray program. Start early and continue with fixed copper for several weeks until you are relatively certain young plants are not carrying the bacterial pathogen. Another problem on peppers is viruses. Again, plant only varieties resistant to viruses when possible.

Last year I saw several tomato fields with bacterial spot. This disease either comes from infected transplants or it can also overwinter in the field. Where the disease is present spray with a tank mixture of fixed copper plus either maneb or mancozeb, or with Bravo C/M. Start as soon as plants are established and continue at 7- to 10-day intervals, especially during wet periods.

Early blight is almost always present in tomatoes and can affect crop quality if it becomes severe. In new fields where disease-free transplants were used fungicide sprays should not be needed until the end of June.

However, if diseased transplants are planted, or if fields were planted to tomatoes last year, start a preventive spray program earlier.

Late blight has the potential to be a severe problem. We expect that primary inoculum could be present in the area which means late blight will have the potential to develop whenever environment favors the disease (wet and cool conditions). The major control after plantings are established is to keep plants covered with protective fungicides whenever environment favors the disease.

Fruit

Dr. Rob Crassweller, tree fruit specialist at Penn State, notes that early training of newly planted fruit trees is very important.

Regardless of whether you train trees to a central leader, vertical axe, slender spindle, or some other system, all should begin with the proper clothespinning of the young developing shoots. Placing clothespins to establish a horizontal crotch angle the first growing season will pay off more than any other training technique you do. The few minutes you spend on orienting that branch angle in the summer after planting allows the establishment of a horizontal branch that is strong and able to support a good load of fruit in later years.

Clothespins should be placed as early as feasible. Some use a guide of placing the clothespins when the shoot growth equals the length of the clothespins. In some instances not all trees will need clothespins at the same time. Rob recommends clothespinning more shoots than needed in case one of the desired shoots is lost. Around the middle of July, after about 12-18 inches of growth, unneeded branches are removed.

If you miss this window of opportunity to use clothespins then there is one alternative and that is the use of toothpicks to spread the young shoots. Toothpicks work better a little later in the season when the shoot is a little longer and thicker. Applying toothpicks now usually does not work because there is not enough tissue into which you can insert the pointed ends of the toothpick. Toothpicks, not properly secured, will easily fall out under windy conditions.

Jim Travis from the plant pathology department at Penn State reports varying degrees of infection with the Cytospora canker fungus around the state. Cytospora canker is one of the most destructive diseases of stone fruits (peach, nectarine, apricot, sweet cherry and plum) in Pennsylvania. The disease is destructive to young orchards, where it may cause the death of the tree and in older orchards where trees gradually lose productivity and slowly decline.

The fungus attacks the woody parts of the tree with the first visi-

Gov. Ridge Signs Appropriations Bill Gives $5 Million To Fight Avian Flu

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — State Gov. Tom Ridge and secretary of agriculture appointee and current acting Secretary Sam Hayes, along with a strong contingent of the Lancaster County, poultry industry and agricultural political representatives held a press conference and bill signing on Wednesday which authorized the immediate expenditure of $5 million to battle avian influenza in the state.

The event was held in a basement meeting room of the Lancaster Farm and Home Center. Also present were Penn State Cooperative Extension support staff, who have helped with industry and government efforts to coordinate and disseminate information about the disease and quarantine.

While the information about the extent of the problem and the promise of funding have already been reported, the Wednesday signatory event officially finalized the effort to secure to funds.

This week also signified the end of state legislative action for the summer. The summer is used by political representatives as a time to return to districts, attend various meetings and hearings, meet with constituents, and to gather input on issues pending and those in need of attention.

It is also a time to work with party and nonparty supporters on reelection efforts.

There were several Legislative items of note for the week.

The funding for fighting the avian influenza was not the least of them.

The latest outbreak of avian influenza first appeared in the region late last year, in an operation managed by a Fredericksburg poultry hauler/dealer in northern Lebanon County.

It was believed at the time that the disease emanated from the live-bird market in New Jersey and New York, where the nonpathogenic H7N2 strain of the avian virus has been found for years, according to the PDA Bureau of Animal Industry.

Through the Bureau of Animal Industry, PDA works with Penn State University and University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Sciences and other universities and animal health departments in surrounding states and nationally, to monitor and test for diseases such as avian influenza.

The disease is also reportedly present in wild bird species, including waterfowl which, in addition to a resident population, also migrate through the area every spring and fall.

The first flock was quarantined and depopulated in December, with the quarantine lifted about the end of January.

While top state officials were aware of the situation, it was not considered the threat it is now, because that first flock was noncommercial and not likely to have had infectious contact with commercial flocks. Commercial flocks today are expected, as part of regular business practice, to operate under strict biosecurity guidelines.

Furthermore, the level of potential threat of widespread disease from that non-commercial flock was not considered that great because this nonpathogenic strain of the virus has been discovered previously through the state's routine surveillance testing program against avian influenza.

Those cases over the years where the disease was discovered involved mostly backyard and hobby flocks of poultry, with the disease suspected of coming out of the New York/New Jersey live bird market.

However, within days of that non-commercial Fredericksburg flock going off of quarantine, a second Lebanon County flock, located near the first one, was discovered to have the disease — only this time it was a 123,500-bird commercial flock owned by Wenger Feeds of Rheems.

Surveillance was increas within a 10-mile radius of the farms, the Wenger flock was destroyed voluntarily, the houses disinfected, and a quarantine held on the property.

In very early May, after the quarantine on the Lebanon flock was lifted, the same virus was discovered in a Lancaster County operation with three flocks totaling 154,000 birds. They were destroyed May 7.

A second operation with a flock of 12,000 laying hens was destroyed on May 19.

Gov. Tom Ridge signs spending legislation into law, authorizing the immediate availability of up to $5 million to help fight avian influenza and compensating poultry owners for some of the value of birds destroyed in an effort to keep the state free of disease. Seated on the left of Ridge is state Sen. Noah Wenger, while on the governor's right is state Rep. John Barley. Second from the left, standing with representatives of the poultry industry, is Acting Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr.

beef finishing, swine finishing, lamb finishing, beef breeding, and swine breeding.

Cathy was selected as Star Farmer in the western region for agricultural production and was awarded a scholarship through the National FFA Foundation from Perkins Family Restaurant.

Cathy enjoys reading, boating, swimming, singing, playing the piano and clarinet, drama, and church activities.

Cathy noted that she enjoys traveling and meeting other FFA members around the country. She plans to major in food science at Delaware Valley College.

Sentinel

Kenneth Martin, Grassland FFA member and son of Leland and Marilyn Martin of East Earl, Lancaster County, was named state sentinel.

Kenneth has three younger sisters: Renee, Amy, and Joy.

While attending Garden Spot High School in New Holland, Kenneth served as chapter treasurer, vice president of chapter operations, recreational activities, student adviser, and county treasurer. Kenneth's SAE projects include poultry and off-farm work experience.

Kenneth indicated to Lancaster Farming that he plans additional study for his career and wanted to take over a part of the family business.

As a state FFA officer, Kenneth noted he would like to give back to the FFA what it has given to him.

Chaplain

Jeremy Hackenburg, 20, has been chosen to serve as state chaplain.

Jeremy is the son of Robin and Ruth Hackenburg of Middleburg. He has a younger sister, Heather.

Jeremy has been an active member of the West Snyder FFA Chapter, where he served as reporter and chaplain. In addition, he served as the SUN Area chaplain.

Jeremy's SAE projects include on- and off-farm work experience and home gardening.

In his spare time he enjoys wrestling, swimming, hunting, fishing, and golfing. After he serves a year as state officer, Jeremy plans to attend Delaware Valley College or Penn State as an agricultural major.

All state officers will start their year at a training camp in State College. They will participate in Hoss's Annual Fore FFA Golf Tournament in mid-July.

The officers want to visit all FFA chapters throughout the year. The state officer team hopes to make the most of its year with all of the leadership conferences, camps, and various activities they will host.

Field Lesson For Teen Stream Team Includes Fence Installation

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — During three hectic days at the end of May, 10 teen-agers — all members of the Stream Team from the Lancaster County Academy located at the Park City shopping mall — learned a lot of things.

At the farm of Dennis Kolb, they learned, on a stream bank on fields near Rt. 283, about electrical conductivity. They learned how to wire electrical fence. They learned how the fence was installed by a crew from a fencing company in East Earl.

More importantly, they learned why the fencing needed to be installed in the first place.

For the last two years, according to Ruth Fisher, curriculum and service learning coordinator for the school, students have been studying a seven-mile stretch of the Little Conestoga Creek, which meanders its way to the Kolb Dairy Farm. In that time, as part of their service credit requirements at the school, students have been taking samples of water pH, nitrates, dissolved oxygen, temperature, and turbidity.

The students, ranging in ages from 16-17 including sophomores and juniors, discovered that nitrates were higher in several sites. They posed the question: supposing we remove the cows from the stream bank, installed fencing, and maintained what is essentially a "buffer zone" away from the stream?

To answer that question, money was needed. As a result, Fisher said the school wrote a grant to the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Environmental Education Program. The educational program provided $10,000 to hire a contractor and set up the fencing. In addition, the program allowed the students to plant 300 trees inside the fence (the trees were donated by the Chesapeake Bay Foundation).

Steam Team members, like most students at the Academy, are high school dropouts that are completing the academic requirements necessary to be graduated from high school. As part of the requirements, the students must perform public service activities. One of the activities is Stream Team service — and those same students help other students by collecting stream samples for biology and chemistry courses at the school.

Some follow-up studies will include further testing of the stream for nitrates to see if the fence is effective. Also, the Stream Team will maintain the fencing and manage plant growth.

What was surprising, according to Fisher, was the fact that the fencing company taught the students a great deal about how to install stream bank fencing.

"They explained why a porcelain insulator was needed, those kinds of things," she said. "The students helped install the wire."

ble symptom being exudation of gum at the point of infection. The canker starts from a small necrotic center that slowly enlarges more along the length than the width of the branch.

The method for the eradication of Cytospora canker is to actually cut the canker out of the tree. During bloom or later, remove all cankers on small branches, cutting at least 4 inches below the margin of the canker. Research trials conducted in Pennsylvania in the 1980s have shown that although this procedure is time consuming (average treatment time ranges from 1 to 5 minute per canker) the success rate is nearly 100 percent. However, if the surgery is done improperly, eradication of the canker is almost never obtained. When surgery is conducted before too many cankers are evident per tree, cankers can be eliminated from young orchards before extensive infection and tree death occur.

STOP RAINING ON THE ANIMALS

It has been raining on animals since a horse plowed the first furrow. Condensation forming under the roofs of farm buildings is the reason. And that's because there's never been a perfect insulation product for farm buildings.

Until now. Introducing Thermax® AG Therm™ Insulation/Finish Board from Celotex.

AG Therm stops the rain and stops the elements. AG for agriculture. Therm for thermal.

It works for all kinds of buildings. No matter who's in it or what's in it. Install it in new buildings or improve old ones. Celotex made it for you. The animals will thank you. For information where to purchase AG Therm, call Celotex at 1-800-556-4215.

Gov. Ridge Signs Appropriations Bill Gives $5 Million To Fight Avian Flu

Two additional flocks were identified on May 22, according to the PDA Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services. In a press fact sheet, it was detailed that those two were egg laying flocks — one with 200,000 birds, the other with 230,000 birds.

A 75-square mile area in northwestern Lancaster County that contains the farms was designated as a quarantined area, and the Pennsylvania State Police have been involved with enforcement of the quarantine.

The quarantine, according to the state Department of Agriculture, was only put into effect after consulting the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation. It has been agreed that the quarantine should remain in effect until further notice.

Under the rules of the quarantine, no poultry or poultry products can move into or out of operations in the quarantined area, unless they carry a special permit showing that the flocks are free of the avian influenza.

The latest cases to be reported by the PDA were discovered June 4. They were located within the quarantine area.

As of this week, an estimated 950,000 birds have been destroyed in this current round of conflict with the avian flu.

While the disease is non-pathogenic and poses no threat to human health, it is of concern because it is believed that the virus strain could develop into a highly pathogenic variety, just as happened with an H5N2 variety that was responsible for the destruction here of 17 million birds worth about $100 million 14 years ago.

That outbreak resulted in the poultry industry, largely contract production now, to adopt stringent biosecurity measures.

Biosecurity measures for domestic animals means isolation from potential germ contamination. Every worker is expected to ensure that he or she is free from any dirt or residue which may carry the virus before entering into an area with commerical poultry.

Vehicles should ideally be washed down when vehicles enter and depart a property with a poultry facility.

In order to fulfill the intent of the Animal Indeminification Act, funding was required to compensate those who are required to depopulate flocks.

Earlier this month, Gov. Ridge requested that the Legislature create legislation authorizing the expenditure of $5 million to fight the avian influenza.

In its last days for its summer break, the Legislature amended an amendment to an appropriations law already enacted in order to get the $5 million authorized as soon as possible. The rest of the appropriations (a variety of unrelated projects) included in the bill and amendment are only authorized as of July 1.

Lancaster was selected as the site for Wednesday's event because it contains the area of quarantine and is the largest poultry producing county in the state. Of the 26.5 million poultry raised annually in the state, more than half are raised in Lancaster County, according to the latest available data from the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

Other sources place the number of birds raised in Lancaster County considerably higher.

"For the farmers involved, this is not just an economic loss, it's a heart-wrenching personal loss." Ridge said. "It is an emotional time for everyone in the industry. Times like these test our resolve, test our ability to respond and test our ability to work together under enormous pressure for the good of the industry."

According to the PDA, under the new law, most of the money is to be used to reimburse poultry owners for one-third of the value of the destroyed flocks.

The funds are also to be used to cover the cost of cleaning and sanitizing the poultry houses; for the disposal of infected birds; and for othe preventative and control measures.

A portion of the money also is allotted to cover the costs of continued testing and laboratory work.

From the left to right, state Acting Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr. and Gov. Tom Ridge discuss the importance of the poultry industry to the state, and the $5 million the Legislature approved and Ridge signed into law that is to be used to help battle a recent bout with avian influenza.

Acting Secretary Hayes has noted that the poultry industry is of great importance to the economy of the state. According to official estimates, the combined value of the poultry industry, including the farm are 450 acres with two separate businesses — including the farm operated nearby by his parents, George and Pearl.

Ralph manages 400 tillable acres, including 200 acres of corn, 60 acres of soybeans, 140 acres of alfalfa, and 35 acres of pasture. The pasture is grazed, but not intensively. The Moyers raise most of the feed.

The Moyers milk 95 cows and care for 100 replacement heifers. On DHIA, they average 24,200 pounds of milk, 865 pounds fat, and 778 pounds protein. Milking is twice a day, 4:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., from a double-6 herringbone parlor.

The Moyers have been using the parlor for 20 years. In addition, they have used a TMR for 25 years from a local commercial company. The feed is custom designed, adjusted to how the forages test.

Ralph's father, George, a member of the Berks County Farm Bureau, has a combine and does custom combining work. The Moyers are members of Land O' Lakes.

Alicia, Jessica, and Kyle help their parents with feeding the calves and with milking, according to Ralph.

In the past several years, because of high feed costs, the Moyers have "culled real hard," said Ralph. But long-range plans continue to be to build the herd up to about 125 cows — the capacity of the facility.

Two cows, both rated Very Good, had some impressive production. Tops for the herd, both milked 30,000 pounds.

The Moyers don't do ET work, Ralph indicated. The Moyers raise their own replacement stock. They purchase bull semen from a respected supplier.

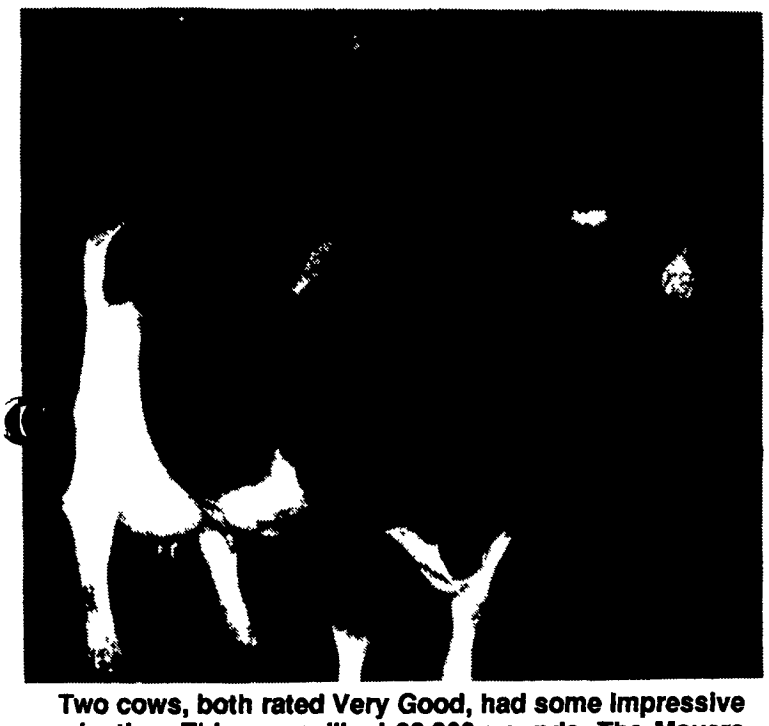
Ralph noted that the first cutting of alfalfa was completed recently, although more trimming around the fences needed to be finished. Conditions for soybeans have been a "little bit less than ideal," he noted, because of the very cool, dry spring weather. Corn population is spotty in places. Because of routine spreading of dairy manure, they believe they don't need to use sidedress nitrogen on their corn.

They have spot sprayed a lot this year, according to Ralph.

Moyer noted that the pre-emergent herbicide program did a poor job of controlling weeds.

Moyer's long-term goals, despite some of the mysteries and complexities of dairying, are to make the cows more efficient by improving the feed program and to breed for efficiency so they won't have to purchase extra feed.

In the past several years, because of high feed costs, the Moyers have "culled real hard," said Ralph, right. But long-range plans continue to be to build the herd up to about 125 cows — the capacity of the facility. At left is his brother, Mark.



Two cows, both rated Very Good, had some impressive production. This one milked 30,000 pounds. The Moyers don't do ET work, Ralph indicated. The Moyers raise their own replacement stock. They purchase bull semen from a respected supplier.

Jessica Moyer helps with feeding the calves and with milking, according to her father, Ralph.

On DHIA, the Moyers average 24,200 pounds of milk, 865 pounds fat, and 778 pounds protein. Milking is twice a day, 4:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., from a double-6 herringbone parlor. Here, Alicia helps her father Ralph get ready for milking.

FOR DOUBLE-CROP SOYBEANS, THE ONLY POST THAT CONTROLS GRASSES AND BROADLEAVES.

PURSUIT® herbicide is today's best tool for double-crop beans. It not only delivers the highest degree of overall weed control but also is the only postemergence product that combines contact and residual activity to give you superior control of more than 40 tough-to-control grasses and broadleaf weeds including velvetleaf, foxtail, cocklebur, pigweeds, nightshade, common ragweed, giant ragweed, sunflower, shattercane and seedling Johnsongrass. Without causing soybean injury. And because of its advanced chemistry and low rates of application, PURSUIT offers a responsible choice for the environment. That's the kind of strength everyone can respect. And reason enough to try PURSUIT. See us soon.

now. The economic pressures on the dairy farmers in the '60's was tremendous. Milk prices were as serious an issue as they are now. I remember the people from Penn State would make presentations on the need to increase productivity and efficiency--so much so that many farmers began to react negatively to the message. The farmers thought they were as efficient as they could be. And we have much the same reaction today."

Roth has been especially effective in handling management relations with the cooperative's membership and the board of directors. He believes you need a leadership mechanism at the top to give feedback to the board of directors about what the members are saying. If you have this feedback, the directors can make good policy decisions. Roth believes the new larger cooperatives must also put this kind of communication mechanism into place so the boards of directors can hear what the members are saying even if their members are scattered over a large geographical area.

Roth became general manager of Atlantic in 1985. He also served as chairman of the administrative council of Federated Genetics, a partnership of three AI Cooperatives that carried out an extensive national and international semen marketing program.

Raised on a Holstein dairy farm near Allentown, Harry is a graduate of Penn State with a major in dairy science. While at Penn State he was active in the Ag Honorary Society, Dairy Science Club, dairy judging teams and Delta Theta Sigma fraternity. Roth was a member of the York County extension staff for one and a half years prior to his career in AI.

Starting as a fieldman for Western Pennsylvania Artificial Breeding Cooperative at Clarion, he later assumed the duties of sire analyst and was named general manager in October of 1960. He held that position until the July, 1964, merger with Southeastern Pennsylvania ABC to form Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, when he was named breed programs director. He served as operations director prior to being named general manager.

Roth was a member of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show and for 13 years was chairman of the show's invitational youth dairy judging contest. He was approved by the Purebred Dairy Cattle Association to judge Holstein and Guernsey shows. In this capacity he judged many local, state, and national shows.

He served on the board of directors for the National Association of Animal Breeders from 1977 to [illegible], including one year as president. His honorary awards are many, including the distinguished service award from the National Association of Animal Breeders and the Hal Doran service award from the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives. Roth found his work with the director training program quite rewarding.

"I've been blessed with good training and have been taught the work ethic," Roth said. "I've been taught sound basic principles from a Christian family. I have tried to make it easy for farmers to identify with me."

Harry and his wife Ruth have three grown daughters and five [illegible]ndchildren. Roth will be remembered for his ability to stand in the gap between various viewpoints and bring farmers together. It is fitting that a reception should be held to honor Harry Roth's lifetime of service to the dairy industry. Best wishes!

Steps To Successful Dairying Given

The Core Leadership Group of the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders this week released the following information to Pennsylvania dairy producers.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders are committed to the future success of the entire dairy food industry in Pennsylvania. That success hinges on the success and profitability of individual dairy farms. Even though there are currently some Pennsylvania dairy farms that are suffering financially, there are also many farms that are profitable and very optimistic about the future. Successful dairy farms share many management practices and philosophies, even with the many diversities we have in the Pennsylvania dairy industry.

We recently challenged Dick Waybright, enthusiastic and successful Pennsylvania dairy producer, to share his version of "29 Steps to Successful Dairying." The number 29 was arbitrary on our part, but he accepted and met the challenge. Many of the same steps that work on this farm can contribute to the success of every dairy farm in Pennsylvania. We thank Dick for sharing them with us and allowing us to share them with you.

"29 Steps To Successful Dairying"

1. Set vision goals for your farm and family. Think 10 years into the future and "dream."

2. Visit trend setting farms at least twice a year. Successful dairymen everywhere are willing to share their ideas — that's how they became successful.

3. Read everything you can get your hands on. Think outside the box and don't be afraid to be different. You can't make an omelet without breaking the shell.

4. New concepts are put into practice by people who allow themselves to ask the question, "Why do we do things this way?"

5. In dairy farming we are controlled by four basic parameters:

A. The weather — can't do much about it.

B. Cost of inputs — we can nickel and dime suppliers, but we must pay the market price.

C. Milk price — we get a milk check twenty days after we produce it at a price they thought it was worth.

D. Production efficiency — get maximum production with minimum labor and expense.

Of these four, efficiency is the only thing that we as dairy farmers really control. Put your efforts into your farm management and efficient production of high quality milk.

6. We "think" that finances are a limiting factor, but that is often not the issue. A well planned concept that has a three to five year pay back, will always catch the bankers approval. Even if it takes an additional two years due to some adversity, you still have success. If your investment does not meet this payback criteria, it's not worth it. To dairy with a lesser plan should cause you to stop dairying and invest in the stock market instead. Aim to dairy profitability, then it's exciting and challenging and not so stressful.

7. If we understand and believe in these first 6 points, then we can begin working with an exciting, enjoyable, and efficient dairy system.

8. First, put that new born calf in a good environment so that it will be able to express its true genetic potential. In the first half hour of life, and again at the second feeding, bottle feeding colostrum from frozen milk from the older cows. In the first four hours dip the navel in iodine at least twice.

9. On day two, teach the calf to drink from a bucket to save labor. Also, provide free choice, a nipple fresh water supply. The calves natural sucking instinct will encourage water consumption, which is cheap and good for the calf. For at least three days, following the milk feeding, hand feed in the mouth a good starter ration to encourage ration consumption. Sour all fresh cow colostrum plus any hospital cow milk in an old bulk milk tank at 45 degrees F for twenty days. This milk is better and virtually free, when compared to $50 per calf on milk replacer. Save money wherever you can.

10. You should be able to stop feeding milk in four to five weeks. The calf will do well and you save labor and the cost of milk.

11. At weaning leave the calf in the same pen for one additional week to observe and evaluate individual grain consumption.

12. Put weaned calves in groups of six or less, in three-sided shelters facing southeast. Begin to feed corn silage with the calf starter.

13. Three weeks after weaning, blend starter ration with a good grower calf pellet and self feed for one week. On the fourth week, change to the cheaper grower pellets.

14. When calves are eating four pounds of grower pellets per day, then introduce TMR feeding.

15. Eye score the calves monthly and adjust ration to maximize growth. Keep records on calf performance.

16. It takes good groceries to get the heifer to 750 pounds by thirteen months when they are ready to be artificially bred with semen of known calving ease. Continue to maximize growth with a well balanced ration so that they weigh at least 1200 pounds at calving. For every month delayed calving cost is about $75 per month and no milk check to support its costs.

17. Raising the heifer is where the profit starts to take place. Do it well and with a goal of less than 2% mortality. If you do the right job with your heifer, the cow will have the ability to stay in the herd for five or more productive lactations, not the average three lactations on most farms. Remember, it takes the second lactation to being to see a net profit. We need to equip the heifer to be a profitable cow. This system works for us, takes less labor and feed, and has the potential for high profit.

18. Dairy cow profitability is often limited by forages that were harvested weeks too late and much to mature. Also remember that the crop looses nutrients at the rate of 2% per day after cutting, until it is sealed in the silo. Don't chop forage too fine, and be sure 25% of the forage is at least 2 inches long. Use a silage preservative; the cost is about thirty cents per ton. Remember to do a "great" job of covering it after filling to minimize loss. On most farms we should forget hay making and feeding — it's not needed.

19. Plan cattle facilities to maximize labor input: a one person parlor for example.

20. Invest in buildings, equipment, quality animals and well training motivated people who can meet the above pay back guide lines.

21. Have a goal of one cow and replacement per acre of cropland. Fertilize with manure and some bought nitrogen fertilizer to meet goals.

22. Get culling rate below 25% to maximize profits. Thirty percent of culls should be done because of below average production.

23. Have a good record keeping system that allows you to measure progress. Compare your achievements with the top 10% of dairymen. Remember, if yours is just average you're working for minimum wages and not much profit.

24. Pick the low hanging fruit first where there is the greatest profit potential. Examples from above are reducing calf raising labor, efficient milking labor, reducing age to first calving well under 24 months; all low investment with high return items.

25. Invest in things that pay a cash return. Don't invest in land until you have the dairy system working, then buy land with cow profits. I look at it this way; if you buy $3,000 per acre land at 8% interest, that equals $240 per year for interest, plus $10 taxes, and a principle payment over twenty years of $150 per year, equals $400 annual costs. For this you have a $100 net cropping profit, meaning that you are short $300 per year.

Inlet location is critical to the success of the ventilation system.

Ventilation has two simple concepts: air exchange and air distribution. In mechanical ventilation, fans are responsible for the amount of air exchange while inlets control the air distribution within the ventilated space. Air exchange is simply fresh air in, stale air out. Air distribution provides fresh air delivery to all animals and mixing of fresh air with stale air prior to removal from the building (see figure). Ventilation is a system which has components, such as fans, inlets, and controls which need to function together.

The air inlet is considered by many ventilation engineers to be the most important part of the ventilation system. The air inlet is responsible for providing good air distribution and movement throughout the structure. When poor ventilation conditions are encountered, additional fan capacity may be justified in some situations, but more often the cause of poor air quality in animal structures is improper inlet function.

The main objective of this series of three articles is to help you analyze inlet function when troubleshooting your ventilation problems.

Inlet design and operation demand that some technical aspects of air flow be understood. In addition, there is an "art" to inlet operation that comes with experience. This art or experience aspect is what makes inlet function unique to each building and often provides hurdles in diagnosing and solving ventilation problems. These articles explain the technical side of inlet design while providing a glimpse of the art involved in inlet adjustment. Negative pressure, also known as "exhaust" ventilation, is common in poultry housing and will be described here.

It is important to remember that ventilation is a system. The inlets, fans, controls, and a building's structure (such as insulation level, layout, etc.) are components which must function together to provide air exchange and distribution.

Fan Creates Static Pressure Difference

The fan is only the air pump. It does little to move air around the building interior. The fan is important as it creates the static pressure difference which drives air flow. An exhaust fan creates a slight vacuum within the structure compared to outside pressure. Air moves in response to a pressure difference from a region of higher pressure to lower pressure.

The static pressure difference required to ventilate a building is very small; on the order of 0.05-inch water (pressure is often measured as a depth of liquid in a column). To visualize this, it is the amount of suction needed to draw water up a straw 5/100th of an inch, or about 1 mm. This doesn't seem like a lot of suction but it is enough to get air to properly ventilate a building. It's enough to make you have to gently tug open the entry door to a properly ventilated building. Air will enter the building through any opening in response to this pressure difference . . . including that entry door you just left open. Air will enter through the opening(s) which offer the least resistance to air flow, such as that open door, before it will move through higher resistance openings such as the inlets you carefully designed. Requiring air to flow through your planned inlets assures that all parts of the building are supplied with fresh air.

The ability of fans to create a static pressure difference, that slight vacuum, between the inside and outside of a building, requires relatively tight building construction. Most modern animal agriculture buildings meet this criteria. Curtain-sided poultry buildings may not be tight enough if curtains do not seal well at the edges. It is essential that mechanically ventilated buildings have a static pressure gauge (manometer) so that the manager can verify that desired static pressure is being maintained. Static pressure should be maintained at a reasonably constant value: about 0.05-inch water with a range of 0.02 to 0.07-inch for summer to winter conditions, respectively.

eggs and turkeys, was more than $563 million in 1995.

That value can be expected to increase with export demand.

In other legislative and political action this week, as expected, the state Senate unanimously approved Gov. Ridge's selection of Sam Hayes as the new secretary of agriculture.

Gov. Ridge had unexpectedly asked for the resignation of former Secretary of Agriculture Charles C. Brosius in early April. The announcement shocked the agricultural community, since Brosius was considered one of the most effective agriculture secretaries.

While not explaining more fully, the governor's press office reported that Brosius was praised by the governor for his efforts, but that he was seeking to take the department in a different direction.

Just on the eve of the announcement of Brosius's resignation, Hayes had left for Poland to work to help establish a summer language teaching program for poor youth. He also visited with some of the top agricultural processors in Poland.

A swearing-in ceremony is expected to be held soon, at the convenience of the governor, and those involved.

The state Senate also confirmed other nominations by the governor for people to fill certain state agricultural jobs.

Luke Brubaker, a family dairy farmer from Donegal Township in Lancaster County, was confirmed as the governor's appointment to fill a vacancy on the three-member Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board.

Brubaker and his family have operated a dairy farm for 30 years, since purchasing it from his father. Currently, he and his sons own a herd of 450 cows and farm 800 acres.

According to Sen. Noah Wenger, "Luke Brubaker is a family farmer who has retained the traditional values associated with farming, while modernizing to meet the demands of the times. He is committed to the profession, active in his community, and knowledgeable about milk production, marketing and sales."

The PMMB acts as an independent overseer of the dairy industry in Pennsylvania, protecting consumer interests by ensuring fair prices and adequate supplies of milk for all Pennsylvanians, not just those in high population centers.

It also ensures that farmers get paid properly for their milk, and that processors are have proper financial ability to pay farmers for milk delivered.

In other news, Acting Secretary Hayes has been busy traveling the state in support of agricultural interests.

He visited the northwest region of the state making stops at several grape growing and wine-making businesses, as well as a dairy, in recognition of June being Dairy Month.

In addition, he presented a check for $5,027 to the Crawford County Humane Society. It is the first county to contract with the state to provide dog control.

Under the agreement, the Humane Society is to collect 60 percent of the revenue generated through the sale of individual dog licenses to provide 24-hour service.

"On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, I want to commend and thank the Crawford County commissioners and th county treasurer for their support of this pilot project," Hayes said. "We believe this will provide the most efficient and effective service to the taxpayers of Crawford County."

He said that Berks and Carbon counties also have such agreements under consideration.

It's either these, or a pet goat.

So the basics of mechanical ventilation are that fans exhaust air from the building and in so doing, create a static pressure difference between the interior of the building and outside conditions. Fans provide air exchange by exhausting stale air and causing fresh air to enter the structure. The very slight static pressure difference created by the fan, causes air to move into the building thorough any opening. Air inlets are designed and located in the structure to supply air at a desirable direction, speed, and condition.

Inlets Provide Air Distribution

Inlets come in many shapes and sizes with varying levels of usefulness. Open windows can be adequate inlets but they are not conveniently controllable. Most modern poultry buildings use openings specifically designed to be inlets to a mechanical ventilation system. These include inlets with baffle boards, curtain sidewalls, ceiling drop panels and mechanical louvers. Inlets used for managing cold-weather minimum ventilation needs often have different requirements than those used for the large air volume needed during summer ventilation.

Good inlets are easily adjusted so that as conditions change within and outside the building, the inlet size can be changed. Some inlets respond passively to changing conditions, for example, by a free-swinging hinged baffle which moves in response to static pressure differences and air flow. Most poultry housing inlets are controlled with mechanical cable linkages which adjust the inlet opening size in response to maintaining a relatively constant static pressure within the building.

Inlets are most often positioned high in the structure, such as at the eave juncture of sidewall and ceiling, to allow incoming air to mix with room air before dropping into the bird occupied area.

The functions of a well-designed air inlet are to: 1. Provide fresh air throughout the building. 2. Control direction of air flow. 3. Maintain fast inlet air velocity.

If these three functions are not achieved, then poor air distribution, uneven temperatures, and drafts are the result. The fast inlet air velocity is essential for providing air mixing and desirable circulation patterns. Part 2 in this article series provides information on how inlets achieve these three functions.

More information is available in "Inlets for Mechanical Ventilation Systems in Animal Housing" G-91, an eight-page fact sheet. This and other agricultural engineering publications on ventilation of agricultural buildings are available free from the Agricultural and Biological Engineering Extension, 246 Agricultural Engineering Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 865-7685.

$12.45 For May N.Y./N.J. Milk

ALBANY, N.Y. — Dairy farmers who supplied regulated milk dealers (handlers) under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during May 1997 will be paid by handlers on the basis of a uniform price of $12.45 per hundredweight (26.8 cents per quart); the price for the corresponding month last year was $13.90 per hundredweight.

Market Administrator Ronald C. Pearce also stated that the price was $12.82 in April 1997. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

A total of 10,097 dairy farmers supplied handlers regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders with 1,035,281,281 pounds of milk during May 1997. This was a decrease of 1.8 percent (about 19 million pounds) from last year.

The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $130,094,723.13. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not premiums, deductions authorized by the farmer, or assessments.

Regulated handlers used 383,623,116 pounds of milk for Class I, 37.1 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks.

For May 1997 handlers paid $14.91 per hundredweight (32.1 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $15.12 a year ago.

Handlers used 167,128,890 pounds of milk for Class II products, 16.1 percent of the total. Class II products include fluid cream, eggnog, ricotta and cottage cheeses, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $12.79 per hundredweight for this milk.

Milk used to manufacture Class III products including butter, cheese (other than ricotta and cottage cheeses), and whole milk powder totaled 447,435,416 pounds (43.2 percent of the total). Handlers paid $10.58 per hundredweight for this milk.

Milk used to manufacture nonfat dry milk (Class III-A) totaled 37,093,859 pounds (3.6 percent of the total). Handlers paid $11.44 per hundredweight for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For May 1997, there was a price differential of 9 cents for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank received from farms in the 201- to 210-mile zone from New York City.

KILE Oct. 1-6

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — More than 40,000 people are expected to attend this year's Keystone International Livestock Exposition here on Oct. 1-6.

People from all walks of life, from professors to consumers, to some of the greatest farmers you'll ever set your eyes on, will attend.

Built into this year's program is entertainment and fun. From strolling songsters to performing animal shows, programs will be available for the entire family.

Educational exhibits, commodity food organization booths and a Barnyard Babies Exhibit are just a few of the features planned. There will be 3,600 head of animals at the exposition.

All of the trade show exhibits will be located in one area. No commercial exhibitors will be permitted to show in any other area.

The hours for the 1997 show are Thursday, 4 p.m.-7 p.m.; Friday thru Sunday 10 a.m.-7 p.m.; and Monday 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

For exhibitor information, contact Beverly Gruber at P.O. Box 5, New Tripoli, PA 18066, (610) 767-5026.

Pa. DHIA Services Expand In Lancaster

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

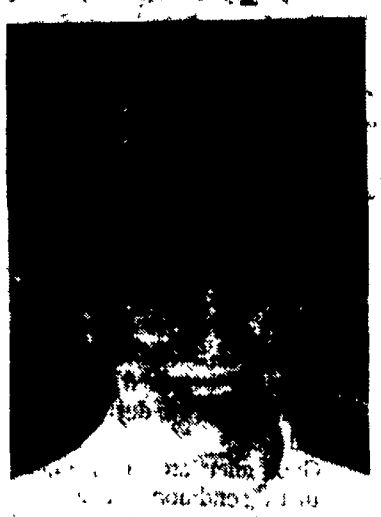
STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Due to a recent, overwhelming response by Lancaster County dairymen, Pa. DHIA has hired a full time technician to begin duties within the county.

Joleen Herbert of Terre Hill, comes to the Lancaster county dairymen with a 1997 associates degree from Penn State, which should be very instrumental in marketing, promotion and responsibilities of a circuit.

Joleen is a graduate of Lancaster Mennonite High School and was very active in 4-H as well as the local FFA chapter where she held the office of president in 1995.

Pa. DHIA continues to be on the cutting edge of technology by having a milk urea nitrogen testing program that is accurate. Just recently, Pa. DHIA participated in a round robin comparison with the National Lab Manager Associations and was the most accurate and consistent in the nation.

This is important knowing that dairymen monitor their ration program for maximum efficiency of milk production and better reproductive health.



Joleen Herbert is to serve as Pa.DHIA technician to members in Lancaster County.

Currently Pa. DHIA has two other circuits within the county that are maintained by Jay and Lois Anne Risser, which represents far over 50 years of experience.

Please feel free to contact Pa. DHIA at 1-800-344-8378 if we can assist you with milk urea nitrogen testing needs or explain any of the numerous testing options currently available.

On the other hand, investing in a properly sized and well designed dairy should buy a per cow cost of $3,500.

$1200 heifer ready to freshen

$1000 six row free stall barn built for twenty year life (and then self-destruct because it's obsolete!)

$800 parlor facility with equipment for ten year life

$500 silo and etc.

$3500 total investment

A herd producing 24,000 pounds should net at least $700 per year per cow, giving you a 5 to 7-year payback, and not a short fall of $300 per year in land investment.

26. Determine what things you can do well, and then hire someone to do the other things that need to be done.

27. Take time off in order to recharge your optimism and enjoy life.

28. Select a mentor dairyman and then copy them.

29. Get off dead center and move ahead with your plan. Nobody is going to do it for you, but there is alot of good professional help if you are willing to take the lead. Take control of your density. Be happy and enjoy life. Your children will want to be farmers too!

Creek, of Hagerstown, Md., was re-elected as director of Region II; and Karen Kulp was elected to serve as director of Region III.

Association President Rodgers told the group that the demand for Ayrshires is increasing, but in order for breeders and enthusiasts to help current interest continue and grow stronger, they need to be active in registration and promotion.

He said the 10 most important words to him are, "If it is to be, it's up to me!" He said they apply to the Ayrshire breed, because nobody is going to help the breed continue, much less improve, if it isn't individuals already involved with the breed.

Further, he said that while it wasn't brought up in earlier discussions, he sensed that the breed could benefit from its apparent usefullness to those in the dairy industry who are stressing the grazing of animals.

"We need to capitalize on the window of opportunity," he said. "We have cattle that will do well making efficient produciton on green grass."

He said that while that is but one positive aspect of the breed, there are more and it is up to individual breeders to recognize, enhance and promote those beneficial characteristics.

"We have to think, 'How can we make a contribution?'" he said, "first to ourselves on our farm, but also to the breed."

In awards presentations, the association created new catagories in an effort to provide incentives for genetic improvements, and to recognize those who have been making improvements.

Those who received citations for genetic merit are to have herd information published free in the Ayrshire Association's journal, as well as other considerations.

The new genetic progress awards are divided into three categories.

The first catagory recognizes the top 20 percent of the Dairy Herd Improvement Records herds for genetic merit of young animals registered under two years old; and the top 20 percent of DHIR herds for genetic merit for milking cows.

Catagory II recognizes the herds that have one of more individual animals in the top 2 pecrent, also known as the Elite Cows List. It also recognizes the herds that have five or more animals designated a "P9" rating according to the ranking of pedigree animals.

The first two catagories each have two awards subdivisions, while the third catagory has four awards subdivisions.

The first subdivision of the third catagory is production awards. They recognize herd owners who have increased their herd average for milk, fat and protein production by 3 percent or more in each of the three production traits.

The second subdivision is for performance awards, recognizing the increase in CPI within the herd by 3 percent or more.

The third subdivision recognizes pedigree achievements, by honoring those with a PI increase of 3 percent or more.

The last subdivison recognizes the top 9 percent of herds classified for BAA.

Publicity is to be given all award recipients in the Ayrshire Digest, while there are waivers of enrollment fees for DHIR, or one-time 50 percent discounts on pedigrees.

There were numerous awards presented, with details to be coming from the association after the convention.

In comments from Robert Schrull, executive secretary, he reported that while the association has had a negative year cash wise, it is positioned to move foward with member activism.

He said that much of the money loss, was really a "paper" loss. He said that 79 percent of the loss of funds is attributable to depreciation, write-off of accounts receivable, and write-offs related to activities prior to 1994.

The rest of the loss, he said were due to a decrease in registration and transfers income.

"The statements give cause to be discouraged, but when one fully considers the position in which ABA is strategically, there are considerable reasons to be optimistic, but we must seize the opportunities before they pass, and follow up this optimism with additional action.

"Complacency is our only enemy. We, those who provide registry and performance services, along with you, who live the day-to-day operations, must resist complanceny and communicate not only among ourselves, but, more importantly, to others the benefits of owning and breeding Ayrshire cattle.

"If we think someone else will do it, we are in for years of disappointment. If we each do our part, we will see success beyond that which we thought was possible."

Ayrshire Breeders Association President John Rodgers tells the convention attendees that opportunities are good for the breed, but that opportunities are nothing without people taking action.

From the left, ABA President John Rodgers presents Don Gable of Pennsylvania with an Ayrshire "French Trophy" which recognizes the top two places in production classes.

Dairy Situation And Outlook For June 16

By Bob Cropp
Dairy Marketing And Policy Specialist
University of Wisconsin
Cooperative
Extension-Madison

The pattern of milk production among the 20 reporting states for the month of May was similar, for the most part, as March and April production. May milk, compared to a year ago, was up 2.1 percent, the strongest relative increase this year. April production was up 1.7 percent. This stronger increase was do to improvement in milk production per cow, up 3.2 percent for May compared to 2.8 percent for April. Milk cow numbers were down 1.1 percent from a year ago for both April and May. On a daily basis May's milk production was down lightly, .3 percent from that of April.

Wisconsin's milk production for May was unchanged from a year ago. This is the first month since January 1996 where Wisconsin did not experience less milk than the previous year. This year, Wisconsin's production had been running about 2 percent below a year ago. But excellent milk per cow, up 4.8 percent offset the 4.6 percent fewer milk cows in May. The excellent milk per cow reflects favorable May weather and perhaps some increased production due to new pasture. But the main reason for this favorable increase is because of poor milk per cow for May a year ago, down 3.2 percent from the year earlier. In fact, average milk per cow was up only slightly in 1996, .3 percent from that of 1995. So we can expect the relative increase in milk per cow to remain strong, if this year's feed supply and weather is favorable. This would help to offset the decline in the number of milk cows. A similar situation was true for Indiana and Michigan where both states had milk production above a year ago, Indiana up 2.1 percent and Michigan up just slightly, .2 percent rather than past months' declines. Much better milk per cow was the reason. Indiana up 2.3 percent and Michigan up 4.8 percent.

May milk production, compared to a year ago, for the other top dairy states was similar as recent past months with California up 8.3 percent, New York down 2.1 percent, Pennsylvania up .7 percent and Minnesota down 1.7 percent. Idaho continues to have the greatest relative increase in milk production, up 9.5 percent and Arizona was second with an increase of 7.9 percent. New Mexico has an increase of 3.9 percent while Texas production continues to run below a year earlier, down 6.1 percent, the result of 2.3 percent fewer cows and milk per cow down 3.5 percent.

In the Southeast, the relative changes in milk production from a year ago were improved in May. Florida had an increase of 6.9 percent, Kentucky, rather than declining, had an increase of 1.2 percent and Missouri had a decline of 1.8 percent rather than declines in recent months of 4 to 6 percent. This improvement was also due to better milk per cow where, for example, Kentucky's milk per cow, as compared to a year ago, was up 7.8 percent.

Despite milk production, as compared to a year earlier, being up just 1.7 percent for April and 2.1 percent for May, farm level milk prices continue to decline. The May Basic Formula Price (BFP) declined $.74 from April to $10.70 per hundredweight, $3.07 below a year ago and the first time the BFP dropped below $11 since February 1993 when it was $10.74 per hundredweight. Cheese is the major factor for these lower milk prices. Nationally, cheese production is slowing. Total cheese production in April was down 1 percent from a year ago, the first year-to-year drop since August 1995. While Wisconsin's total April cheese production was down 4 percent from a year ago, production was up 17 percent for California and 10 percent for Idaho. April production of American type cheese was up 1 percent with Wisconsin down 5 percent, Minnesota down 12 percent, but California's production was up 52 percent and Idaho's up 11 percent. The increased milk production in California and Idaho is being channeled into cheese production. Cheese demand has been rather soft as buyers wait to see where prices will settle out. Cheddar barrel prices on the CME declined .5 cents per pound for the first two weeks of May and 40-pound cheddar blocks increased ¼ cent per pound. But stocks of cheese remain relatively high. As of April 30th, commercial stocks of Natural American cheese totaled 423.1 million pounds, 12.4 percent more than 1996's 376.5 million pounds and 26.4 percent more than 1995's 334.7 million pounds. Most disturbing to the possibility strengthening cheese prices in the very near future was the 344,062 pounds of 40-pound block cheddar cheese from the Midwest being sold during the week of June 9 to the CCC under the dairy price support program at $1.13 per pound. This was the first CCC price support purchase of 40-pound cheddar cheese since May 1991. Sales to CCC by this midwestern plant most likely would not be made unless their stocks were building and they did not anticipate in the near future much strength in cheese prices.

CME butter prices, on the other hand, strengthened the last half of May, up 20 cents per pound for Grade AA and 19.5 cents per pound on Grade A. April 30 commercial butter stocks were 40.9 million pounds, up 9.9 percent from 1996's 37.2 million pounds, and up 22.7 percent from 1995's 33.4 million pounds.

Nonfat dry milk prices remain weak and CCC continues to purchase Western nonfat dry milk under the dairy price support program. Some increased DEIP activity may help to reduce nonfat dry milk stocks and lend some price strength.

Farm level milk prices will not strengthen until cheese prices begin to recover. Recovery will occur, but the question is when and how fast. There are a lot of factors that weigh in here. Hay stocks as of May 1, 1997 were lower compared with last year in 27 of 48 estimating states. U.S. stocks of all hay totaled 17.4 million tons on May 1, down 16 percent from the previous May, the lowest May stocks in 32 years. Reports are that first cutting hay is short in midwest and northwest states. What happens to hay production the remainder of the summer and the production of corn, soybeans and other crops are key to future milk production and milk prices. Poor hay, grain and oilseed crops would add strength to milk prices this summer and fall. But favorable crops will dampen price increases. Related to crop conditions is how weather impacts milk per cow. Cooler summer weather means cows will milk better than hot and humid weather. Commercial sales of milk and dairy products is also critical to future farm level milk prices. Indications are that commercial sales may improve, especially with cheese as retail cheese prices are anticipated to decline and the food industry use of cheese is expected to increase.

At this time I believe we could see the BFP increase gradually, reaching $12.50 to $12.75 per hundredweight by September or October. The BFP for 1997 could still average near $11.90 per hundredweight compared to $13.39 for 1996 and $11.83 for 1995. The average all milk may be near $13.00 per hundredweight compared to $14.71 in 1996 and $12.78 in 1995. Hence, the average for 1997 farm level milk prices may be similar to that of 1995.

MILK PRODUCTION HIGHER SOMATIC CELL COUNT LOWER AS MORE DAIRYMEN TEST FORMULA-M

As I am writing this, there are hundred and hundreds more Dairymen testing Formula M. The results are trickling in. By the time you read this, we may have the final results. I have been testing Formula M for years and all the results have exceeded my expectations in appetite improvement; higher energy level; giving more milk; cows (even the extremely difficult or next to impossible ones) getting pregnant on the first breeding.

AND NOW!!! Dairymen everywhere are telling me that the Somatic Cell Count goes down when they feed Formula M. Over and over, I am hearing that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down. Dairymen tell me that they have tried other products and that they thought they saw some benefits, but the same Dairymen tell me that they see very dramatic differences almost immediately when using Formula M. Dairymen say they see a vast improvement in energy level and appetite. They say that they can see a significant increase in milk in a week to ten days after starting on Formula M. Some Dairymen say their cows average 5 pounds more milk per cow, per day. The last reports I am waiting for are on Somatic Cell Count. They keep coming in and they keep verifying what we have been told many times before, that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down when feeding Formula M.

If I had known all this before I set the price, (8¢ per cow, per day) I might have charged more. After all, it looks like most Dairymen will make an extra $1.00 per cow, per day.

Formula M is a powder and it comes in a 5 gallon plastic bucket. Feed Formula M according to the directions on the label, only ½ ounce per cow per day. (Formula M is very concentrated. ½ ounce per day is all they need). You can put Formula M in the TMR, you can put it in your grain mix or if you prefer, you can top dress Formula M. All you need to do to get Formula M is call one of the numbers below. We ship the same day by UPS. Make the check payable to FRANK LAMPLEY and give it to the driver when he delivers.

A 5 gallon bucket is enough for about 40 cows for one month and costs only $92.00 (I pay freight). Formula M is completely free of drugs and made by the same people who make Vitamix.

There is one question that keeps coming up over and over, "How long do I have to keep feeding the Formula M?" "Forever?" The answer is, "Only as long as you want to keep making the extra dollar per day, per cow."

Liz Smith Begins Reign As Lancaster's Dairy Princess

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "Wow!"

That exclamation and a dimpled smile summed up the emotions of 18-year-old Elizabeth Ann Smith when her name was announced as the new Lancaster County dairy princess.

The two received their appointments at the pageant held at the Farm and Home Center last Saturday.

Elizabeth, or Liz, as she is often called, is a student at Penn State Berks Campus. A former graduate of Cocalico High School, Liz was involved in choir and the school musical. In the community, Liz served as secretary of the Cows "R" Us 4-H Club, is a 4-H teen leader, and is a Lion ambassador.

Liz is the daughter of Thomas and Dale Smith. She has a sister Mary married to Andy Sims, and brothers, Brian, 16, and Andrew, 10.

The Smiths own 140 acres called King and Queen Farm in Denver. Their 105-head herd includes Holsteins, Brown Swiss, and Guernsey breeds.

Liz said that her dad has always wanted her to pursue the crown for dairy princess. "I was waiting for the right time," she said.

Her studies in communications should benefit her duties as she promotes the dairy industry.

During the summer, Liz works part time at Weaver Markets in addition to milking cows. She enjoys reading, volleyball, working with her 13 dairy animals, cooking, and spending time with family and friends.

"Both Liz and Megan are highly qualified to be effective promoters," said Lauren Campione, one of the judges at the event. The two other judges were Betty Cole, Maryland Area Dairy Princess chairwoman, and Steven Dietrich, Lehigh dairy agent.

Megan is the daughter of Leon and Linda Good of Marietta. She has a brother Cody, 13.

A 16-year-old student at Donegal High School, Megan is active in field hockey, as baseball team manager, in Booster Club, Varsity Club, chorus, rhythm singers, student council, class secretary, Rabbit 4-H Club, and her church youth task force.

The Goods milk 32 Holsteins on their 27-acre farm.

The two contestants for the crown gave a presentation and answered two impromptu questions before the audience.

The questions: What qualities do you believe a person should possess to be successful? And how do you personally measure success?

According to Liz, one of the most important qualities of a successful person is self-esteem. "It won't matter what others think. If you believe in yourself, you can do it," she said.

Personal success for Liz is doing her best even if she doesn't achieve the goals set.

Dressed in a cow uniform, Liz lamented the plight of a cow and its place in history and in the present.

Meagan said that she considers honesty, caring, and responsibility for actions as qualities for success. Personal success depends on the situation, she said. For her as a newly-licensed 16-year-old, not hitting any cars is a success.

Dressed in sunbonnet, shawl, and apron, Meagan portrayed the oldest woman in Lancaster County, who credited the nutrients in milk for keeping her healthy.

Seven dairy darlings were selected to help in promotional events. These included Monica Hershey, daughter of Dale and Debbie Hershey of Kinzers; Vanessa Frey, daughter of Terry and Belle Frey of Mount Joy; Katie Hershey, daughter of Steve and Brenda Hershey of Manheim; Lydia Kiser, daughter of John and Bonnie Kiser of Christiana; Cheryl Hershey, daughter of Dale and Marcia Hershey of Ronks; Alysha Royer, daughter of Lynn and Sarah Royer of Lancaster; and Karen Shaub, daughter of Kirk and Shirley Shaub of Leola.

Last year the county did not hold a pageant because they had no contestants. Instead, four dairy ambassadors between the ages of 13-15 were appointed to fulfil many of the duties of a dairy princess.

These included Elisa Ranck, daughter of Don and Virgina Ranck of Paradise; Katie Hess, daughter of Joe and Linda Hess Jr. of Mount Joy; Heather Brubaker, daughter of Lowell and Deb Brubaker of Manheim; and Lara Welk, daughter of Lloyd and Laura Welk of Quarryville.

The four formed closed friendships seven years ago when they served as the county's first dairy darlings. These four are positive evidence that the purpose of appointing dairy darlings to encourage interest in dairy promotion at a young age in the hope that the participants will continue in dairy promotion works. The girls plan to participate in the dairy princess program when they are older.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Heather Oberholtzer, former Lancaster County dairy princess who went on to be crowned state alternate in 1995-1996, crowned the new princess and gave a farewell speech since a pageant had not been held at the end of her term.

"Smiling is the key ingredient to dairy promotion," Heather said. With priority time needed to devote to both schoolwork and dairy promotions, Heather said, she could not have fulfilled her responsibilities without the help of her family and alternates Andrea Kreider and Monica Rohrer.

Last year's dairy darlings were also recognized. These include Heidi Benner, Allison Glick, Brenda Hoover, and Sarah Linde.

Grover Gouker Jr., master of ceremonies, participated in a milk toast to the dairy industry led by outgoing dairy princess Heather Oberholtzer and the dairy ambassadors.

In other business, Jim Barnett presented a Dairy of Distinction Award to Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Gockley. The Gockleys were the only recipients of the Dairy of Distinction Award this year.

Dairy promotion involvement is a must for the family of Paul and Pat Miller, seated. The Dauphin County couple are known for Paul's work with the Holstein Association and Pat's work on the board of Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotional Services, Inc. Daughter Deb was both Dauphin County and state dairy princess in 1974-75. Since then she married Lowell Brubaker and had four children. Their daughters Heather and Crystal have served as dairy darlings. Heather just completed a term as an ambassador and plans to run for dairy princess in the future. Candice is 6. Two other granddaughters, Holly and Heidi Miller, work on their parents' dairy farm in Dauphin County and will probably become involved in the program. "With six granddaughters, one, at least, should become a dairy princess," Paul said.

As the only boy among so many girls, 10-year-old Blake Brubaker often hears his dad Lowell say that it has its advantages. "I grew up with three sisters and it taught me how to deal with women. There's no problem that I can't handle," Lowell said.

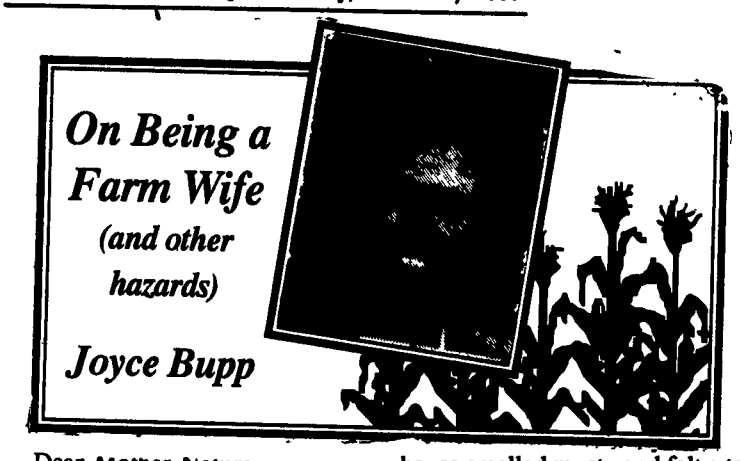
If It's Worth Your Investment Trust It To Hershey



Dear Mother Nature,

It's 4:30 a.m. Do you know where your robins are?

I'll tell you where they are, Mother. At least a couple of them. They're overhead in the maple trees, pestering the sun to get up and crawl over the horizon. And at least one mocking bird just chimed in with them.

Know what, Mother Nature? They sound fantastic.

We crossed the final hurdle last week.

Arriving home from a meeting on an absolutely gorgeous evening, I stepped into the house and wrinkled up my nose. After basking in the warmth, brightness, and fragrance of the first truly summer weather, our heavily-shaded house smelled musty and felt a tad damp. Like walking into a cave. I stomped through the kitchen and — after the usual brief struggled with cranky storm windows — flug the house into full-bloom summertime mode.

And, boy, is it great to have the windows open again.

There's a whole different emotional and pschological atmospher between looking outside through a couple of layers of dust-streaked glass or through a thin veil of window screen. Life with the windows flung wide open is the epitome to me, like camping out, but with all the comforts of inside, plus a barrier to keep the pesty bugs at bay. Well, most of 'em anyway.

That probably sounds whako to enthusiasts of air conditioning. Of course, living in a century-plus brick house, with a basement floor partially buried in our sloped ground and surrounding by 70-feet tall maple trees so thick we rarely see sunshine through them from May through November has a lot to do with that attitude. When July's worst heat and humidity moves in for one of those ten-day stretches, we turn on our version of central air: a window fan parked at the foot of the basement stairs, blowing the always-cool air up to the living room.

By daybreak, the birdsong concert has reached a musical crescendo, robins and mockingbirds, various sparrows, finches, redwing and ordinary blackbirds, catbirds, cardinals and other assorted seasonal locals restaking their territorial rights. A low hum of traffic on the interstate picks up the occasional start-up sounds of a vehicle mark early-bird neighbors heading off for work.

Progress of our farm day is marked by the sounds floating through the open windows. Passages of tractors and equipment telltale trips from silos to feed bunks, haymaking, silage chopping, and bales of bedding and hay headed for cows and heifers. The sounds of pickup motors hint of errands being run, people being moved from shop to field; sprayer loads of liquid fertilizer on its way to feed fields of young corn. A louder sound of larger motors indicate fuel or dairy supplies or bedding sawdust or calf feed deliveries. Occasionally, I'll half-wake in the wee hours of the morning to hear the co-op's dairy tanker pulling out with another day's harvest of milk.

Sometimes, the sounds that drift through our open windows on the world are of a more warning nature: the ominous, far-off rumble of an approaching thunderstorm ... the throbbing siren alert of Loganville's fire company nearby ... the pained bawling of a cow in the final one-more-push last stage of calving. Or, the crackling of leaves and limbs in the backyard and thudding of hooves on the pavement out front, signaling that a couple of heifers have figured out some way to add a bit of fun to their lives with an escape adventure.

Occasionally there are more unusual "fun" sounds, like the North Central's dinner train whistle signalling at the Glen Rock crossing or the melodic chimes of the sno-ball vendor enticing the neighborhood kids out for an icy treat.

Dusk is fast facing to dark when the open windows usher in the croaking bullfrogs on bug-patrol at the ponds. And, one robin is still chortling high up in the trees overhead.

It's 9:30 p.m., Mother Nature. Tell that bird to go home to its nest. And rest.

WE HAVE STIR AERATOR TO HELP WITH

FLY & ODOR CONTROL

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE

SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

An Eleven Step Program To Kill Your Trees

Everyone loves shade trees except when they are dead or dying trees. Proper tree care begins with good tree selection, mulching and fertilization.

Sometime the best way to learn how to properly care for trees is to highlight what not to do; ergo Dr. Treevorkian's prescriptions.

Many 'what not to do's' seem quite obvious no-nos. In some communities neighbor after neighbor repeat poor tree care practices. Here's the eleven steps to kill your trees.

Plant a tree in the wrong place. Put a flowering dogwood or Japanese maple in hot, full sun and you will provide the type of stress that encourages dogwood borers or Verticillium infections of roots on the maple. The tree suffers a slow decline and death. Don't pave an area above tree roots or cut the roots when making changes in the grade.

Plant pestiferous trees. Plant European white bark birches and sit back and watch the bronze birch borers arrive. Plant a single tree type. Wait for a pest or disease causing organisms to have a feast. Examples include Dutch elm disease on American Elms or Euonymous scale on euonymous shrubs.

Change the soil grade. Add soil over the root system or plant too deep and just wait for the resulting stress to cause your tree to decline and die a slow death.

Overmulch. Adding 6-8 inches of organic mulch or more instead of the recommended 2-3 inches, especially by mounding it around the trunk helps promote crown rots by keeping the trunks moist. Overmulching results in overly wet soils for extended periods, and provides great hiding places for bark-feeding rodents in the winter.

Provide poor nutrition. Plant pin oak, river birch, and white pine in highly alkaline soils and watch the results. These acid-loving plants will not be able to get adequate iron from the soil. Even with remedial care, the result over the years is usually a declining tree.

Prune poorly. By topping the trees and leaving huge stubs leads to tree decline and death. Removing 70-80% of the foliage drastically reduces the trees food-producing capacity. This blow to the tree's energy balance is sure to pay off with premature tree death.

Girdle the plants. This is as close to sure tree death as it gets. Simply leave non-degrading twine or wire used to tie the root ball around the base of the tree. It will be loose at first, but gradually it will tighten as the tree grows in girth and eventually the twine or wire will become imbedded in the stem and be a barrier between the food coming from the leaves through the stem to the roots. Without food the roots will die and fail to send water up to the leaves. Tree death with follow.

Let the soil dry out. On young trees the root ball needs watered weekly through the summer months. Overfertilizing young trees can 'burn' roots making it harder for trees to survive a drought.

Compact the soil around trees. Heavy foot traffic, lawn mowers, or automobiles can reduce oxygen and water to tree roots. Also avoid letting vines grow on trees that deprive the tree of water and light.

Bang a lawnmower into the bark. Trees that are injured at the base never recover from severe injury. String trimmers also cut the bark leading to premature death.

Vandalize a neighbor's tree. Vandals express their anger by defacing young or old trees. Ways to prevent vandals include planting large trees (minimum of 2" caliber), prune lower limbs to at least 8' above the sidewalk or use trees with thorns.

Have The Right Tools For Gardening

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Digging around in your garden is not exactly brain surgery, but like surgeons, every gardener should have the right tool for the right job.

Laymen may say that a shovel is just a shovel, but a scientist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences points out that real gardeners need a spad — and about four other essential gardening implements.

"These days there are catalogs and stores with very specialized equipment, but many gardeners really just need some basic tools," says J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture. "Once you have a solid set of tools, then you can branch out into specialty equipment."

Nuss recommends five basic tools:

•A long-handled spade. This tool is designed for digging. The blade is straight and set at an angle so it cuts easily into the soil. "A spade is not a shovel," Nuss explains. "A shovel is designed like a scoop and is used to move material from one place to another."

•A spading fork. This tool has flat, square tines and is used for moving heavy soil. "Spading forks are invaluable for preparing soil in the spring and harvesting some types of vegetables in the fall," Nuss says. "Don't confuse it with a pitchfork, which has rounded, slender tines and is used to move straw or compost."

•A steel rake. These large rakes are used to break up clay, to smooth out soil, and to rake in fertilizers. "If the garden is large, get a wide, heavy rake," Nuss says. "It wouldn't hurt to have a wide leaf rake for lawn work."

•A hoe. Hoes are used to form rows, cover seeds, move soil, cut out weeds and make holes for planting seedlings. "Hoes come in all types and sizes, but most gardeners don't need heavy ones," Nuss says. The most versatile hoes are dual-purpose models, with a triangular cutting head on one side and a cultivating tool with three tines on the other side."

•A hand trowel. Any hand tool that makes gardening more efficient is an invaluable addition to the homeowner's arsenal of tools. "Hand tools are best for marking rows, weeding, making furrows and moving small plants," Nuss says.

Nuss says when it comes to gardening, choosing a big tool isn't necessarily better. "Heavy tools are fine for big people, but if you are short on size or energy, pick smaller tools," he explains. "The same logic applies to picking the best handle length. Tools are extensions of the body and should be used for extra leverage or reach when pulling or cutting."

Udderly Delicious Recipes To Celebrate June Dairy Month

This is the third installment of recipes from our readers who sent in dairy recipes for the cow mania drawing. Next week's issue will include the final installment and the names of the persons who won the cow mania prizes.

Enjoy dairy recipes all year long with these easy, nutritious, and udderly delicious recipes.

CRUNCHY ICE CREAM PIE

⅓ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
⅓ cup butter, softened
2 cups cornflakes, slightly crushed after measured
½ cup flaked coconut
½ cup nuts
1 quart vanilla ice cream, slightly softened

Measure sugar and butter intc mixing bowl. Beat until light and fluffy. Add corn flakes, nuts, and coconut. Mix until combined. Reserve ¼ cup corn flake mixture for topping. Press remaining mixture evenly and firmly in bottom and around sides of pie pan to form crust. Chill then spread in ice cream. Sprinkle with reserved corn flakes.

I am a 16-year-old girl who lives on an 92-acre farm. We milk 65 Holstein cows.

I enjoy my job of helping in the dairy barn with my brother and three sisters. I have three married brothers. My twin brothers live in Lewisburg, Union County, and one of my brothers lives on farmland adjoining our farm. I also have four nieces and one nephew.

My hobbies are sewing, cooking, and working in the garden or fields. I enjoy my live on the farm.

LEMON YOGURT MUFFINS

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons honey
1¼ cups plain yogurt
¼ cup butter, melted
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel

Combine dry ingredients. In separate bowl, combine wet ingredients. Stir together two mixtures with a fork. Fill greased muffin tins ¾ full. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes. While baking, make glaze.

Glaze:
⅓ cup sugar
⅓ cup lemon juice
3 tablespoons water

Boil ingredients for one minute. Drizzle glaze over warm muffins. Yield: 12 muffins.

Yogurt sales in the United States are continuing their healthy growth rate of about 10 percent annually, and researches are predicting a sustained increase as new varieties of low-fat milk yogurt continue to hit the market.

Health concerns, changing lifestyles, and dietary preferences are partially responsible for yogurt's rise. Also key to the growth are aggressive marketing efforts by manufacturers, and the dairy industry, coupled with the addition of flavored and fruit-added yogurt varieties.

Consumers recognize that yogurt is a healthy food. An excellent source of calcium, yogurt also contributes protein, riboflavin, phosphorus, magnesium, and vitamin B. The caloric content varies, however, depending upon whether the yogurt is made with whole, low-fat or skim milk, and if fruit or flavors have been added.

Because it is made from milk, yogurt is one of the best dietary sources of calcium. One 8-ounce carton of plain low-fat or nonfat yogurt provides more than half the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance of calcium for children between the ages of one and 10 and men and women over the age of 19.

Until a few years ago, manufactures concentrated on creating new yogurt flavors. Today, consumers can choose between many types, flavors, and styles including whole milk, low-fat and nonfat yogurt that are plain (unflavored), flavored or combined with fruit.

Growing in popularity are the breakfast yogurt that contain fruit, nuts, and grains. Yogurt with chocolate and other dessert flavors appeal to those with a sweet tooth.

Yogurt drinks have been reformulated and reintroduced by several manufactures. Becauce they don't require the use of a spoon, they are an even more convenient way to enjoy yogurt.

SCALLOPED POTATOES

2-6 pounds cooked, diced potatoes
1 chopped onion
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 pint sour cream
½ stick butter, melted
2 cups grated cheese
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Mix together ingredients and spread in any baking dish. Top with the following mixture:
½ cup butter
2 cups crushed corn flakes

Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Adding sour cream and onion powder to this recipe is also yummy. I almost always omit the corn flake topping. I like these potatoes for a change, but my husband (like most farmers) and one-year-old daughter prefer the "good ole mashed potatoes!"

BRUSSEL SPROUTS IN CREAM

2 cups heavy whipping cream
1½ pounds brussel sprouts
1½ teaspoon finely minced fresh ginger
1 teaspoon finely minced garlic
½ teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper

In a heavy saute pan, heat cream over medium-low heat. Bring to a boil and simmer at a slow boil until the cream is reduced by one-third and is thick and yellow.

Meanwhile rinse and trim the sprouts. Cut each into six slices about ¼ -inch thick. When the cream is reduced, add the seasonings, then add the sprouts and gently turn them to coat with the cream. Cook the sprouts, turning frequently, for about 5 to 6 minutes, watching them carefully so they do not scorch. They should be cooked through, but still crisp. Serve immediately, this does not reheat well. Makes 4-5 servings.

CHEESE BALLS

1½ pounds ground beef
2 eggs
¾ cup tomato juice
1½ cups ground beef or bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped onions
¼ tablespoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
10 1-inch square cheese pieces

Mix first nine ingredients in a mixing bowl. Divide into 10 portions and pat meat firmly around a block of cheese. Place into a greased 9x13-inch pan. Add brown sugar to 1 cup tomato juice. Pour over top. Bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes.

PINEAPPLE CAKE

1 yellow cake mix
1 cup milk
1 small package instant vanilla pudding
8-ounces cream cheese
20-ounce can crushed pineapples, drained

Bake cake mix in 13x9-inch baking dish according to directions on package. Cool. Whip milk, vanilla pudding and cream cheese. Spread over cooled cake. Spread drained pineapple over pudding. Top with whipped cream.

My name is Kristina. I am 11 and in sixth grade. We really like when Mom makes this cake because it is very good. I like exploring the woods and reading exciting books about any kind.

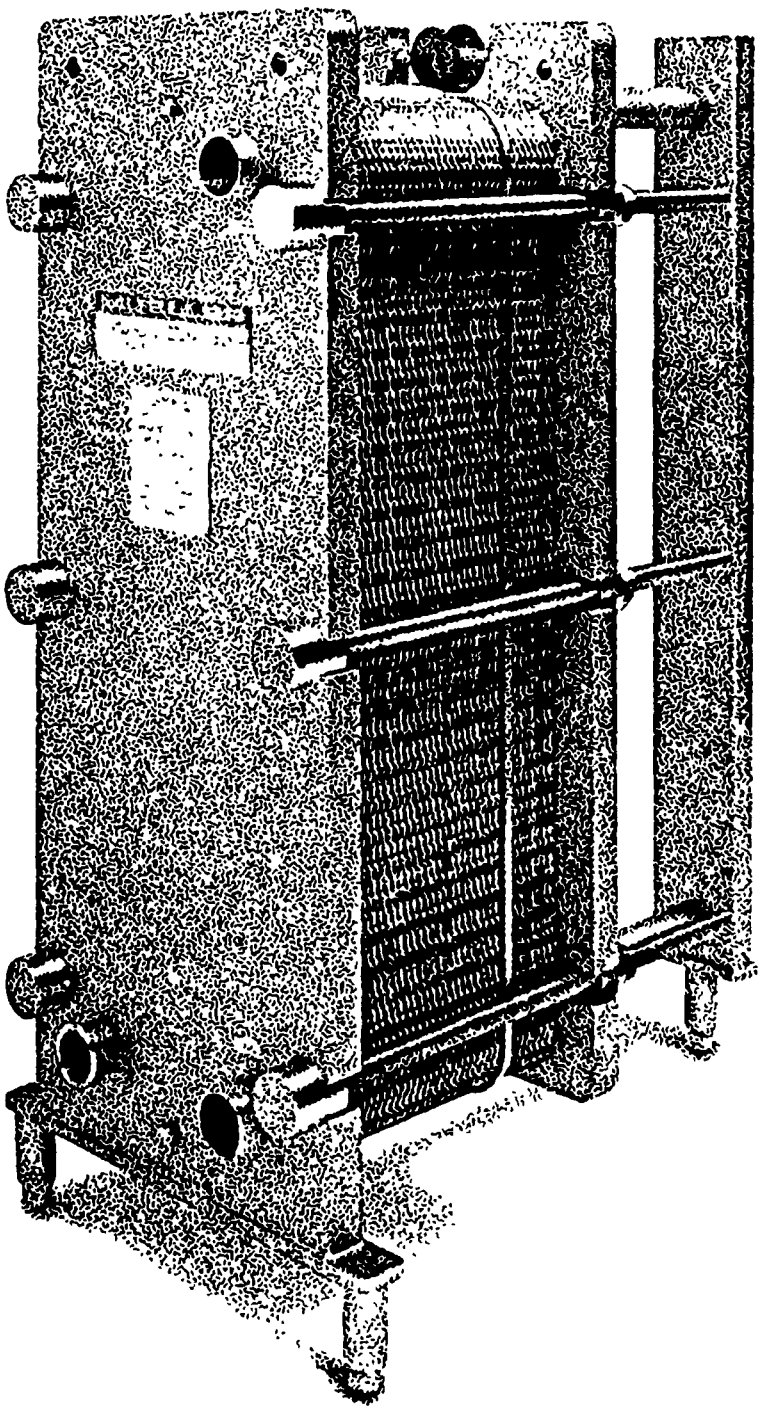
Clowning Around At Hershey Museum

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Delight in the comic antics of members of Harrisburg's Zembo Clown Unit at Hershey Museum every Wednesday from 11 a.m.-1 [illegible], June 14 through August 27. These funny-faced characters fit right in with the Museum's summer exhibition "The American Circus in Miniature" created by Bill Cooker also of Harrisburg.

Behind the humorous names like "Bozem," "Slipknot," "Zippy," and "Twinkles" are men with a serious purpose. These clowns have been in community service since 1965 working on many Shrine projects. Of particular significance is their helping burned and crippled children in the 19 Shrine hospitals and three burn centers throughout the United States. The clowns also work throughout the area on a variety of worthy causes. A testament to their clowning abilities is the capturing of first place awards for 15 of the last 17 years in the Mid-Atlantic Shrine Parade. Zembo Clowns can be seen during the Shrine Circus held at the Farm Show Building each spring.

"The "American Circus in Miniature" exhibition features the circus Big Top with three rings of animated entertainment including the wild animal act, Clown Alley, the cook tent, menagerie tent housing the show's variety of exotic animals, the midway, and the side show. Also on display is Cooker's lifetime collection of circus memorabilia as well as circus memories of local residents.



IS THIS SOMETHING I CAN LIVE WITHOUT?

Yes. But it's an excellent way to lower the cost of cooling milk. It reduces milk temperature with water pumped straight out of your well. Mueller® precoolers are available in sizes to work with any system. If lower electric bills would make your life easier, call us and ask for more information on Mueller precoolers.

ANSWER — Regarding Susan Daniel's request for Apea cookies, Ielena Bussard, Quarryville, sent in her grandmother's version, which is an old Pennsylvania Dutch recipe.

Apeace Cookies

3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup regular or sour milk

Mix together sugar and flour, cut in shortening. Dissolve baking soda in milk and add to above. Roll dough ¾ -inch thick on floured board. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes.

Note: I roll them thinner and cook for less time. My grandmom Hanna Huber make the following in cake form.

6 cups flour
3 cups brown sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup shortening
1 cup milk

Bake at 400 degrees in oblong cake pan until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. These were used for "dunkin."

ANSWER— A reader wanted a recipe for cinnamon syrup made with apple juice and cinnamon to put over pancakes or French toast. Thanks to Naomi Blank, Kinzers, for sending a recipe.

Spicy Apple Syrup

In a saucepan, combine:
1 cup cold water
6-ounce can frozen unsweetened apple juice, thawed
¼ cup sugar
1½ tablespoon cornstarch
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon vanilla

Stir mixture over medium heat until it simmers and clears, about 10-12 minutes. Serves warm over ice cream, pancakes or crepes.

ANSWER — Donald Love, Somerset, wanted a recipe for making fried rice with eggs. Thanks to Margaret Kaltreider, Brockbecks, for sending a recipe.

Fried Rice

1 cup cooked cubed meat, chicken, pork or small can shrimp
1 green onion, thinly sliced
1 large onion, chopped
½ box mixed carrots and peas, thawed and drained
4 cups cooked white rice
2 eggs, beaten
Soy sauce
Vegetable oil

Heat wok or skillet until hot. Add 2 tablespoons oil, rotating pan until bottom and sides are coated. Add onion and green onion.

Stir fry until onion just starts to become transparent, about 4 to 6 minutes. Push everything to one side. Add eggs and stir quickly, cooking completely and keeping them in small pieces with your spatula. Mix altogether. Add rice and 2 to 3 tablespoons soy sauce, stirring until rice is coated by the soy sauce and is hot. Serves 4 to 6.

May substitute ground beef or ground turkey for the meat. Steam well in pan before adding. Use a cast iron pan.

ANSWER — Sarah Clark of Everett wanted a recipe for Texas Hurricane Cake. Thanks to Betty Light, Lebanon, for answering.

Texas Tornado Cake

1½ cups granulated sugar
2 eggs
2 cups fruit cocktail, including syrup
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 cup chopped nuts (walnuts or pecans)
¼ cup brown sugar

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Grease 13x9x2-inch pan.

In a large bowl, combine sugar and eggs, beat until smooth. Stir in fruit cocktail. Sift flour and soda and stir into fruit mixture. Pour into prepared pan.

Mix together brown sugar and nuts and sprinkle over the batter.

Bake for 30 to 40 minutes or until tester comes out clean. Spread icing on cake while hot.

Icing:
½ cup butter
½ cup evaporated milk
¾ cup brown sugar
1 cup flaked coconut

Combine butter, milk, and sugar in a saucepan. Stir until butter is melted then add coconut. Bring to a boil for 2 minutes. Spread on hot cake as soon as it comes out of oven. Cool then cut into squares.

ANSWER — Here are some recipes from Heather Lehman, Cumberland County Dairy Princess. Heather suggests that these are good recipes for parents and kids to bake together.

Muffins With Cinnamon-Butter Topping

2 cups all-purpose flour
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar, divided
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter, cut into slices
¾ cup milk
1 egg
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Divide batter among 12 paper-lined muffin cups. Bake 15-18 minutes or preheat oven to 400 degrees. In medium bowl, combine flour, ½ cup sugar, baking powder, and salt. Add butter, cut in with pastry blender or two knives until mixture is crumbly and resembles small peas. Beat together milk and egg. Add to flour mixture; stir just until combined. Do not overmix; batter will be lumpy, until lightly browned. Remove from oven; cool 5 minutes. Remove muffins from tins and transfer to wire rack. Combine remaining 2 tablespoons sugar and cinnamon. Brush tops of muffins with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar mixture. Serve warm.

Variations: For blueberry muffins, fold in 1 cup fresh or frozen blueberries into batter; do not overmix.

For Carrot-Raisin Muffins, decrease milk to half cup. Stir 8-ounces crushed pineapple, undrained, ½ cup grated carrot, ¼ cup raisins, and ¼ cup chopped pecans into batter. Divide batter among muffin cups. Mixture will almost fill cup. Bake 20-25 minutes or until golden. Proceed as recipe directs.

DIRT

20-ounces Oreos, crushed (more if desired)
¼ cup butter
1 cup confectioners' sugar
8-ounces cream cheese
2 small packages instant chocolate pudding
3½ cups milk
12 ounces whipped cream

Cream butter, confectioners sugar and cream cheese. Mix chocolate pudding and milk. Combine the creamed mixture with the mixed pudding. Fold in whipped cream topping. Layer crushed Oreos and pudding mixture in flower pot, starting and ending with oreos. Refrigerate overnight. Put flowers in pot before serving with shovel.

Note: You will need 8-[illegible] flower pot, silk flowers, and shovel.

We have been subscribers to Lancaster Farming for many years. Look forward to receiving it, ususally on Monday. I enjoy the section with Farm Women news and recipes. My husband enjoys reading all of it, especially about auctions, etc. We do own a farm but rent it out to a neighbor who farms between 400-500 acres.

Keep up the good work. We have made many trips to Lancaster County and points east. The country is so beautiful in that area. Our area is rather hilly and cannot be farmed like down East.

PHILADELPHIA ICE CREAM

1 quart whipping cream, scalded
¾ cup sugar
1½ tablespoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt

Mix together scalded whipping cream and sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool. Blend in vanilla and salt. Freeze as directed on the ice cream freezer.

For different flavors, add before freezing: Fresh peach, strawberry or raspberry, 1½ cups mashed fruits sweetened with ½ -¾ cup sugar.

Banana: Omit vanilla and add 1½ cups mashed banana, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Pineapple: ½ cup drained crushed pineapple.

Orange-almond: ½ cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon orange zest, ½ cup chopped blanched almonds.

Peppermint: ½ cup crushed peppermint stick candy.

Nut Brittle: 1 cup crushed almond, pecan, or peanut brittle.

Chocolate Chip: 1 cup shaved bits of semi-sweet chocolate.

Black walnut: ½ cup chopped black walnut.

Pistachio: ½ cup chopped pistachio nuts, ½ teaspoon almond flavoring and a few drops green food coloring.

I love to cook, I love food, and I love seeing people enjoy the food I cook for them.

I got this from my mother Naomi Zeller. She shared with us children (11 of us) the joy of cooking for others; whether it was for church, the Grange, carnivals, etc.

This recipe shows what I me[illegible] Ice cream was made in cra[illegible] freezer we each took turns cranking. We had to freeze two containers. Momma always smiled while we ate her creations.

Lancaster Farming has given me a chance to keep giving recipes. It is one way of helping people enjoy recipes that I like.*

Summer Reading

Summer reading, those two words can create a variety of images in your mind. Your past reading experiences may determine the image you see. For adults, a tote bag of paperback mysteries for pool side or beach may be the image popping into mind. Or maybe the best-selling novel packed into the suitcase for a vacation retreat is your ideal summer reading picture.

For school-age children, summer reading may mean joining the summer reading club or a list of required books to read before school begins in the fall. For the younger child, who barely has a concept of summer reading, we need to create a pleasant and positive reading experience.

Reading is important to all children, infants to teens and, of course, the "young at heart." Books can help children explore their world, both near and far. While enjoying stories, children are increasing their language skills, listening skills, and attention span. Holding a family story time brings children and parents together and helps children feel secure. Stories can provide a quiet activity time during a busy summer schedule.

To help children develop into life-long readers we need to provide:

- a constant supply of age-appropriate reading materials
- the time for reading — independently and in groups
- a wide variety of children's books
- a role model for children — Be a reader!

This summer help your family begin or continue a summer reading tradition. Try one of these ideas to spark interest in reading:

- Set up a family read-aloud story time (The New Read-Aloud Handbook by Jim Trelease offers suggestions)
- Create stories, then make into a book to share with friends
- Keep a vacation journal, complete with illustrations or photos
- Visit the public library to see what special offerings they have: reading clubs, story time, activities, or movies
- Write a letter to a family member or friend
- Visit the local book stores to see about summer programs offered and suggestions of age appropriate books
- Check out yard sales and closet clean-outs for inexpensive books other children have outgrown
- Books or book certificates also make great summer gifts

Make reading a special time in your home this summer.

Kids Korner

Bugs, Dirt, Plants Fascinate Kids

"Who likes bugs?" Wilbur Siegrist asked. He is the guy with the funny hat made from newsprint spray-painted green and decorated with a bird's nest and bird in it.

The free event included an opportunity for children to select flowers to plant in a pot to take along home with them.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

BRICKERVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "Who likes to get your hands dirty?" Wilbur Siegrist asked about 100 youngsters on Tuesday.

Cheers and a wave of hands answered in the affirmative.

That's exactly what the participants at Esbenshade's Garden Center got to do when they attended Kid's Day.

They examined good bugs and bad bugs. They listened as children's author Toni Albert explained how to make a rain forest in a bottle. They planted a pot of flowers to take home and even got to take a few good bugs home.

"I liked the bugs best," said Paige Carr of Lititz.

So did a lot of other kids, but some didn't like them at all.

When Siegrist released a swarm of ladybugs — considered good bugs — some children shrieked and covered their faces, but others greeted the advent with enthusiastic yells.

Siegrist and other participants wore hats made from crumpled newsprint sprayed green. A bird's nest and a bird perched in the moss wrapped around the hat's brim.

Ten-year-old Ashley liked listening to author Toni Albert talk about nature and the interesting ways to make "your own little garden."

"You can make a woodland garden from things growing wild in the lawn and woods," Ms. Albert said. "People call some of these plants weeds, but a weed is only a plant growing where it is unwanted. Weeds can be really pretty plants."

Ms. Albert suggested using containers such as an old shoe or an old tin in which to grow plants.

You can make an ecopond by digging a hole, dropping an old dishpan into it, and filling with water.

But the highlight of Ms. Albert's talk was her instructions on how to take a plastic green soda bottle and turn it into a miniature rainforest.

Ms. Albert planted one about nine months ago and has never needed to water it, but it looks like it is raining inside and the plants are growing.

"I am going to plant one when I get home," several children said.

Ms. Albert's book, "The Remarkable Rainforest," includes many activities for those interested in rainforests. The book and 35 others that teach about nature and caring for the earth by the same author are available at bookstores.

"Good bugs are like friends," Siegrist said.

Children yelled out the names of some good bugs that they knew. These included ladybugs, ants, praying mantis, bees, and butterflies.

The praying mantis egg sac contains about 200 eggs, but not all the eggs will hatch. When praying mantis are little, they eat small bugs, but as they grow, they keep eating larger bugs such as grasshoppers.

You can buy good bugs to put in your garden to make it healthier. Soil with lots of earthworms and good bugs is usually a good place to grow a garden because they make holes in the soil that helps oxygen to enter the ground.

The good bugs eat bad bugs that kill plants. Some of the bad bugs are so tiny that they can barely be seen. These include white fly and aphids.

Jane Johnson helped the kids plant their own gardens. She told them how plants need air, water, and food to survive.

Each child was given a fiber pot. They could select their own flowers from a variety of petunias, marigolds, dusty miller, and other kinds. They even got a garden stick with their name on it to mark the flowers.

Esbenshade's Garden Center, 546 E. 28th Division Highway near Lititz plans to hold more events for children. For more information, call (717) 626-7007.

"Gardening can be a valuable learning tool if the child is left the responsibility to care for the plants," Siegrist said.

Where are all the honey bees?
Tiny insects, called varroa mites and tracheal mites, have been making the honey bees really sick
Mites are nearly everywhere, but they are so small that you need a microscope to see them. Varroa mites (say va-ROW-ah) bite bees and suck their blood, just like ticks bite dogs. Mites grab bees in spots the bees can't reach to get them off As the mites take the bees' blood, the bees begin to feel really yucky
Tracheal mites (say TRAY-key-al) hide in special tubes that bees use to breathe. The mites lay their eggs in the tubes, especially the ones that get oxygen to the bees' wings. The eggs are so big that they nearly block off the tubes Because the bees aren't getting enough oxygen to their wings, they can't fly to get food.
With the varroa mites taking the bees' blood and the tracheal mites blocking the air passages, the honey bees were too weak to fight off viruses and other infections. A lot of the honey bees have died from these infections.
But don't worry — our scientist friends are looking for ways to stop the mites. A simple mixture of sugar and solid vegetable shortening might be the answer. Scientists aren't sure why, but the shortening seems to stop the mite attacks Beekeepers put the sugary mix into the hives, and because bees don't like outside stuff in their house, they clean up the mess by eating the sugar The shortening gets all over them — which keeps those mites away!
Scientifically yours, Twig

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My husband and I had an unusual experience the other week. You see, a group of folks from Canada decided to reenact an exodus of Pa. German people to Canada in Conestoga wagons after the American Revolution in 1776.

We met these Canadians at the [illegible] Barn near the Landis Valley Museum. Here a program was planned that replayed a meeting in this same 1754 large barn. It was here May 10, 1767 that two ministers found that they had the same Christian beliefs.

Rev. Boehm and Rev. Otterbein embraced as "brothers" and founded the United Brethren Church which is now the United Methodist Church. It is said that 1,000 people congregated at this Long Barn for religious services in 1767.

It was a very difficult journey to Canada in Conestoga wagons. The German-speaking people included Lutherans, Mennonites, Dunkards, United Brethren, and Catholics. Most of these persons were loyal to the Crown and felt uneasy about their future. Although it meant leaving family and friends, they moved north.

Recently several hundred gathered in the old barn and sang heartily. Often the singing was punctuated by cattle bawling in the stable below. All of the straw bales were lined up and filled with a diversity of people.

One thing that made this program special to my husband and I was our particular connections. His "Risser" family was one of those who left Lancaster County for Franklin Couty and then on to Ontario. And, my grandfather was born and raised on this farm and probably spent many a day working in this same barn near Lancaster.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 3

Berks County Farm Women Group 3 met at the Oley home of Lora Oswald for an Everybody's Birthday Party. Games, desserts, and presents were enjoyed.

The next meeting is a road rally. Members ill meet at the home of Leona Stauffer, Boyertown.

York Society 26

York County Farm Women Group 26 celebrated its 31st anniversary on May 22. The group was organized May 10, 1966, and is known as Green Valley Society of Farm Women #26. Charter members still active are Mary Conley, Athena Beshore, and associate member Louise Pennay.

Thirteen members and two guests had lunch at Hoss's Restaurant in Carlisle and then went to Martee Mentzer's (The Chicken Lady) in Carlisle to see her collection of chickens. They consist of all kinds, such as ceramic, china, glass, pewter, baskets, seashells, etc.

The June meeting will be held at the Dover Family Restaurant with Group 13.

Lancaster Society 20

On Thursday, June 5, Farm Women No. 20 met at the home of Barbara Stone with Marie Foose as co-hostess. Following the brunch, Marie read the Scripture from the book of James and the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was said.

The program was very interesting as Sandy Yocum was there with at leat 35 or 40 dolls of all different descriptions and sizes. She has 500 dolls and as she showed them she would describe their dress, tell how she came to get them as some were from other countries. It was truly very interesting and them to add to it when each society member was called for Roll Call, they would either show or tell about their favorite doll.

Marie, the president, presided at the short business meeting at which time the Sunshine Committee reported three cards had been sent during the month. The president announced the County Picnic will be held August 5 at the home of Kathryn Fry in Manheim. The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner" to meet in July at the home of Anna Mary Groff with Freda Wimer cohosting and the time is 11:00 a.m.

WORK WATCH

Still Running Strong

In past years we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. A watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard and in the woods. Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. The BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your watch stops running within TWO YEARS of the date of purchase the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge.

To receive your new work watch, complete the coupon below and send it with your payment. Your work watch will arrive shortly.

DILL PICKLE SOUP

In 1 tablespoon melted butter, saute until transparent 1-2 tablespoons onions, finely chopped.

Add:

4-5 dill pickles, thinly sliced

1-1½ cups soup stock

Bring to a boil and add:

1 cup sour cream

Cook, but do not boil, for 10 minutes. Serve hot. Garnish with chives.

My husband and I both grew up in the Midwest. A job transfer brought us to Pennsylvania with our four children. We are still here after 25 years because we love this glorious state. On retiring, we bought 12 acres on a high hill with a wonderful view. We have an apple orchard with 150 trees, a woods, and several meadows. We built our home and are now working on a small barn. Both in our 60s, we find this kind of work keeping us fit and happy. Our four children and five grandchildren live an hour away so we are blessed with many visits.

SOUR CREAM COFFEE CAKE

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
2 eggs, add one at a time
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream together first five ingredients. Add:

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Filling and topping:

4 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cinnamon

Spread half of batter in a greased and floured bundt pan. Sprinkle half of filling mixture over the batter. Spread remaining batter and cover with remaining filling and topping mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes. Enjoy!

My husband and I have two grown sons and a daughter-in-law and another daughter-in-law on the way.

We raise and train oxen. We have five oxen, two mules, and one Belgian draft horse. Oh, and a donkey named Elmo. I read your "Home on the Range" weekly. Thanks for some great recipes.

ANGEL BISCUITS

2 packages dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
2 cups warm buttermilk
5 cups flour
⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 tablespoon salt
1 cup shortening
Melted butter

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Let stand 5 minutes. Stir in buttermilk; set aside. Combine flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda, and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles course meal. Stir in yeast-buttermilk mixture; mix well. Turn onto lightly floured surface; knead lightly 3-4 times. Roll to half-inch thickness. Cut with a 2½ -inch biscuit cutter. Place on lightly greased cookie sheets. Cover and let rise in a warm place about 1½ hours. Bake at 450 degrees for 8-10 minutes. Lightly brush tops with melted butter. Yield: about 2½ dozen.

The secret to good biscuits is using buttermilk. These biscuits are delicious served with hot tea and strawberry jam for a quick meal. Use the leftover biscuits to make egg and biscuit sandwiches for breakfast.

LIMA BEAN CASSEROLE

16-ounces lima beans
1 can cream of potato soup
¾ cup milk
1 can onion rings
1 cup or more cubed or grated Velveeta cheese

Cook lima beans until almost done. Drain well. Set aside. Grease a 2-quart baking dish; mix soup and milk in baking dish. Add cheese and lima beans and mix well. Stir in half can onion rings. Bake in 350 oven for 30 minutes; top with remaining onions and bake 5 minutes more or microwave at 60 percent power for 10 minutes covered; add remaining onion rings and cook 5 more minutes.

I am dating Ken Rexroth, who is a farmer. He and his son, Jim, own 1,000 acres and rent 1,000 more. They milk 120 Holstein cows and raise beef cattle in addition to the crops. They grow corn, soybeans, wheat, barley, alfalfa, and timothy hay. I work in an office three days a week but I am at the dairy barn in the mornings to help with the feeding the other days. I enjoy cooking and I love to bake so preparing lunch for everyone is fun for me. I like reading all the recipes each week and have saved many of them. Several I have tried have become favorites around here.

GRANDMA'S CREAM CHEESE COOKIES

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.
Sift together:
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
Cream together:
1 cup butter
8-ounces cream cheese
Add and beat until fluffy:
1 cup sugar
Add and stir well:
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
Add flour mixture; stir well. Stir in 11½ ounces milk chocolate chips
1 cup nuts
Drop by teaspoons onto greased baking sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. Cool on wire rack.

I enjoy the outdoors in the summertime. I have several new flower beds that have lots of perennials in and some I don't know their names. I really laugh for I get some of my plants from older flower gardens and they say "I don't know what it is, it just has a red flower and looks like this!"

So I plant.

I also enjoy all the birds of summer and making them toast each morning to come to the patio to eat. We have a Baltimore Oriole that sings to me when I am hanging the clothes on the line.

Grandchildren—I have five of them. The four in West Virginia are Salena, Abbie, Tiffanie, and Dakota. I have made them each a favorite afghan. Bailey who lives in Florida has hers also. I make them from an Old German pattern, which you start at the corner with one stitch and keep adding until you get your width and length and just go back and just go back down to one stitch. Salena's is red and navy blue, Abbie's is purple and white; Tiffanie's is emerald green and pink; Dakota's is navy blue, light blue, and claret; and Bailey's is pink and white. They are very warm and heavy; excellent for on their beds in winter.

I enjoy baking cookies when time permits. I like the soft old-fashioned cookies. When I start to bake, I just can't stop until I have a table full. When my mother was alive she would close her eyes and say these taste just like my aunts of long ago. I mail cookies to my grandchildren and to my son in California. So they do get around.

My husband is a Lutheran pastor who stays very busy doing all the work that God has cut out for him to do. He loves to do his vegetable garden and he is a flower bulb person too. So our flower gardens do complement each other with the plants and different bulbs. We stand in awe as we watch them grow and bloom. We are so amazed at what God can do with what we put into the earth. It is the best feeling to get your hands into God's earth and watch Mother Nature take over.

I do collect cows in my kitchen and have a lot of different ones. My refrigerator is covered with magnets of mostly cows. The one I just got says, "moo unto utters." So I do moo around and am also known as Aunt Moo to my niece and nephew.

CREAMED PEAS AND POTATOES

4 medium potatoes, cubed
10-ounces frozen peas
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk

Cook potatoes in saucepan until tender. Cook peas, adding sugar. Meanwhile, melt butter in a saucepan. Add flour, salt and pepper to for a paste. Gradually stir in milk. Bring to a boil. Boil one minute or until thick and bubbly. Drain potatoes and peas. Place in a serving bowl. Pour sauce over and stir to coat. Serve immediately. Serves 6-8.

My husband Frank and I are anticipating moving on the home dairy farm this fall. Right now, Frank is helping with the farm work. We have one daughter Kristin, who will be one-year-old in July. She is busy gettting into things, keeping me on my toes!

I like to cook and sew. I especially enjoy looking at the recipes each week in the Lancaster Farming.

TAFFY APPLE DIP

1 8-ounced package cream cheese, softened
¾ cup packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon vanilla
½ cup chopped peanuts
6 apples cut into wedges

In a small bowl, beat cream cheese, brown sugar, and vanilla until smooth. Put mixture in small bowl with apples wedges surrounding bowl for easy dipping.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

Crust:
½ cup butter
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
½ cup nuts

Chop ingredients together like a pie crust. Put into 9x13-inch pan. Bake at 400 degrees, stirring occasionally, until brown, about 20 minutes. When cooled, crumble and press half of mixture into the 9x13-inch pan. Save the remainder for topping.

Filling:
1 pint frozen strawberries, thawed
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ pint whipping cream

Mix together all but cream in a very large bowl and beat for 25 minutes. It will increase greatly in size. Fold in whipped cream that has been beaten. Pour filling over crumbs. Top with reserved crumbs. Freeze for several hours or a day before serving. Serves 12 to 15. Store leftovers in freezer.

I have enjoyed this recipe as a child and now my family is enjoying it. My husband Jim and I have two children, James, 3, and Heather, 1. Jim is a dairy farmer.

We hope you will enjoy this refreshing dessert on those hot summer nights to come.

CHICKEN PIE

Filling:
3 tablespoons butter
2 stalks celery, diced
2 carrots, diced
1 small onion, minced
¼ cup flour
4 cups cooked chicken, diced
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup chicken broth
1 can cream of mushroom soup
Bread crumbs

In skillet, melt butter, saute celery, carrots, and onions until soft. Stir in flour, broth, salt, and milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Fold in mushroom soup and chicken. Put into 9x13-inch baking pan. Put desired amount of bread crumbs on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes.

PUMPKIN TORTE

24 graham crackers, crushed
⅓ cup sugar
½ cup butter
2 eggs, beaten
¾ cup sugar
8-ounces cream cheese
2 cups pumpkin, mashed
3 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
3 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
Whipped cream

Mix cracker crumbs, ⅓ cup sugar, and butter. Press into 9x13-inch pan. Mix beaten eggs, ¾ cup sugar, and cream cheese.

Pour over crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Cool. Cook pumpkin, egg yolks, ½ cup sugar, milk, salt, and cinnamon until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and add gelatin dissolved in cold water. Cool. Beat egg whites with ¼ cup sugar and fold into pumpkin mixture. Pour over cooled crust. Top with whipped cream.

We live on a dairy farm and have two children ages two and one.

I like trying new recipes.

MOM'S TAPIOCA

1 gallon milk
8 eggs, separated
2 cups sugar, divided
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups tapioca
2 tablespoons vanilla

Soak the milk, beaten egg yolks, 1 cup sugar, salt, and tapioca for 5 minutes in 8-quart kettle. Heat to boiling and boil 5 minutes. Fold in the egg whites (stiffly beaten with 1 cup sugar). Remove from heat and add vanilla. Cool. Stir and chill. Serves 50.

It's Dairy Month again. Every year goes faster it seems. Guess that means we're all happy, healthy, and busy, with much to be thankful for! Our three little girls are growing up so fast. Sharon, 5, Caroly, 3, and Elaine, 17 months old. We all enjoy the farm and feel thankful we can be on one. Hope you enjoy the many recipes like I do.

4-H Leader Program

The annual 4-H Leader Recognition Program was held recently in Montrose, Susquehanna County 4-H Leaders who have served one, five, 10, 15, 20, or 25 years were awarded certificates and pins. The program was sponsored in part by local financial institutions, and their representatives presented the awards.

First-year leaders attending the recognition program were Stephem Demarest, Jan Grace and Pat Wescott. Stephen Demarest, from the Forest Lake area, has served as a resource leader for horse and livestock projects. Steve has officially enlisted as a leader for one year, but has been a big supporter of 4-H and has helped members for many years. Jan Grace is a leader with the Bits and Bosals 4-H Club and has been a great help to the Horse and Pony Club leaders, as well as the members in her club. Jan was one of the charter members of the Bits and Bosals 4-H Club, and has a lot of 4-H horse experience. Pat Wescott has officially signed on as a resource leader and works mostly with the Hoofs in Clover Horse and Pony Club, but Pat is another one who has helped out at 4-H events for many years.

Eight leaders were recognized for five years of volunteer work. William Goff is a leader with the Watrous Corners Club. He has extensive background in 4-H, having been a very active 4-H member as a youth. Marie Hardic is the organizational leader for the East Rush Community Club, one of the largest 4-H clubs in that area of the county. She and her husband Don help youngsters with many various project areas, from dairy to rocketry. Susan Harvatine has been helping with 4-H programs for more than five years. Many 4-H members have enjoyed her "work behind the scenes" through the ski club of the past, and at dairy camp and other activities. Byron Hunsinger has been a key element in the leadership of the D.E.S. Dairy club for at least five years. He has assisted with county-wide dairy camp and roundups, too. Jennie Lester has a lot of 4-H background that she shares with the members of the Born to Show Dairy Club. As a former Susquehanna County Outstanding 4-H'er she participated in dairy, horse, livestock and community clubs. Douglas Puzo is a leader in the Watrous Corners 4-H Club, but has also been very helpful with county wide programs. He is responsible for the success of the Kiddie Tractor Pull, which has become a highlight for many youngsters at the fair. The 4-H signs on the 4-H building at the fairgrounds are also a credit to this leader. Stephen Wilcox works with the Footprints 4-H Club, leading both hiking and woodworking projects. He also serves on the Susquehanna County 4-H Advisory Committee. Steve is another "handyman" of the county 4-H program, and often helps with miscellaneous tasks at the fairgrounds during fair week. Nelson Stone, along with his wife, Barb, were responsible for starting the Lakeside 4-H Cllub just east of New Milford. He has been successful in recruiting members as well as leaders into the programs, and currently is an assistant to the organizational leaders, Larry and Karen Hardy.

There was one leader awarded a 10-year pin and certificate. Becky Shultz is another leader with a lot of 4-H experience. She is a former member of the Bits and Bosals Horse and Pony Club and now leads a very active group known as the Cowboys and Cubbers 4-H Club.

Marily Race and Walter Race are a husband and wife team who have helped many 4-H'ers over the past 15 years. They often represent Susquehanna County at state and national leaders' forums and bring back enthusiasm and the latest information to our county program.

Janice Spering has also served as a volunteer leader for 15 years. She has helped many 4-H'ers over the years with the 4-H Spinning Club and more recently with the Little Elk Lake Community Club.

Three leaders were recognized for 20 years of service. David Castrogiovanni has been making great things happen for Susquehanna County 4-H since he was a 4-H member. Dave works with the county Dairy Judging team, which has represented Susquehanna County very well at many State competitions. Natalie Hawley is another former member. She has been a leader in several different clubs, including the Pins and Needles, The Pinsplitters, and the Baconeers Swine Club. In the early '80s, Natalie was instrumental in helping with details for the 4-H building at the fairgrounds when it was erected 16 years ago. Joan Stalter has been a leader in the North Jackson Ag Club, and presently with the Sizzlin' Steaks Beef Club. She is very active with the Livestock Leaders, serving as treasurer for that group. Irene Myers has served as a 4-H volunteer leader for 25 years. She is the organizational leader for the South Montrose Busy Bees 4-H Club, where she helps youngsters with a wide variety of projects and activities. In 1996, members from this club completed more projects per members then in any other club in the county. Irene has been helpful to the 4-H program — members, leaders and extension staff — in many ways over the years.

4-H Officers' Training

Adams County 4-H club presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, treasurers, news reporters, game leaders, and song leaders learned more about their duties at the 1996 4-H Officers Training Session.

An Adams County 4-H Senate Committee planned the session to help each officer better understand their particular office responsiblities.

Specific workshop presenters were Sadie Bucher and Heidi Miller, New Oxford Presidents' and Vice Presidents' Workshop; Carol Rex, Bendersville, Secretaries' Workshop; Darlene Resh, county agent — 4-H, Treasurers' Workshop; Vicki Miller, New Oxford, News Reporters' Workshop; and Jesse Murren, Hanover and Jeanna Rothhaupt, Gettysburg, Game and Song Leaders' Workshop; and Jesse Murren, Hanover and Jeanna Rothhaupt, Gettysburg, Game and Song Leaders' Workshop. More than 50 4-H members attended.

Special recognition was given to clubs with all elected officers in attendance. Abbottstown 4-H Club received a choice of items to help their club function more effectively. The Thirty East 4-H Club coordinated the registration. Each officer attending received a 4-H pen/pencil and 4-H notepad from the Adams County 4-H Senate. Refreshments were served by the 4-H Sheep Club.

Cumberland 4-H

The Cumberland County 4-H Livestock Club met April 21 at the Plainfield Fire Hall.

Two new members were welcomed into the club. They are David Sigler and Matt Frost.

Everyone who attended the banquet in March was thanked for their participation in helping to make it a success. Members interested in purchasing a club shirt, jacket, or hat signed up to order club logo clothing. Members will be receiving a $10 credit for their order.

The Cumberland County 4-H and FFA Junior Livestock Benefit Auction was held May 16 at the Embers in Carlisle.

Adams County Farm Safety Day Camp

Adams County Cooperative Extension and 4-H, with assistance from the American Trauma Society — Pennsylvania division, will be hosting the 1st Adams County Farm Safety Day Camp on July 23, at the South Mountain Fairgrounds.

A full day of interactive safety demonstrations is planned for youth 8-13 years old. Any child from Adams' County, within this age range, is welcome to attend regardless of whether or not they live on a farm.

Youth will participate in ten interactive stations that will cover the following safety areas: lawnmower, fire, bicycles, first aid, electricity, PTO entanglements, flowing grains, poison control, all terrain vehicles, and tractor rollovers.

Several other suprises are planned throughout the day. Regisgtration will begin at 8:30 a.m. and the day will finish with supper and skits concluding at 7:30 p.m.

An advanced registration fee of $2/child is due to the Adams County Extension Office by July 1. Registrations will be received until the maximum number of participants is reached, so register early. The goal is to have a commemorative T-shirt and first aid kit for each participant. For additional information or registration forms, contact the Adams County Extension Office at (717) 334-6271.

Finally, a program of this magnitude cannot be undertaken without financial and volunteer support. Any person or group willing to contribute financially or provide volunteers should contact Darlene Resh or Larry Swartz at the Adams County Extension Office located at 1135 Chambersburg Road, Gettysburg.

4-H Forestry Invitational

John Creek of Shippensburg will be a member of the team to represent Pennsylvania at the National 4-H Forestry Invitational to be held at the Jackson's Mill 4-H Camp in West Virginia Aug. 3-7.

John was chosen for the Pennsylvania team by placing in the top four during the recently held Pennsylvania 4-H Forestry Judging Event held at the Ag Progress Days site is Rocksprings. John was the highest scorer at the event in forest evaluation. Serving on the team with John will be Tresa Albright from Bedford County, Dan Ackerman from Somerset County, and Seth Conway from Clinton County.

Mother's Day Horse Show A Success

It was a pleasant but breezy day for the 25th annual Gum Tree 4-H horse show, a popular Mother's Day activity.

Mothers who attend received flowers and special recognition for all the work they do in supporting "children who ride." Special awards to class winners were black T-shirts with silve lettering commemorating the 25th year of Gum Tree 4-H.

The show received good community support for Gum Tree, one of the largest 4-H horse clubs in Pennsylvania, and including members from nearby Maryland and Delaware. Show champions follow.

Spurs 'N' Burrs

For May the group did not have a meeting. They had a pet fair.

The club provided a demonstration on simple horse management.

The club also had a snack stand. There was a police dog demonstration. People could bring their pets and get a picture taken of them. A member could take his or her pet for other people to look at. Members could also take their pet, dress it up, and enter it in a contest.

4-H Club Plants Trees

A local 4-H club recently planted trees along the Susquehanna River in Exeter Township. The club used funds from a grant by the 4-H National Council and Deft, Inc. to purchase Famous and Historic Trees.

Club members attended a workshop with Urban Forester Vinnie Cotrone where they learned why trees affect water quality locally as well as water quality in Chesapeake Bay.

Planting one of the trees are Vinnie Cotrone, Kaitlin and Jenn Bitters, and Bobbi Deitz.

4-H Science Discovery Kits Available

"4-H Science Discovery Kits" are available for Hunterdon County youth programs at the 4-H Department of Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Hunterdon County.

These kits help youth program staff and volunteers, as well as classroom and after-school teachers, to provide science lessons to youth using a fun, learn-by doing approach. Each kit contains a lesson plan and nearly all of the teaching materials needed to teach the lsson in a hands-on way. The kits are aimed at teaching youth in group settings such as clubs and other meetings, day camps and school classrooms.

These lessons were developed by faculty and staff of Rutgers Cooperative Extension. Topics are:

•Geology Where you live (Rocks & Minerals — best for grades 3-7)

•Don't Trash the Planet! (Recycling/Solid Waste — best for grades 3-6)

•Tree-Mendous Fun (Trees — best for grades 2-3)

•As Big As A Whale! (Whales — best for grades 4-8)

•Good To The Last Drop (Water — best for grades 3-6)

A youth leader or teacher can sign out one kit at a time, for a period of one week. A simple, one-page evaluation/report form needs to be completed when the kit is returned.

For more information, contact the 4-H office at (908) 788-1340 or 1341.

Lancaster 4-H Woolies Club

Nancy Frey and Laurie Schr[illegible] arranged the April meeting for the 4-H Woolies Club held at the West Lampeter Fairgrounds. John Eaton explained how to pick a show lamb. Curt Diffenderfer explained how to feed sheep. Dr. Brian Reed talked about keeping sheep healthy. Fritz and Nancy Frey explained the equipment needed for shows.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questons but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — E.L. Langan, Malvern, writes that he has a 32-acre horse farm and wishes to screen the borders with evergreens. What species is recommended and what spacing should be followed to encourage hardiness, fast growth, and disease resistant.

He also wants to know what type and size of equipment should be used to maintain the pastures of the 32-acre horse farm.

QUESTION — Durwood Tuttle, Knoxville, wants to know where to mailorder parts for a piston water pump. He needs a Daton, but other name brands might work, he writes.

QUESTION — Bonnie Blain, Halifax, wants a pattern for an upright vaccuum cover that looks like a doll with a dress or apron that goes to the flood.

QUESTION — A reader writes that his lawn has dried spots in several areas. Wherever the dead spots appear, red fire ant hills are popping up everywhere. Is there anything other than pesticides that can be used to get rid of them?

QUESTION — Linda Smith, 26 New St., Glen Rock, PA 17327, wants to know if anybody has a pattern for the Rubic Cube Quilt or where she can buy a pattern.

QUESTION — E. Gingrich, 2704 Meadow View Rd., Manheim, PA 17545-8320, wants a new or good used Mirror 2½ quart pressure cooker No. M-1952, Pat. No. 4038719. It is no longer being made.

QUESTION — Paul Charles, Wellsboro, is looking for anterless deer licenses from the 1950s for Montgomery County as his father's was lost in a fire. Call him at (717) 724-3482.

QUESTION — Mrs. Adolph Steger, Groton, N.Y., wants to complete a set of Corning dishes in the pattern Wisteria and learned it is no longer manufactured. She also needs to replace a few luncheon, bread and butter, and dinner plates in Royal Garden (a Corning product). Does someone have a few extra pieces to sell. Contact her at 100 Chipman Corners Rd., Groton, NY 13073.

QUESTION — Glenn Roller, Spring Grove asks where cast iron Christmas fencing, the kind used years ago, may be purchased.

QUESTION — Mary Ann Reich writes that she purchased an electric range with a porcelain top several years ago. Included was a bottle of cleaner, which she used sparingly because it is expensive. She wants to know if there is a less-expensive substitute to clean and shine the surface.

QUESTION — Lynn Rossi, Lititz, wanted to know where to buy 8-inch glass pie plates, not the larger sizes.

QUESTION — Janet Grove, Airville, wants to know where to find Sugar 'n Spice herbs and spices, which were sold at home parties at one time. Later, she found them at a shop in Willow Street, but the shop is no longer there.

Cancer Reduction

ST. LOUIS — Two glasses of whole milk a day may keep the doctor at bay, according to researchers at the University of Idaho and Washington State University.

The fatty acid known as conjugated linoleic acid (CLA) has been shown in rodent models to reduce the risk of several cancers. Since CLA is formed by rumen bacteria, dairy products, and beef are natural sources of CLA.

"The commmon, but incorrect perception is that whole milk contains fat that is bad for your. The truth is whole milk has many positive nutritional attributes. People need to consume good fat in moderation and the CLA in whole milk is good fat," says Mark McGuire, Ph.D., University of Idaho Animal and Veterinary Science Department, Moscow, Idaho.

Scientists have found that CLA consumption decreases skin, breast, colon and prostate cancer in laboratory rodents. McGuire estimates that an increase in the human consumption of CLA may decrease the risk of cancer dramatically.

"So far CLA has a very positive effect on all of the cancers studies. There have been no negatives to date," he says, adding that the National Academy of Sciences maintains that CLA is the only food ingredient to unequivocally inhibit cancer.

ANSWER — Mildred Wilson, Brockway, wanted the words to the poem, "Flour Sack Underwear." Thanks to Margaret Strause, Leesport, and an anonymous person for sending the words.

Flour Sack Underwear

When I was a maiden fair
Mamma made our underwear
With five tots and Pa's poor pay,
How could she buy lingerie?
Monograms and fancy stitches
Were not on our flour-sack britches
Panty waists that stood the test
With Gold Medal on the chest.
Little pants, the worst of all
With a seam I still recall.
Havesters were gleaning wheat
Right across the little seat.

Was our flour sack underwear.
Plain and fancy, three feet wide,
Stronger than a hippo's hide
Through the years each Jill and Jack
Wore the sturdy garb sack.

Waste not, want not, we soon learned.
Penny saved, a penny earned.
Bedspreads, curtains, tea towels too,
Tablecloths to name a few.
But the best beyond compare
Was our flour sack underwear.

ANSWER — A Paradise reader, David Blank, wanted to know where he can buy replacement glass fillers for wide-mouth Thermos. Shirley Rohrbaugh writes that Geo. M. Zerfing Hardware, Inc. at Gettysburg, has the requested model number in stock. Call (717) 334-1122 or (717) 359-4833.

ANSWER — Gerald Shaner, Hughesville, wanted to know how to season an old butchering kettle that is very rusty. Thanks to M.V. Runkles III who writes: Take a brick-bat—a piece of brick that fits in your hand and perhaps a quart of sand. Lay the kettle on its side, throw a couple of handfuls of sand into the kettle, moisten and rub with the brick-bat. Add water and sand as needed, and gradually turn the kettle as you get the rust off. This may take an hour or two, but it works. Sandblasting is another alternative but it opens up the pores in the cast-iron and leaves a rough surface. After you have gotten the rust off, rinse with hot water and immediately coat with any non-salted grease or vegetable oil. Paraffin is good if you are not going to use the kettle right away.

ANSWER — A reader wanted someone to clean an antique tapestry, hanging since 1926. Thanks to M.V. Runkles III, who writes that Ed Shaneybrook at Shaneybrook Textile Conservators is probably the foremost expert on the East Coast. Located at 18,200 York Rd., Parkton, MD 21120, Shaneybrook can be called at (410) 343-0606. Please state whether the panels are 8X24-inches or feet, since that will make a big difference.

Penn State Forest Experts Fight Weeds

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Two researchers in Penn State's School of Forest Resources are studying weeds and other plant problems at two national historic sites in order to make the past seem clearer to visitors.

Larry McCormick, professor of forest resources, and Todd Bowersox, professor of silviculture, are working with the National Park Service to eliminate an exotic weed that is blocking access to the Staple Bend Railroad Tunnel, the first rail tunnel built in the United States. The 1830s-era tunnel was part of the, Allegheny Portage Railroad, which used a series of inclined planes and steam engines to pull canal boats from the Pennsylvania Main Line Canal system up and over the Allegheny Mountains.

McCormick and Bowersox are working to eliminate a large plant called Japanese knotweed, also known as Japanese bamboo or Japanese fleeceflower. The weed has overgrown the original railway trace, making it difficult for visitors to reach the site, as well as obscuring the path of the original tracks.

"Knotweed was probably brought to the United States as an ornamental," McCormick said. "But it can establish itself and outcompete native plants. It's all over Pennsylvania, and the park service has problems with it in other parks."

The plant, which grows well over six feet and has huge, drooping leaves, has proven to be a worthy opponent, according to McCormick, "The plant is a perennial and emerges from a large underground root structure, called a rhizome, that has proven to be pretty resistant to herbicides," he said. "There's so much mass underground that it's hard to kill it."

The Penn State scientists currently are evaluating means of controlling the Japanese knotweed. The next phase of the project will be to recommend a management plan for reestablishing native vegetation on the Staple Bend site, located near Mineral Point in Cambria County.

"For the park service, the most important factor is that the plants do not fit in with the historic scene," said Brian Eick, natural resource management specialist at the Allegheny Portage Railroad National Historic Site. "Visitors should be able to see what the site looked like at the time."

McCormick and Bowersox also are involved in another National Park Service project designed to make a historic scene a bit clearer at the Johnstown Flood National Memorial. The site overlooks the abutments of the earthen dam that gave way in 1889 during a torrential rainstorm, releasing tons of water on surrounding communities and the city of Johnstown, causing more than 2,000 deaths.

The dam, located near St. Michael in Cambria County, was used to form a huge lake that served the members of the South Fork Hunting and Fishing Club, an exclusive group that included such industrial magnates as Andrew Carnegie. To give visitors an idea of the size of the original lake, the Park Service cut away a section of trees and other vegetation near the dam mirroring a section of the lake's original shoreline.

"Once you remove vegetation, the landscape doesn't remain in a static state," McCormick said. "Trees and woody plants will grow back unless you put a management plan into effect to prevent that."

McCormick and Bowersox recommended establishing grasses and other plants that will grow to heights that will still reveal the outlines of the lake. The plan also recommends a variety of native plant species for the site to comply with a National Park Service policy to preserve historic sites as accurately as possible.

"In his case, we can't exactly re-create the original site, because most of that was under water," Eick said. "Penn State has designed a management plan that meets our educational goals and also reduces maintenance."

"This research is exciting for us because it's a chance to use our professional expertise and knowledge to help tell the story of an area of national interest," McCormick said.

Events Planned For Heritage Center

WYOMISSING (Berks Co.) — "Drying and Preserving Herbs" will be presented at the Berks County Heritage Center on Sunday, Aug. 10, at 2 p.m.

A lecture on the harvesting processes of flowers, leaves, and seeds of various herb plants will be presented by local herbalist and home economist, Marion Hull. She will provide an information sheet, some potpourri, and vinegar samples to take home. Participants are required to bring a 4 ounce bottle or jar. Registration and prepayment of $5 are required by Aug. 3. Call (610) 374-8839.

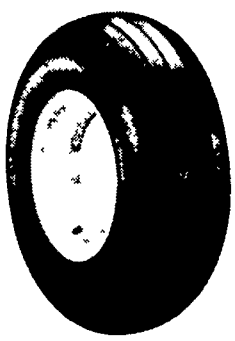
Other events include:

•"Sneak a Peek at the Creek," Berks County Heritage Center, Saturday, Aug. 16, 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Cool off and get wet and wild as you search for such "water critters" as fish, crayfish, freshwater clams, periwinkles, and more. "Porcupine Pat" McKinney of the Schuylkill County Conservation District will lead participants on this wet adventure. This is a great program for children 6 and older and adults. Wear shoes and clothing that can get wet and dirty.

•"Zachary Edwards, Backwoodsman and Pioneer," Berks County Heritage Center, Sunday, Aug. 17, 2 p.m. Meet Zachary Edwards, backwoodsman and pioneer, a contemporary of Daniel Boone. Listen as he weaves a tale of unexpected danger and marvelous adventures about America's growing frontier. Timothy Essig, museum educator at the Daniel Boone Homestead, will offer a glimpse of frontier life during the 18th century, in a first-person character portrayal. This is a great program for the whole family.

NO TIME

FOR DOWNTIME?



Then take a good look at your front tractor tires, and wagon and implement tires. Even though they're small and inexpensive, they can bring your operation to a screeching halt when they need to be replaced. Save time and money by replacing them now with long-wearing Firestone farm tires.

Quality That's Unmatched In The Building Business.

We watch over every step in the manufacture, assembly and construction of your building. Morton operates five manufacturing facilities, strategically located to serve you efficiently.

Our high-volume buying power enables us to purchase the finest raw materials at the lowest possible price. Components for your structure are manufactured, fabricated and assembled under the watchful eyes of quality control experts.

We maintain a fleet of company-owned and operated trucks, enabling our drivers to unload your building materials quickly and safely.

From that point, a crew of company-trained, company-employed, and company-insured construction professionals takes over. They are trained to follow the most efficient and safe construction methods possible, and are supplied with state-of-the-art equipment and quality materials to make your facility something to be proud of for years to come.

Northumberland Farm Wins Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Award

SUNBURY (Northumberland Co.) — Northumberland County conservation district has been notified that the Kenneth N. Jones farm in Rush Township, Northumberland County, was awarded the Region II Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award for 1997. The announcement was made by Diane Carlson, education specialist in the PA Chesapeake Bay Education office in Harrisburg. The award recognizes farm operators who are protecting local water quality, and ultimately the Chesapeake Bay, by implementing exemplary farm management practices, including the application of fertilizer and manure to crops according to soil and manure tests, nutrient management techniques, pesticide management techniques, and conservation planning. Region II also includes Montour, Columbia, Luzerne, Lackawanna, Wyoming, Sullivan, Bradford, and Susquehanna counties.

George Phillips, Chesapeake Bay technician for the conservation district, stated, "I'm real happy the Jone's have won this award. They have been very cooperative with the district, and have shown true concern for the environment in their handling of manure nutrients and installing best management practices."

As a result of winning this award, the Jone's will be honored at an awards luncheon at the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD) executive council meeting at the Embers Inn, Carlisle, on Thursday, July 24, 1997. A slide show of their farm and the three other regional winning farms will be followed by award presentations made by representatives from the PA DEP and PA Department of Agriculture. In addition, they will be guests of the Bay Education office for a "Day on the Bay" outing August 24th and 25th at the Baltimore Inner Harbor. An official and guest from the conservation district office will also participate in the "Day on the Bay" trip for submitting the winning entry.

This marks the 2nd year in a row that a Northumberland County farm has won this award. Strouse Farms of Northumberland won in 1996. A total of 6 Northumberland County farms have received this award since its inception in 1986, including Truckenmiller farms — 1987; Wertz Brothers — 1989; RMD Shultz — 1992; Luke Rebuck — 1994; Strouse Farms — 1996; and Kenneth Jones farm — 1997.

Kenneth N. Jones and his sons, Kenneth H., were also the recipients of the Northumberland County Conservation District Farmer of the Year award last March.

Sire Power Hires Bryant

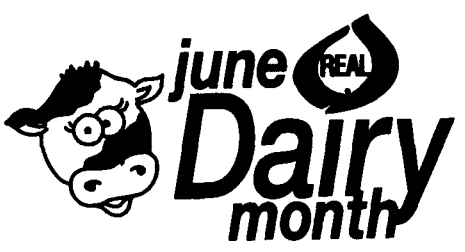
TUNKHANNOCK — Sire Power Inc. announces that Carrie Bryant, Honesdale, has been hired as marketing promotion coordinator.

Her primary responsibilities include designing sire directories, supplements, and price lists as well as developing cooperative newsletters and brochures.

Bryant graduated from Penn State University in May with a dairy and animal science degree and ag communications minor.

An active college and university student leader, she was president of the American Dairy Science Association — Student Affiliate Division (ADSA-SAD) and Dairy Science Club, vice president of the Undergraduate Student Government Academic Assembly and editor of the college newsletter and Dairyman yearbook.

Bryant was recently honored as the ADSA Northeast Region Outstanding Senior and Penn State Dairy Science Outstanding Senior.



FFA Leaders with a Vision

Cowanesque FFA Chapter

The annual parent member banquet of the Cowanesque FFA Chapter was recently held in the high school cafeteria.

A roast beef dinner was prepared and served to 135 members, parents, and guests by the cafeteria staff. The awards program followed in the school auditorium, where the chapter president, Daniel Parker, served as the master of ceremonies.

Chapter secretary, Trina Burrous, introduced the various chapter guests from the school, community, and supporting organizations. Yvonne Doan Zerby, Deborah Palmer Kibbe and Rhick Johnson, past Cowanesque Chapter American Farmers and Robin Baker, Pamela Bloom, Chad Griffin and Bert Ianson, state farmers from 10 years ago, were recognized.

Greenhand certificates and pins were presented to the 1997 Greenhands by David Steinfelt and Ray Gigee. The chapter degree certificates and pins were awarded by Bobbie Jo Palmer and Jason Howell. The Tioga County FFA Degree certificates were presented by Steven Wright and Richard Aldrich. All of the presenters are also chapter officers.

The guest speaker for the evening was Bobbi Jo Robbins, north-central region vice president of the Pennsylvania FFA Association and a member of the Central Columbia FFA Chapter from Bloomsburg. Her message centered around her goal setting and ultimate success in her FFA career. Robbins encouraged the members to get attainable, personal goals and to seek advice of parents and teachers to help them achieve their goals.

President Parker presented the honorary chapter degree to Bobbi Jo, thanking her for her inspiring words and sharing her FFA success story with members.

Retired Cowanesque Valley agriculture teacher Edward Heyler had the honor of recognizing and presenting the recent Keystone Degree recipients with their pins and certificates. Daniel Parker, Steven Wright, Chad Smeltz, and Anthony Wolfe are the 1997 class of state farmers. Steven was also recognized and received the Area Star pin in Specialized Agriculture.

Michael Schwarz, high school principal, recognized the medal winners from the 1996 state level career development events and made mention of the large number of gold awards. Gold medals for the first place state land judging team went to Karl Swimley, Jason Howell, and Patrick Heck. Steven Wright and Ray Gigee earned gold in livestock judging, with Daniel Parker receiving a gold for his involvement as a state delegate on the nominating committee. A bronze medal was earned in the tractor driving event by Brett Gigee.

The coveted chapter leadership medal was awarded to the chapter president, Daniel Parker. Gwen Heyler, for maintaining the highest scholastic average, received the chapter scholarship medal. These awards were presented by David Wishard, career awareness director for the school district.

David Moore, representing Northeastern Farm Credit from the Coudersport office, presented the Tioga County Farm Credit recordkeeping award to Patrick Heck. Heck, a sophomore, had earned a gold medal in poultry laying at the state record contest and was judged as having the top record book in the county. The award of a check and a plaque was earned from his freshman SAE program.

Kay Stuart, dean of students and the 1996 Honorary State Degree recipient, recognized a rather large group of students for their record book awards at the state level. Silver awards were presented to Lee Ann Tice, Christina Erway, Kenny Miles, Steven Wright, and Jason Howell. Bronze medals were earned by Phillip Erway, David Steinfelt, Stacey Miles, Ray Gigee, Debby Briggs, Daniel Parker, and Karl Swimley.

Various chapter proficiency certificates and pins were presented by Martin Heyler and Clair Zerby, agriculture teachers and FFA advisers. The awards were highlighted by the presentation of the Star Greenhand to Lee Ann Tice, Star Chapter Farmer to Patrick Heck, and Star in Agribusiness to David Steinfelt.

The top citrus sales award went to Trina Burrous and spring livestock judging ribbons from the Penn State Block and Bridle to Brett Gigee, Lee Ann Tice, Ray Gigee, Steven Wright, and Patrick Heck.

The chapter officers were recognized for their excellent job and presented with the officer pins. Members of the state winning land judging team were awarded specially designed jackets for their accomplishments and for use as the journey to Oklahoma City for the national contest.

Chapter officers concluded the program by presenting certificates of appreciation to David Wishard, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Burrous, and Richard Patterson. The Outstanding Service Award went to Maxine and Dick House, while honorary chapter certificates were presented to Lynne Coolidge, home economics teacher and Michelle Sama, English teacher at Cowanesque Valley High School. The state degree winners recognized their parents and thanked them for their support and encouragement in FFA with the presentation of the Honorary Chapter Degree.

Manor FFA

On May 8, seven students from the Manor FFA Chapter had the opportunity to participate in the Lancaster County Cooperative Day.

This event was an educational activity designed to stimulate students to learn ways of doing business in America with emphasis on agricultural cooperatives. Students who attended this event included Tyler Swanson, Beth Rupp, Dan Hess, Michelle Scheid, Shawn Charles, Christine Eshelman, and Kevin Boyer.

Throughout the day, students had the opportunity to talk with local cooperative representatives, perform skits, and learn about the basic co-op principles. The students also had the opportunity to participate in "Co-op Trivial Pursui" where they placed second out of six schools.

Each of the students was then required to take a written exam, testing their knowledge of cooperatives. The students also filled out an application which described their activities and work experience. From these two documents, six students from Lancaster County were chosen to attend NICE (National Institute of Cooperative Education).

From the Manor FFA chapter, Tyler Swanson was chosen to attend this national event, which is held in Pittsburgh. Michelle Scheid was also selected to be an alternate for the conference. Seth Perry has been selected to attend as a student advisor.

NICE is a conference which students from all across the United States attend. It will be a great opportunity for students to explore the field of agribusiness.

LIVESTOCK CARE

Since our 4-H'ers are not in the midst of caring for their livestock projects, I asked Wendall Landis, former 4-H member and Lancaster County's extension summer assistant for animal science, to share some thoughts regarding topics related to youth livestock projects.

I hope you learn from his tips on ethical behavior, keeping hogs comfortable, and parasite control in sheep. Following are Wendall's thoughts and suggestions:

Showring Ethics

I recently viewed a video by Jeff Goodwin, a county agricultural extension agent in Dallas, Texas, called "The Line in the Sand." The video dealt with showring ethics in livestock shows.

I felt Mr. Goodwin did an excellent job of conveying the message to 4-H members and their parents just how important ethics are in the showring. The title, "Line in the Sand," represents the division between ethical and unethical practices that are used on the show circuit today. This video helps contestants see that the practice in question is on one side of the line or the other, ethical or unethical.

After reading stories of junior livestock members and their parents feeding project steers clenbuterol, a steroid-like drug that enhances muscular and skeletal make-up, the use of a garden hose to fill a hog to proper weight and a 16 year old who held the head of his lamb while his friend severely beat it so muscles would swell and feel firmer to the judge; I had to wonder what these contestants were thinking. Has the desire to win blurred our vision of right and wrong this badly? I realize however that these cases are not the norm for most junior livestock contestants, but these examples do raise questions about some people's ethical values.

Mr. Goodwin presents four questions in this video that help re-establish the line between ethical and unethical practices in or around the showring. The first thing to ask yourself is: Does the practice violate food and drug administration law? Second: Is it fraud? Third: Does is compromise the welfare of the animal? If the first three questions do not provide an answer for you, then the fourth question will answer it for you. Fourth: Does it relate to real-world agriculture, or in other words is this pracice practical for use in the livestock industry on a daily basis? By answering these questions you can decide for yourself what is ethical and what is not.

Keep'Em Kool

No, for all you 4-H'ers with swine projects. You will want to keep a watchful eye out for heat stress that could hamper your hogs weight gain this summer. Hogs begin to experience heat stress at temperatures of 80-85°F. At this point they must be cooled down to prevent undue stress or even death. Hot weather will reduce performance and cause hogs to eat less, thus resulting in decreased weight gain or even weight loss.

Hogs pass very little moisture through their skin and not near enough to get rid of excess body heat. So, they rely on the environment around them and panting to cool them down. Panting is a form of evaporation that accounts for nearly 40 percent of the total heat loss at 80°F.

One way of keeping your hogs cool and comfortable is to provide adequate shade for them if they are on pasture or outside lots. The higher the elevation of the shade the better as it will catch more breezes. Shade can cut heat stress from radiation by 40 percent. If your hogs are housed in an enclosed building, insulation in the roof or ceiling is important as it will cut down on solar heat build-up. One easy tip is to make sure your hogs have drinking water available at all times because they will drink large amounts in hot wather to keep cool. A self-waterer with a nipple is ideal.

Pasture wallows or mud holes are effective ways of cooling. I had one of these for my hog projects when I was in 4-H and it worked very well. One suggestion is to have this wallow in the shade so that the water stays cooler and the hogs don't have to go into the direct sunlight to use it. Using a garden hose and hosing the animal down is also a good way to cool them down.

Shocking their body by using exceptionally cold water however is not a good idea. Air flowing over the hogs body is another method of cooling them down but the air must be at least 10°F lower than the animal's body temperature in order for it to help.

I hope these tips will help you to achieve the best possible environment for your hogs that promotes high rates of gain.

Parasite Patrol

4-H'ers, if you plan on grazing your lamb projects this summer, one thing to keep in mind is parasite control. Lambs have a tendency to be more susceptible to a parasite problem because they have not built up any resistance to the parasites from previous infections like the older animals have. This is why it is important to have a good deworming program.

While the lambs are on pasture it is recommended that you deworm them every 3-4 weeks. Maintaining a good deworming program now will give you an added edge for when peak infective levels of larvae occur in late summer to early fall. Alternating brands of dewormers is a good idea as different brands treat different types of parasites.

Another way of keeping ahead of worm problems is to treat the lambs with the dewormer and allow it to work through the system. Then once the lambs have passed the worms through their manure, move the lambs to another section of pasture where they won't be in contact with the worms they just passed. Feeding more baled hay and cutting down on the amount of grazing activity the lambs have is also another way to keep ahead of parasite problems.

Signs to watch for in your lambs that are commonly associated with a severe parasite problem are going "off feed" severe weight loss, anemic condition and diarrhea. In less severe cases diarrhea will be intermittent, weight loss will occur or there may be a reduction in weight gain. Subclinical or inapparent parasite cases may show no outward signs that would lead you to think you have a parasite problem, but your lambs may not be growing at their optimum potential.

National FFA Award Winners Tour Costa Rica, Gain Perspective Of Global Agriculture

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — As the agricultural community becomes increasingly global, it is crucial that young people considering careers in the industry understand the opportunities and challenges of international trade.

A group of 39 national FFA award winners will tour agricultural sites in Costa Rica this summer and compare the industry in Central America and the United States. Following an orientation session in Miami, the group will leave on June 18 for an 11-day tour.

"The global marketplace can be a difficult concept for students to grasp. Visiting agribusiness and talking to industry experts in Costa Rica will help students see the similarities to U.S. agriculture and better understand how what happens in Central America can have implications back home," said Larry D. Case, national FFA adviser. "Costa Rica is an ideal agricultural tour site because it includes some of the most diverse agriculture and geography in the wold, and is small enough that the group will be able to see most of the country during the trip."

Seminar participants were selected from national agricultural proficiency award finalists and American Star Farmer and Star in Agribusiness finalists named last November at the 69th National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo. The seminar, in addition to cash awards and plaques, is made possible by business and industry contributions to the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

•Visit Costa Rica's mountainour region, including an exploration of the active volcano Arenal and a dip in the Tabacon Hot Springs.

•Study at Escuela de Agricultura de la Region Tropical Humeda, or EARTH College, with college students from 14 Latin American countries. FFA members will work in the fields at the college and tour part of the 15,000 acre facilities. The EARTH College program includes a tropical rain forest; farming and plantation areas producing bananas, plantain, heart of palm, cassava root, bamboo and a variety of medicinal plants; and a commercial farm with beef cattle, black pepper, manioc, pumpkin and yams.

•Relax on Costa Rica's beautiful beaches.

•Tour a typical coffee plantation and sugar cane production facility, specialties of Costa Rican Agriculture.

•Visit the American Embassy in San Jose.

Seminar leaders are national FFA staff members Greg Egan and Kevin Keith, teacher services specialists, Frank Saldana, student services specialist, Sue Springirth, acting Human and Fiscal Resources Team leader, and Jennifer Messenger, communications consultant; Eugene Eulinger, national FFA treasurer and district supervisor for agricultural education in Missouri, and his wife Marion; and Jerry Peters, professor of agricultural education at Purdue University and a consultant to the National FFA board of directors, and his wife Susan.

Get Your Goat!

Yep, you herd right ... get your goat or someone else's and plan on attending this years Tioga County Fair, in Tioga County. The fair, scheduled for the week of Aug. 4-9, is some time away, but now you have a chance to prepare. You see, this year, the TCF will be unveiling its very first all breeds open goat show. Ribbons and premiums will be awarded to those entries worth as such.

There are seven sections of this show, allowing for anything anyone can show up to enter. The first part of the show, Seciton 1, will be the traditional dairy goat show governed by the American Dairy Goat Association official show rules. Section 2 is the showmanship section with classes for the kids, teens and adults. Section 3, market goat classes, are for any goat that is raised for meat and in conditioned for slaughter. In this section dairy wethers are eligible for competition. The classes are broken down by weights. Section 4, the meat goats, provide classes for the breeding stock. Section 5, hair goats, is another breeding stock class, although the breeding stock in this class is also judged in full fleece. Section 6, exotic goats, will allow the unusual and rare breeds to compete. Finally Section 7 will be just for fun. The just for fun classes are: costume, cart goat, riding goat, and an obstacle course.

The TCF board has recently ruled that all goats must have a rabies vaccine to enter. Have your veterinarian state this on your health certificate.

Goats do not need to be purebred or registered to enter. This is an open goat show and is open to exhibitors of all ages, from any county or state. Exhibitors just need to abide by the general rules of the TCF association and the goat committee rules to enter. The 1997 TCF books are now available. You can obtain one by contacting TCF secretary at (717) 549-8176. You can contact the goat committee chairperson at (607) 458-5795. So if you have a dairy goat, a hairy goat, a fainting goat or a tiny pygmy goat ... get ready, get set, get your goat!

Holsteins Featured Breed At Fair

Holsteins will take the top billing at the 49th Annual Montgomery County Agricultural Fair Aug. 15-23 in Gaithersburg, Md.

As the featured breed, all prize money is doubled from the standard premiums in all Holstein classes. First place will pay $110 with increments to the lowest premium of $22 for 20th place. The Holstein show will be held at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 20.

For the other five dairy breeds, first and second places in the milking cow classes only will receive 13 percent additional prize money. This is in recognition of the extra cost involved in bringing quality milking cattle to the fair. There wil be no additional money paid in heifer or dry cow classes. Prize money starts at $55 for first place in non-milking classes and $62 for milk cows.

Judging all open classes will be Wayne Sliker of Ohio. Rotating in the ring will be Ayrshire and Guernsey judging on Tuesday, Aug. 19 at 1 p.m. and Brown Swiss and Milking Shorthorn on Wednesday, Aug. 20 at 11 a.m. Jersey judging will be Tuesday, Aug. 19 at 6 p.m.

Supreme champion competition, under the spotlight and balloon arches, will be held on Thursday, Aug. 21 at 9 p.m. Providing the $500 purse will be award donors Roscoe and Connie Whipp and a trophy donated by Mr. and Mrs. W.I. King and Colleen Pearson, in memory of Robert Stiles.

Capping off the week will be a Dairy Exhibitors Reception on Saturday, Aug. 23 at 9 a.m. Herdsman's Awards of $100, $75, and $50 respectively will be awarded, provided by award donors Farmers' Co-op of Frederick and Sandy Spring National Bank. Divisions include Open Class 1-8 animals, Open Class more than 8 animals, and 4-H.

Entry blanks and rules are available by calling the Montgomery County Agricultural Center at (301) 926-3100, ext. 205. Address is 16 Chestnut Street, Gaithersburg, MD 20877. Entries are due July 15.

Female Hormone Could Reduce Pig Mortality

COLUMBIA, Mo. — University of Missouri-Columbia (MU) animal scientists have strong evidence that treatments with progesterone, a hormone produced by the ovary, could increase pig litter size and be worth millions to the swine industry.

Pigs have a "progesterone clock" that must keep ticking if a sow is to maintain pregnancy, the scientists said in a report to the Midwest Section of the American Society of Animal Sciences.

Progesterone plays a major role in pig embryo deaths. About 25 percent of pig embryos don't survive the first month of pregnancy.

"It isn't the amount of progesterone. The sow produces plenty — up to 40 times what she needs to maintain pregnancy," said MU researcher Bill Trout.

"What counts is the duration of progesterone exposure to the uterus. If that duration isn't long enough, the uterus won't secrete the extra proteins the embryos need to survive.

"Those extra proteins mean more nutrients for the embryo and make the uterus a more hospitable site for the embryos," said Trout, who conducted the experiments with MU colleagues Tim Safranski and Rebecca Walter.

They found that injections of 200 milligrams of progesterone on day 2 or day 3 of pregnancy increased protein secretions in the sow's uterus. Next they will test whether the increased protein translates into reduced pig mortality.

MU agricultural economist Ron Plain estimated 11.6 million pig litters are born each year. Average litter size is 8.3. Each pig is worth about $15 at weaning.

"If we can increase litter size by one pig, that would translate to $172.5 million to the swine industry," Trout said. "And that would be virtually all profit. You already have a fixed cost for the sow, and she's going to provide the feed for her newborn pigs whether she has a litter of 8.9 or more."

The MU researchers said they are optimistic that progesterone treatments at day two or three of pregnancy will work, and will probably be most effective on first-litter gilts. Sows tend to have fewer embryonic deaths with each succeeding pregnancy.

Progesterone treatments will be especially effective on flush-fed gilts and sows, Trout said. Flush feeding, which means giving animals a high energy ration for two weeks before birthing, increases sow ovulation rate but also results in increased embryonic deaths. As a result, hog producers end up with the same litter size as if they hadn't flush fed.

In the flush-fed sow, the extra feed increases liver blood flow, increasing clearance of progesterone from the uterus. "Thus progesterone is low on the critical days two through four of a sow's pregnancy," Trout said.

The idea that progesterone could reduce pig embryonic deaths is not new. Scientists experimented with the hormone nearly 30 years ago. "But then they didn't know what we know about the sow's progesterone clock," Trout said.

On day 13 of a sow's pregnancy, he explained, all the embryos are signaling the mother she's pregnant. Those signals stimulate production of proteins to make the uterus a hospitable place for the embryo. But sometimes the mother isn't prepared at day 13, because on days 2-4 of pregnancy, she wasn't producing enough progesterone.

"We are banking that progesterone injections at day two will reduce pig mortality," Trout said. "From the hog producer's standpoint, this is an easy, inexpensive procedure because the producer sorts and handles gilts and sows just after they've been bred, anyway."

He pointed out that progesterone is a naturally occurring hormone, so treatments will have no harmful effects on sows or their litters or the pork they produce.

Register Now For Regional 4-H Horse Driving Clinics

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Respected carriage driving judge and clinician Lore Homer will conduct a series of 4-H regional driving clinics throughout Pennsylvania in June.

Clinic participants will learn how to prepare, harness, and drive horses and ponies, with emphasis on proper turnout and safety techniques for handling and driving. Current 4-H driving rules and procedures also will be discussed.

A registered judge for both the American Driving Society and the American Horse Shows Association, Lore Homer has been successful in all phases of pleasure and combined driving.

She has shown the Morgan Open Competition Champion for several years and the 1989 World Champion Morgan in Carriage Driving. At the 1994 Devon Horse Show, she won both the Single Horse Four-Wheel Division and Single Horse Championship.

Clinics will be held on these dates:

•June 23, Crooked Creek Horse Park, Ford City, Armstrong County

•June 24, Over the Rainbow Stables, Coudersport, Potter County

•June 25, Twin Brooks Show Grounds, Dauphin County

•June 26, Northampton County 4-H Center, Northampton County

Each clinic will begin at 3 p.m. and conclude at dusk. Late arrivals will be accepted if prior arrangements are made with clinic coordinators. Because each clinic is limited to 20 horses and carts, preregistration is required by June 16. Verification of a current rabies vaccination also is required for all animals.

Clinic fees are $5 for 4-H members and $10 for non-members with carts and horses or ponies. Spectators will be admitted for $2.

To register, or for more information, contact the following Penn State Cooperative Extension agents or volunteers:

•Mae Hostetter in Armstrong County, (412) 548-3447

•Amy Benson in Potter County, (814) 274-8540

•Fred Rudy in Dauphin County, (717) 921-8803

•Jan Martin in Northampton County, (610) 837-7294

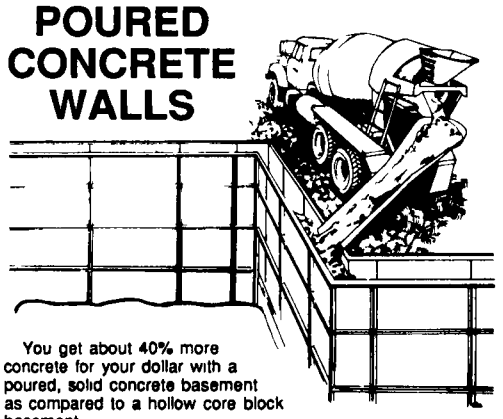
START WITH THE BEST!

POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced

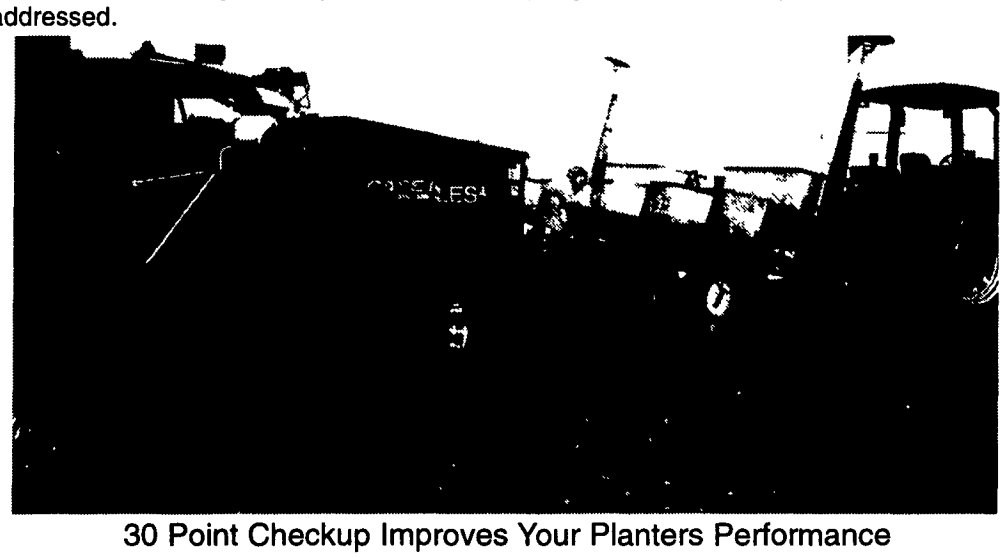
THINK SUMMERTIME, UPTIME SERVICE
For Your Planter or Drill

Binkley & Hurst Bros. planter technicians are through the Spring startup rush - poised, ready to evaluate and service your planter. In the past, many of this areas' best corn and bean growers have taken advantage of our Winter Uptime Planter Service. This Summer we are proposing a different approach.

SUMMERTIME UPTIME PLANTER SERVICE!

It really makes sense if you take a minute to think about it. In winter, your planter is buried behind other equipment in an unheated equipment shed or barn floor. Any questions or problems concerning use of your planter this spring are still fresh in your mind and can be addressed.



30 Point Checkup Improves Your Planters Performance

Put Your Planter In Storage FIELD READY and Rest Easy Between Now And Next Planter Season

5 Disc 83" Cutting Width

Rhino disc mowers feature an easy access outterbar. The innovative design of the outterbar allows access to the disc spindle shaft and gear module without disassembly of the entire outterbar, reducing maintenance costs and downtime. The hardened rock guards are designed to help protect the entire leading edge of the outterbar from damage and, along with the skid shoes, are easily replaceable. A heavy-duty CAT III & Cat II offset three-point hitch made of 4"x6" thick-wall tubing, is standard to provide dependable service. A safety breakaway system is built in to provide mainframe protection against sudden impacts when mowing. With 5" of blade overlap and blade tip speed of 15,814 RPM, Rhino disc mowers provide a clean, smooth cut. Rugged construction and high performance are two reasons Rhino disc mowers are the ideal choice for fast, efficient grass mowing.

AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE

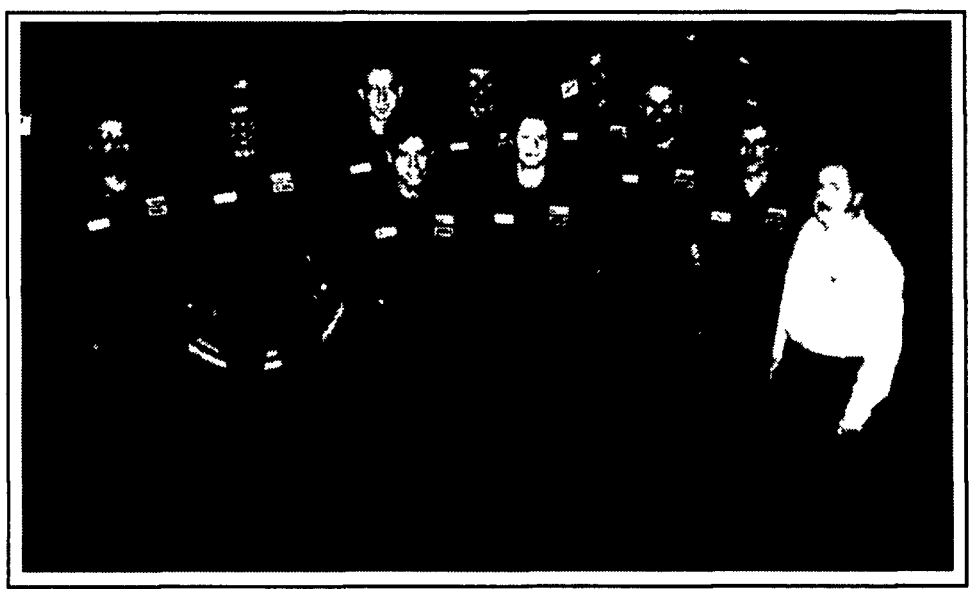
to Case IH AXIAL FLOW Combines

The Axial Flow concept was new in 1977. After twenty years the single rotor design that eliminated straw walkers and increased the threshing and separating area through the use of centrifugal force is still the same. But the technological advances in the 2100 Series make their cousins of 1978 and 1979 seem like antiques.

PRODUCTIVITY, PERFORMANCE, and PREMIUM GRAIN were the hallmarks of the axial flow combine in 1977 and they still are today - - more so because of the steady productivity and performance improvements, made over the past 20 years.



Hoober People are proud of their association with the Case IH Axial Flow combine since the beginning. Our customers know that our commitment to the Axial flow is based upon our ability to make the Axial Flow combine out perform the competition in all crop conditions.

MAKE YOUR NEXT COMBINE AN AXIAL FLOW COMBINE FROM HOOBERS.

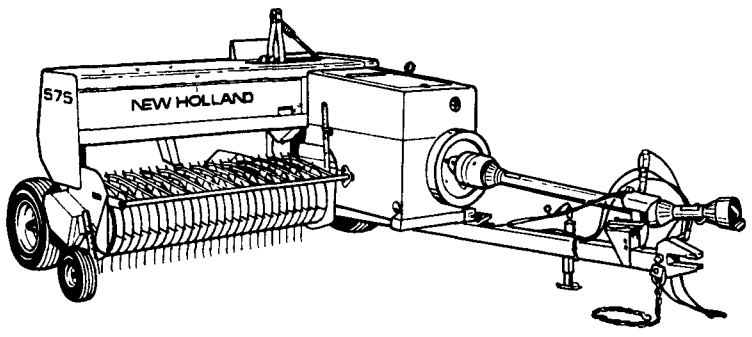
THE HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP

When you're looking for a skid-steer, there's the challengers and then there's the champ. Well say hello to the undisputed champ in the all-new Model LX885 New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader.

It has a 60-horsepower, turbocharged diesel engine for the ultimate in power. Its massive 2,200-lb. operating load picks up where all others leave off. Of course, it has the features you expect from New Holland, such as the best speed, stability, visibility, lift height and dump reach in the industry. Add that to the Pick Up 'n Go™ universal attachment system and there's nothing it can't handle. Stop by today and put the champ to work for you.

NEW HOLLAND

A CLASS ACT



BEST IN THE FIELD

The New Holland "575" square baler tops every baler in its class . for capacity, bale quality and reliability

- Revolutionary rotary feeding system. Mechanically simple, but unbeatable for hay handling.
- Exclusive Wide Super-Sweep " pickup that's 75" wide to get all the hay.
- Heavy-duty materials in the bale case and plunger
- Gear-driven knotters or twisters.
- Increased load capabilities handle extra capacity

Lely Shows the Way with Hay.

Haylage Hits Primetime.

Haylage brings feed value to the farm by preserving protein and improving the digestibility of hay.
Lely has a complete line of hay making equipment.

- Reliable disc mowers with independently sealed drive units to handle your toughest hay conditions.
- Combination rake/tedders for spreading, tedding and windrowing.
- Mower conditioners for gentle and effective hay conditioning that reduces drying time.
- Heavy duty Welger Round Balers with MASTERCUT for slicing hay into dense well-shaped bales.
- McHale Round Bale Wrappers with automatic controls to make it easy to wrap and preserve your haylage.

JOHN DEERE

with 9"x24" roll installed w/#4 cut rolls to process corn silage in field. Just ask your feed man what can be done with rolled corn silage. Every bite of processed corn silage has more punch. It's really a concentrate that feeds like a roughage. Cut silage at 1" to 1 1/4" long. Run through high speed 1/4" cut crimping rolls.

Consider a REAL Open-Top Mixer

- REAL mixing with four large counter-rotating augers for fast, thorough blending of feeds The large augers are designed specifically to handle the feed gently.
- REAL mixing-capacity numbers: You can use much more of the Patz Mixer's struck-level capacity for mixing than with a reel-type mixer
- REAL strength with heavy-gauge steel sides and bottoms for long service life.

Pennsylvania To Host National Meeting On Farm Succession

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Link will host the National Family Farm/ Ranch Transition Network, a coalition of programs that work to foster the next generation of family farms, from June 24-28 at the Landis Valley Museum.

The five-day event will include a tour of several Lancaster County farms, discussion of successful strategies for linking beginning and retiring farmers, and a trip to Washington, D.C. to focus national attention on the need for beginning farmers.

According to Marion Bowlan, who operates Pennsylvania's program, "America's independently owned and operated family farms are flirting with extinction. Many young people are unable to amass the initial capital required to obtain a farm business outright. Compounding this problem is the fact that profit margins for farm businesses has decreased and land values have increased. The future of independently owned and operated farms, and the businesses which rely upon them, depends on young people being able to enter careers in farming."

She noted that 45 percent of the nation's farmers are now 55 or older, and in Pennsylvania, almost a quarter of the state's farms will change hands in the next decade. To address these critical issues, 17 states have developed programs on farm succession, or passing the farm on to the next generation.

The National Family Farm/ Ranch Transition Network is a national coalition that addresses farm succession, and the training and credit needs of beginning farmers. The Network believes that an owner-operator family farm system of agriculture is critical to the health of rural communities and society as a whole. Since the Network values the economic, environmental, and social contributions of these farms it works to develop creative, community-based solutions to assist in their transition to the next generation.

Drum Valve System Helps Company Close Loop On Exposure

NORTHRIDGE, Calif. — In the year since FMC Corp. began using the Micro Matic A/S Drum Valve System in its fleet of returnable plastic insecticide containers, handler safety and environmental security have been nearly perfected, according to a company spokesman.

Randy Krotz, FMC product manager, said the switch from plastic valves and couplers to the stainless steel Drum Valve System was motivated by cold-weather cracking problems with the plastic couplers.

"Imagine you're planting potatoes in 30 degree weather in Idaho," he said, "and you take your coupler and go to clamp down on your returnable container and you get pressure build-up and the plastic cracks and you spill your insecticide. This is not good for the farmer or the manufacturer."

While the Drum Valve System solved the cracking problem, which was the immediate reason for the switch, Krotz said "environmental stewardship" was the larger motive for the change.

"FMC is commited to provide the best containers to steward our products to protect against spills and exposure to the best of our ability," the 12-year FMC veteran said. The Drum Valve System's closed loop virtually eliminates handler exposure and spillage.

Krotz said the Drum Valve System's durability was another strong attraction. "We've gone from a limited life span to a limitless life span," he said. Vern Floen, logistics manager for FMC's agricultural products group, is also pleased with the Drum Valve System's ruggedness. Floen said 60 percent of FMC's fleet of reusable plastic containers has been converted to the Drum Valve System. "It's kind of like the difference between having a lock on your car and no lock on your car," he said. "The Drum Valve is stainless steel and it's much less likely to be broken or damaged."

Floen, who manages FMC's fleet of returnable, reusable containers and directs the largest container refilling facility in the nation, said the Drum Valve design provides easier handling and operation. "The Drum Valve is a one-handed situation," he said. "You can do it over your head or in almost any position. You couldn't do that with the previous system." Once farmers saw the ease of connecting the Drum Valve coupler to the valve, they were sold, Floen said.

As EPA regulations on disposable packaging of liquid chemicals tightened, FMC transferred many of its products to returnable, refillable containers. "Our intention is to move to 100 percent of our Furadan 4F production to returnable containers," Krotz said. The Drum Valve System, as an element in reusable packaging, meets EPA regulations and UN I, II and II guidelines for liquid packaging.

Technician Receives Certification

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Ken Ruhl and Jeff Heistan, mechanics at Messick Farm Equipment, recently completed an advanced service training course offered by Kubota Tractor Corporation.

They were among a select group of technicians who participated in the "VIP Certified Tech" program in "Advanced Hydraulic Diagnosis." A performance based test was given to qualify for certification.

Doug Breneman and Stacey Grimm, service managers at Messick Farm Equipment noted that the course was used to further improve the already excellent skills of the service staff.

Wheat Growers Look West For Weed Solutions

MOORESTOWN, N.J. — This summer, John Pew Jr. is looking west, to Great Plains wheat country, for a solution to a worsening problem with Canada thistle on his farm near here.

Like many farmers across the region, Pew has worked hard to slow erosion and conserve soil moisture by reducing the amount of tillage on his operation. As he has shifted to less tillage, Canada thistle has taken a strong foothold on many of his acres.

"Thistles are running away from us in this part of the country," said Pew. "It's especially bad in no-till. And we no-till everything."

After years of frustration, Pew thinks he may have found a solution, courtesy of farmers such as David Staveteig. Staveteig grows wheat on more than 1,000 acres in eastern North Dakota, less than 75 miles from the Canadian border.

For the past several years, Staveteig has been whittling down a heavy Canada thistle population by treating wheat with a herbicide a week or two before harvest. The treatment,with Roundup Ultra™ herbicide, provides excellent control of Canada thistle, quack grass, and annual weeds which may have escaped early season control, said Staveteig. It also makes for a faster, more-efficient harvest.

The herbicide, at one quart per acre, typically is applied to wheat 7 to 14 days before harvest, when the average seed moisture is at or below 30 percent. This is the hard dough stage when a thumbnail impression remains in the seed. The treatment, which should be made in 5 to 10 gallons per acre of water, is not allowed on wheat grown for seed because germination can be affected.

"It's really good on Canada thistle and quackgrass," said Steveteig, Thompson, N.D. "The following year, I usually don't have any Canada thistle in fields I treated the year before."

To Pew, that almost sounds like a miracle.

"Thistle is hard to kill, even when a second crop is planted following wheat," said Pew, who typically follows wheat with double-crop soybeans.

"We combine our wheat pretty high because we don't want the straw on the ground to plant through," he said. "That leaves the thistle standing, but the burndown herbicide doesn't get it all. I don't think the Canada thistle absorbs very much herbicide because it doesn't have much leaf surface area after combining."

A basic understanding of Canada thistle physiology helps explain why pre-harvest Roundup Ultra treatments can be so effective, said Dr. William Curran, state extension weed specialist at Pennsylvania State University.

"Canada thistle is a cool-season perennial," he said. "Just before wheat harvest, it is in the bud to bloom stage, so it is very susceptible to Roundup Ultra. Quackgrass is another cool-season perennial where good control could be expected by treating at this time. 2,4-D also is labeled for pre-harvest application and also can help control Canada thistle, but it doesn't have any effect on quackgrass or other grasses."

Researchers in the Northeast haven't conducted extensive research on preharvest Roundup Ultra. But in Canada, where the preharvest application was pioneered, research shows that control of cool-season perennials is excellent.

The possibility of getting Canada thistle under control has Pew excited. He's planning to try the application on a 44-acre field that's heavily infested with Canada thistle.

"It's thick like alfalfa in some places," he noted.

He plans to apply the herbicide a week or more before harvest with a Patriot sprayer with 75-foot boom and narrow-profile tires.

Dual 8E Receives Crisis Exemption For Processing Tomatoes

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania processing tomato growers will be able to use the herbicide Dual 8E on their crop this year to help control eastern black nightshade.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture issued the crisis exemption after learning that the federal Environmental Protection Agency would not act on the state's request for an emergency exemption until mid-June when it would be too late to benefit growers.

Eastern black nightshade, a member of the same botanical family as tomatoes, is not controlled by other herbicides cleared for use on tomatoes. Dual 8E controls the nightshade very well and has been shown to be safe for use on tomatoes in research done at Penn State by Dr. Michael Orzolek.

Novartis Crop Protection, the herbicide's manufacturer, is working on securing a national label for the use of the herbicide on tomatoes. It is already labeled for use in Canada. However, the registration process has been lengthened by the enactment of the Food Quality Protection Act of 1996, so it will at least be 1998 before a national label is approved. Meanwhile Ohio recently issued a crisis exemption for Dual, giving Ohio processing tomato growers a competitive edge over Pennsylvania growers.

Orzolek's request to the Department of Agriculture for an emergency exemption was supported by the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association and Furman Foods, the state's major tomato processing firm.

Processing snap bean growers will also be able to again use the herbicide Reflex on their snap bean crop thanks to an emergency exemption approved by the Environmental Protection Agency. This herbicide has been shown by Orzolek's research, supported by the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program and the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, to effectively control certain weeds in snap beans. It is about the only herbicide that suppresses horsenettle in snap beans. Horsenettle produces poisonous berries that are difficult to remove from the snap beans at the processing plant, forcing the processing company to reject loads of snap beans containing horsenettle berries.

Growers who would like more information on the use of these herbicides should contact their county extension agent or the Pennsylvnaia Vegetable Growers Association at (717) 473-8468.

Deere Adds Large-Capacity Model to Sprayer Lineup

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has expanded its sprayer line with the addition of the 185-hp 4700 Self-Propelled Sprayer.

This new-from-the-ground-up sprayer is designed to meet the needs of commercial-applicators and farming operations that require large capacity and high application speeds. The 4700 Sprayer also provides a smooth ride, on-the-go tread adjustment, and easy-to-use controls.

The 4700 Sprayer features a 750-gallon polyethylene solution tank, located above the axles to avoid crop contact. A stainless steel tank is available. The large-capacity tank permits treating more rows between fills and contributes to greater efficiency for high-rate applications of fertilizer and fungicide.

The three-range hydrostatic transmission provides infinitely variable speeds up to 17 mph for fieldwork, and up to 28 mph for road transport, at rated engine rpm. Twin hydrostatic pumps supply oil to the wheel motors. In the two-wheel-drive high range, each plump drives one front wheel. In the four-wheel-drive low and medium ranges, each pump delivers oil to the wheels at opposite corners of the machine to maximize tractive efficiency in soft and muddy conditions. To reduce stopping distances while traveling in the high and mediuim ranges, the transmission automatically shifts to low ranges when the operator returns the hydro control lever to neutral.

The John Deere 4700 Self-Propelled Sprayer is designed to meet the needs of commercial operators and farming operations that require large capacity and high application speeds. The 185-hp sprayer features a 750-gallon solution tank, four wheel air-spring suspension, on-the-go tread adjustment, and the SprayStar™ spray-rate control system.

A large air spring and independent strut at each wheel effectively smooth out rough fields, which enhances operator comfort. The air-suspension system also permits faster spraying speeds, which increase productivity. Ride quality is adjusted by adding or removing air through the air-stem valve on the top of each spring. Suspension-system components are located above the axles to minimize crop contact and allow for a clear view of where the tire meets the ground.

Wheel spacing from 120 to 152 inches is adjusted on-the-go from the cab without tools. Wheel-spacing indicators are conveniently located for easy viewing by the operator from inside the cab. A hydraulic tie-rod automatically maintains proper toe-in when wheel spacing is adjusted.

Farm-Rite, Inc. Leads the Field in Irrigation Systems

Shiloh, NJ - The cool spring we had was deceptive. The dog days of summer are here complete with the usual crop searing heat. Summer droughts are just around the corner, and one way for growers to be prepared for the wrath of old man sol' is to arm themselves with a well designed and efficient irrigation system.

Farm-Rite, Inc., a one-stop store for agricultural equipment, supplies and services located in Shiloh, NJ and authorized dealer of Case IH products, is a recognized leader in the design, installation and service of irrigation systems. Farm-Rite offers a variety of Case IH Irrigation Power Units. The Case IH Power Units are the most dependable source available and can provide the necessary water supply to handle everything from center-pivot systems to drip irrigation.

Farm-Rite's reputation as a leader in irrigation systems has also grown as a result of its competent staff. Fred Tichy, Irrigation Sales Manager, heads a qualified team of experts and is one of the few people in New Jersey certified by the Irrigation Association as a Certified Irrigation Designer for Drip Systems. Fred and his staff design, install and service systems to fit any grower's needs.

What started out as a small dealership selling farm equipment to local farmers in Shiloh, NJ has now become the only full-line Case IH tractor dealership in the state and one of the most diversified farm supply stores on the East Coast featuring combines, tillage and forage equipment, lime and fertilizer sales and application and a grain brokerage service. Farm-Rite, Inc. offers a wide variety of products and services which serve all aspects of the agriculture industry from greenhouse operators to nurserymen, grain farmers to fruit and vegetable farmers, homeowners and "week-end farmers."

Since 1966, the company has made a number of changes and expansions to provide new product lines, larger inventories and a comprehensive service plan to better serve their customers.

"Satisfied customers" is what Donnie Strang, General Manager of Farm-Rite, Inc., calls the most important goal of the business. "We go out of our way to find whatever it is the customer needs and provide the follow-up and service necessary to assure customer confidence in our products. We sell only quality products and supplies and that is why our return customer rate is so high."

Acres Accepted Into Reserve Program

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Richard Troutman, chairman of the Berks County FSA Committee, announced that 336.7 acres were accepted in Berks County for the new environmentally sensitive cropland conservation reserve program (CRP).

"Last February Secretary Glickman pledged that this sign-up would be the first step toward a new CRP that would provide more environmental benefits over the next 10 years than the old program did over the last 10. That pledge has been fulfilled," Troutman said. "We set out to enroll land that would yield the highest environmental benefits, keep productive cropland growing food and fiber, and be fair to taxpayers in providing the most environmental bang for the buck.

"We are very impressed with the number of people willing to make their exciting CRP contracts more environmentally sensitive," Troutman said. Much of this land will be planted to new and improved cover that will help control wind and water erosion as well as provide significant wildlife benefits.

The temporary retirement of this land will not have substantial effect on commodity prices, farm income, or the United States' ability to supply world markets with agricultural products.

The CRP is a cost-effective, voluntary program in which individuals and the Federal Government cooperate to improve the environment. Landowners or operators establish long-term resource-conserving practices on land that is highly erodible or otherwise environmentally sensitive. In exchange, they receive 10 to 15 years of annual rental payments as well as cost-share assistance in adopting and maintaining those practices. The program is administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation through the Farm Service Agency (FSA).

"For land that was not accepted in this CRP signup," Troutman said, "USDA will offer technical assistance toward improving potential participants' CRP offers in preparation for continuous sign-up and for the next general sign-up this fall."

Sow Behavior Can Help Predict Reproductive Traits

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Good tempered sows may also be good for the wallet.

Behavior traits can help tell which sows will be the most productive, said Keith Irvin, Ohio State University animal scientist.

Irvin, who has studied hog behavior for 15 years, has come up with eight ways to measure how a sow's actions relate to her ability to produce healthy piglets; sow temperament with pigs, sow temperament with workers, condition of sow at farrowing, east of farrowing, milking problems, strength of pigs, overall mothering score and crate adaptability score.

Temperament refers to a sow's level of comfort with and attitude toward its piglets or people. Condition at farrowing looks at how fat or thin the sow is at the time it gives birth. Ease of farrowing describes how difficult birth was, whether assistance was needed and how much time elapsed between birth of the first and last piglet.

A sow that is cross with her piglets also is cross with people, and this poor temperament can mean poor survival for the piglets, Irvin said. Easily irritated sows also tend to be excessively fat at farrowing.

"A sow that is extremely fat at farrowing will have a higher probability of experiencing a delayed and difficult birth," he said.

Poor temperament also affects the supply of milk at birth. Sows with no milk problems usually have an increased number of piglets born alive, a better survival rate after 21 days and larger piglets at weaning, Irvin said.

"Sows with a good temperament often have stronger piglets, no milking problems and a desirable mothering score," he said.

Researchers evaluate piglets at 21 days after birth and consider the number of piglets, piglet size, the uniformity of the litter, their overall appearance and the sow's behavior when they determine mothering scores. Sows with good mothering scores usually have no milk problems and an easier farrowing. A sow that has an easy birth has more pigs born alive, stronger pigs and a better survival rate at 21 days, Irvin said.

Sows are often put into crates — pens that restrict their movement — during and for several days after birth to prevent them from accidentally laying on their piglets, and so prooducers can easily care for the sow and piglets.

Crate adaptability score refers to the sow's ability to regularly get up and down or in and out of the crate. Sows that adapt well to crates often have heavier piglets after 21 days, no milking problems and a superior mothering score.

"You can look at pork production subjectively and be able to predict objective measurements, such as piglet weight at birth, 21 days and at weaning," Irvin said. "And I pretty much found the same things regardless of breed."

Using sow behavior to help make production decisions can save a producer the time it takes to frequently weigh piglets, as well as the cost of purchasing the equipment to make those measurements. But Irvin warns that while behavior can help predict the best sows, producers who want to make genetic improvements should still weight their piglets.

"Behavior is a good indicator of which are the best sows, but it should not totally substitute weighing," he said.

Swine behavior research is conducted at Ohio State's Western Branch of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center. This research is ongoing, because new technology and new genetics constantly change the pork industry, Irvin said.

"The genetics of the pig population is always changing, and the way a pig reacts in the future may be different from how it will react now," he said. "There's more interest in behavior today than when I started 15 years ago."

RING-DRIVE SILO UNLOADER

with new Polar Claw™ chain

Distributor to deflect feed when filling for improved packing. For larger silos, a motorized kicker can be added

Polar Claw™ and the Polar Claw™ logo are trademarks of Patz Sales, Inc.

- Blower for easy servicing
  - Replaceable lower blower band with extra-thick, 1/4-inch steel.
  - 4 swinging, adjustable, cupped paddles with stainless steel pins
  - Double-groove pulley with taper bore hub.
- An optional independent electric motor rotates the unloader and distributor while filling.
- Chain guide wheel mounting to track silo wall closely.

Big 9-foot drive ring flanged to the inside for added strength

- The Polar Claw is ideal for frozen and hard-packed silage. The cutters-and-claws chain aggressively tears silage loose and quickly moves it to the blower. Fast (634 ft /min) chain speed for high-volume delivery

Ideal replacement unloader for your suspension.

- 3-cable tripod
- 3-cable hexagod

Add these new features to your Model RD-820 unloader easily with a RD-2100 K I P (Keep It Patz) package.

Purchasing a Model 2100 is easy with financing from Patz Credit. Ask for all the details from your full-service Patz dealer

NOTHING WORKS LIKE A SILO

"HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding. So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.

"Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

"PROTECT YOUR CORN FROM THE HEAT."

These farmers from Virginia "switched" to our poured concrete silo to store their shelled corn and said: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture corn ever." (Cave View Farm, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.)

MORE GUTS MORE GLORY

Volumaxx™ unloader — because you expect the best from the leader.

Bring your old Jamesway® ring-drive up-to-date with a Re-New™ Kit. Ask your dealer for more details. He's the best in the business!

MORE Stainless Steel

The new Volumaxx™ unloader impeller features reversible, adjustable stainless steel paddles, a beefed-up 3/16" stainless steel impeller band in the critical wear areas and a stainless steel auger shroud cover. More stainless steel for longer wear and low maintenance!

MORE Protection

The new Volumaxx unloader and Re-New Kit are covered by the exclusive Jamesway three-year warranty. We call it C.A.P. (Customer Assurance Protection). That's peace of mind.

76 Cow Total Ventilation System - Denver, PA

Lapp's Barn Equipment can install a high-performance/high efficiency tunnel ventilation system in your barn. A tunnel ventilation system will give you an even air flow throughout your barn of 2-5 mph. This gives you the advantage of better controlling temperature to give your cows more comfort which means more milk!! Also, a tunnel ventilation system eliminates circulating fans, provides summer and winter ventilation and controls fly problems! An optional unit can even automate your ventilation so you will never even have to worry about it when you're not there, so you can concentrate on other things!

At Lapp's, we sell high quality ventilation systems manufactured by Acme Engineering. Acme products feature such things as

- Galvanized Construction
- Wide Cambered Propeller
- Rivited Blades
- Unique Captured Bearings
- Vertical Support Frame
- Screens Pre-cut
- Totally Enclosed Motors
- Optional Discharge Diffuser Cone
- Optional Belt Tightener

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last

Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

Beitzel Spraying is now distributing:

SAFECIDE® BRAND IC

For the control of darkling beetles, hide beetles and flies in poultry houses and for control of fire ants

Advantages:
- Efficacious–boron-based SafeCide® Brand IC kills larvae and adults. Breaks the beetle life cycle and reduces diseases carried by beetles
- Contains an extremely safe and effective pest control agent (99% orthoboric acid)– larvae and beetles die 3 to 5 days after contact and ingestion.
- Provides long-lasting residual results. Keeps on working up to 12 months – longer than most available products.
- Provides an effective barrier. Kills larvae and adults as they emerge.
- Cost effective – low cost based on per day of activity.
- Can be applied as a dust or spray. Flexible application options let SafeCide® Brand IC fit easily into your particular management program.
- EPA approved, ecologically friendly– non-carcinogenic, no toxic residues. Safe to be applied by humans.
- Is field proven. Field studies* show heavily infested farms treated with SafeCide® Brand IC have better feed conversion rates, increased weight gains, greater livability, and fewer condemnations than untreated farms.
- No insecticidal resistance reported.
- Retards the growth of Aspergillus in the litter.
- Approved for use in the control of fire ants and flies.

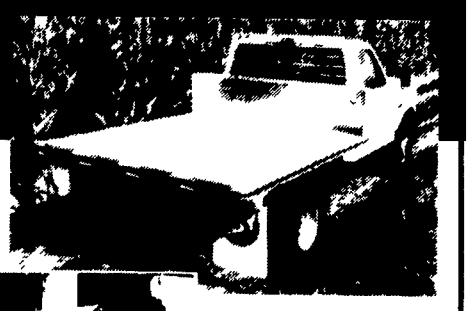
EBY BUILDS IT



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in.

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

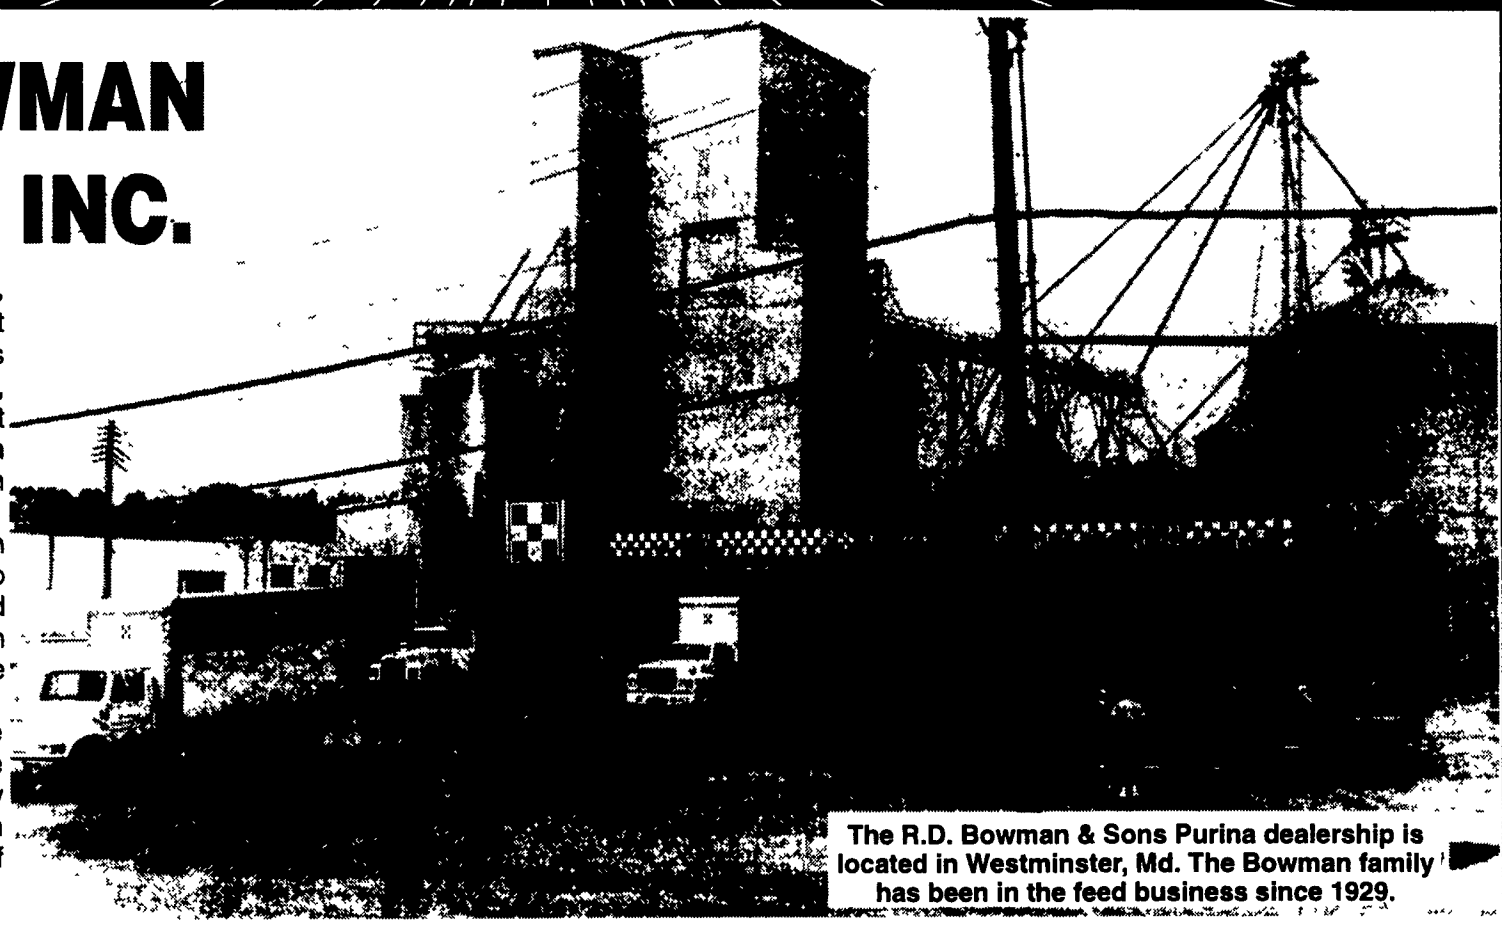
PURINA PROFILE

R.D. BOWMAN & SONS, INC.

The R.D. Bowman & Sons, Inc., Purina dealership at Westminster, Maryland, has been in business since 1929, first at Union Mills and then at the present location when this new facility was built in 1963.

Dale and Dirk Bowman and their sister Dawn Devivo are the present owners and represent the third generation of the Bowman family in the feed business.

Today, they have a large dairy clientele and horse business. In addition, they feed 1,500,000 layers. With the growing expansion of development in Carroll County out from Baltimore, the retail store business is also expanding to service the growing number of backyard farmers in the area.



The R.D. Bowman & Sons Purina dealership is located in Westminster, Md. The Bowman family has been in the feed business since 1929.

"Purina is basically a nationally recognized company with good quality products that have been developed through good research support," Dale said. "The company has excellent consultants, and they work closely with their dealers and with our customers."

Since Purina is on the cutting edge of technology, they can help improve their customers' farm income. In agriculture, you need to keep an open mind, and Purina does this.

The Bowmans believe agriculture is on the verge of another revolution, and farmers who can continue in business will soon see a great return of agriculture's elevated position in the minds of the public.

"Ag will change in the future," Dale said. "But we plan to stay up with the changes and be a viable supplier of products and services that will be needed. Our business is a hands-on business. We have knowledgeable people here who can help our customers. We have been in the area for a long time and people seem to feel good about dealing with us."

"Our customers' success is the key to our future success. Most of all we thank our customers for their business, and we hope to be able to help them to succeed as farmers in the future."
